ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Bowers, Trafalgar House, Dalkey, return sincere thanks to their kind friends who sympathised with them in their recent bereavement, and beg this acceptance of acknowledgment.

Mr. Dale and family, Mill Park, Enniscorthy, desire to return their sincere thanks to the many friends who sent wreaths, telegrams, and letters of sympathy in their recent sad bereavement.

Miss Farrelly, 82 Rathgar road, Dublin, returns her very sincere thanks to the many friends who so kindly extended their sympathy to her in the recent loss she has sustained through the death of her beloved, life-long friend, the late Miss Mylod.

Miss O'Toole, 167 Botanic road, desires to thank most sincerely the many kind friends who sent telegrams, letters, and messages of sympathy in her recent sad bereavement, and trusts this notice will be accepted as a grateful acknowledgment.

IN MEMORIAM.

BAGOT—In loving memory of Melville Keay Bagot, died 8th September, 1921. Dearly loved, sadly missed, by mother, sisters, brother.

BAGOT—In loving memory of Charlotte Bagot, died 8th September, 1923; also her daughter, Lottie, died 6th March, 1923.—Chattie.

BARRY WALSH—September 8, 1915, at Calais, Stephen Barry Walsh, M.D., D.P.H., Lieutenant, R.A.M.C., third son of Stephen Barry Walsh, Kilmalock, County Limerick. Sacred Heart of Jesus, have mercy on his soul.

DE SALES—In loving memory of my dear wife, Margaret De Sales, who died September 8th, 1923.

DUNNE—In loving memory of my dear mother, Kate Louisa Dunne, who died at her residence, 29 South William street, 8th September, 1919, last surviving sister of the late Rev. T. R. Conway, Drummully Rectory, County Cavan; also my dear father, Edward Dunne, ex-R.I.C., who died 15th February, 1912.
What though in lonely grief I sigh
For those beloved, no longer nigh;
Submissive still do I reply:
"Thy will be done." Rose.

EARL—In ever-loving memory of Thomas Earl, Ballycanew, who fell asleep 8th September, 1915.
When alone in our sorrow and bitter tears flow,
There stealeth a dream of sweet long ago;
And unknown to the world he stands by our side
And whispers these words: "Death cannot divide."

GREEN—In ever-loving memory of my beloved husband, Thomas George Hennis Green, who entered into his rest on September 8th, 1926, at his residence, Friedlands, Fortwilliam, Belfast.
Our way has parted
Only for a while.

O'Connell Bridge
(Civic Week).

BUILDING & RECONSTRUCTION

PREVIOUS ARTICLE: 25 : 8 : 1927. NEXT ARTICLE: 22 : 9 : 1927.

DECORATIVE ARCH ON O'CONNELL BRIDGE.

The temporary structure which is being erected on O'Connell Bridge for Civic Week is not intended as a specimen of street architecture, but rather as a decorative feature of architectural character. As it will have a brief existence the most suitable material for ready erection was wood. If a longer existence were intended it would have been constructed in patent plaster. The cost influenced the material selected to a great extent, and the estimate submitted by Messrs. G. and T. Crampton, Ltd., was a particularly favourable one, at a figure of a little over £1,450, with extras value for about £300.

The erection was started on the site on the 24th August, and it is expected to be complete several days before the opening date of Civic Week, September 17th. It is hoped the effect will be of garden treillage character, having profuse covering of flowers and garlands, and the flags and bunting, in addition, are being supplied by Messrs. Clery and Co.

The structure will be finished in brilliant white paint, with the treillage portions picked out in Saorstat green and relief provided by flowers and bunting.

The total length is 150 feet, and the maximum height in the centre 28 feet. As it is placed outside the island walk in the centre of the bridge it will be no obstacle to pedestrian or vehicular traffic. No roofing is intended to the structure, as it was considered desirable to omit this in case of leakage in wet weather.

The shields on the balustrade represent the Arms of the Port and Docks Board and the Chamber of Commerce, and the ovals represent the Municipal Arms.

ITEMS.

South Tipperary Board of Health accepted the tender of Messrs. Barry and Cavanagh, Tipperary, at £170, for repairs to Tipperary Workhouse.

***

The Engineer, Mr. J. Connolly, has reported that the Fever Hospital at Clonmel is urgently in need of repairs, which he estimates will cost £850.

***

Galway County Council accepted the tender of Mr. W. Simons, Galway, at £227, for the erection of an old aerodrome shed, as a shelter for road plant and machinery.

***

Nenagh Urban Council have decided to leave over until next spring the extension of the public water supply, because the tenders received exceed the estimates by £2,000.

***

Limerick Corporation accepted the tender of Mr. P. Molloy, Church street, Limerick, at £16,009, for laying reinforced concrete in O'Connell avenue, Sarsfield bridge, Sarsfield street, Upper William street, and Mulgrave stree .

PLANS FOR BUILDING WORKS IN DUBLIN.

The following plans for new buildings and works of reconstruction have been approved by Mr. Horace T. O'Rourke, City Architect:

West road (cattle shed)—Thomas Wood.

101 Parnell street (storey over stores)—P. Clarke.

58 South Great George's street (rebuilding)—M. J. Doran.

St. Patrick's Schools, Drumcondra (sanitary accommodation).

Howth road (shop and residence)—Hugh Kennedy.

Middle Abbey street (new premises)—Plaza, Ltd.

12 Marino Crescent (2 shops)—D. Ferguson.

"Brandon," Howth road (garage, temporary)—M. O'Connor.

CAUSES OF DAMPNESS IN HOUSES.

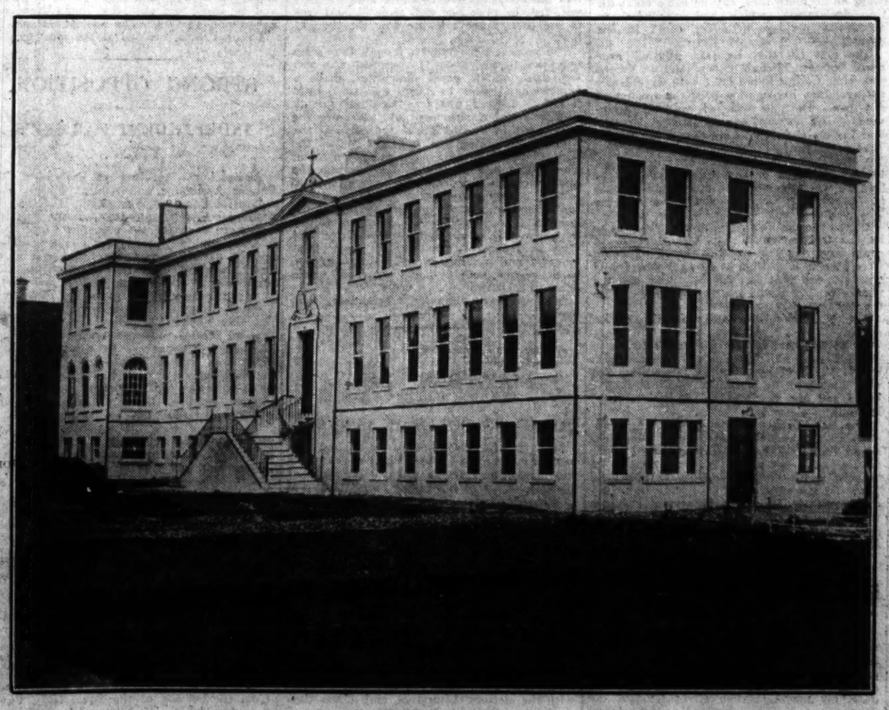
INQUIRY BY COMMITTEE OF ARCHITECTS.

Many prominent members of the Royal Institute of British Architects are busily engaged just now on an inquiry, covering both England and Scotland, into the causes of dampness in houses, which, according to a recent report of the British Medical Association, is responsible in large measure for rheumatic heart affections in children. The investigation has been proceeding for some months, and a special sub-committee of the Science Standing Committee of the Institute is now faced with the task of studying the returns that have been collected and drawing its conclusions thereupon.

Mr. J. E. Franck, an architect in Lincoln's Inn, who, as chairman of the sub-committee, has given much attention to the subject, stated that the evidence that had been collected was being sifted, and there would be some surprising revelations of the state of houses in many parts. In some instances the proportion of damp houses which might seriously prejudice the health of the occupants, and especially of young children, was one in five. "The question of the damp house," he added, "is really a national one, because good and healthy housing is all-important. Damp houses are undoubtedly taking toll of the nation's health, and we are trying to find the root causes of the trouble and devise plans to overcome the difficulties.

"What we have to bear in mind is that any proposals made must be within the scope of the means of the ordinary citizen, and it has to be recognised that, if expenditure is involved above the standard of the usual speculatively-built house, it is for his benefit. It has to be remembered that in certain exposed districts the usual precautions may not be sufficient, and a house can be put up in soil and surroundings that ordinarily might influence dampness, and yet be perfectly dry if proper attention is paid to the essentials—special walls, foundations, fitments, and roof. Under the Town Planning Act of 1919 there was provision for a relaxation of the building by-laws, and the question is how far the lifting of the restrictions is likely to operate in favour of the general health of the country. There is an enormous amount of work to be done to collect the data, classify it, and draw conclusions therefrom, and a very long time will probably elapse before a report can be issued. When this is done, it will be found to be of great interest and importance."

NEW ADDITION TO THE CONVENT AT ARKLOW.



The new addition to the convent at Arklow consists chiefly of classrooms, refectory, and dormitories.

The basement or lower ground floor is occupied by kitchen, sculleries, domestic economy kitchen, science room, bathrooms, etc. The ground floor contains a large refectory and several classrooms, and the top floor is chiefly taken up with dormitories and an infirmary. The whole building is equipped throughout with the most up-to-date sanitary arrangements.

Special provision has been made to meet the modern demands of secondary education by allotting separate rooms, complete in all respects, with the latest equipment for science, domestic economy, and laundry work.

The overall length of the building is 148 feet, and its average width is about 46 feet. The greatest height from ground floor to parapet is 44 feet.

The construction consists of a steel framework, supporting concrete floors and walls, and the roof is a flat one, covered with asphalt. Externally, the walls are treated with plaster, which has been made to resemble Portland stone, both in colour and texture.

Generally speaking, the floors are finished with oak wood block, except the kitchens, sculleries, etc., which are tiled.

An important feature in connection with this building is the speed with which it was erected, the foundation having been laid early in November last, and it is now ready for occupation. This is chiefly due to the construction, which, although quick and easy in erection, is absolutely permanent.

The building was designed and supervised by John J. Robinson, F.R.I.A.I.

The general building contract was carried out by Messrs. T. and R. Macken, Synge street Works, Dublin.

Mr. James Dornan, M.Inst.C.E., A.M.I.N.A., was consulting engineer in charge of heating, lighting, and water supply.

The heating and lighting have been carried out by Messrs. Haden.

BALLINCOLLIG HOUSING SCHEME.

At a meeting of the Southern Committee of the Cork County Board of Health, the Engineer, Mr. B. O'Flynn, reported that he had inspected the houses in the military barracks at Ballincollig, which it was proposed to convert into dwellings. There were 25 houses in three blocks; each of those contained a living room and scullery on the ground floor and two bedrooms on the upper floor. They were too small to accommodate a family, and he would suggest that three of them should be converted into two houses by adding to the existing house two rooms on the ground floor of adjoining house, giving the two upper rooms to the next house. This would give two blocks of five houses (one larger than the other) and one block of six houses (all the same size). The cost of alteration and renovation would be about £295 each for 16 houses. In addition there was a block of twelve two-storey houses, the uper and lower floors being separate, the former being approached from an iron balcony. These could be altered to make eight two-storey houses with four bedrooms. The cost would be about £280 each for eight houses. He did not think that it would be possible to obtain an economic rent from any except those employed in the city, unless a sufficient quantity of land were attached to each house to provide small holdings of 10 to 15 acres. The ground was available, but nothing was known of the terms on which the house and land could be acquired.

It was decided that the Secretary should inquire as to the rent which would be accepted for the buildings and land.

TENDERS FOR TULLAMORE HOUSES.

Tullamore Urban Council received the following tenders for the erection of nine houses on the old barrack site:—

Mr. William Flynn, Killeigh—Concrete houses, £3,239; brickwork, £3,374; rubble masonry, £3,600.

Charles Doyle, Harbour street, Mullingar—Concrete, £2,880; brickwork, £3,060; rubble masonry, £3,430.

Duffy Brothers, Tullamore — Concrete, £2,880; brickwork, £2,984 15s.; masonry, £3,141 10s.

The tender of Messrs. Duffy Brothers was accepted at £2,984 15s. for the erection of brick houses, which were considered by the Council more suitable than concrete. It was decided to ask the L.G.D. to sanction an increased loan to cover the cost of the work.

TENDERS FOR KILLARNEY SCHOOLS.

Kerry County Technical Committee accepted the tender of Mr. Maurice Hannan, Listowel, for the construction of the Technical Schools at Killarney, his net price, after deductions, being the lowest at £2,993. Three other tenders were received, viz.—Messrs. Galvin and Sons, Killarney, £3,290; Mr. Coffey, Middleton, £3,167, and Mr. O'Sullivan, Killorglin, £3,360.

DUBLIN NOTES.

The tender of Mr. Thomas Murphy, at £932, for alterations to heating installation at Charleville Mall Library has been accepted.

***

The City Commissioners have sanctioned the erection of a projecting glass canopy over the entrance to the Metropole premises in Prince's street.

***

The tender of Messrs. Bolger and Tierney, at £1,948, for repairs to the roof of the Fruit and Vegetable Market was accepted by the City Commissioners.

***

For the erection of steel shelving at the Charleville Mall Library the tender of Messrs. The Library Bureau, Ltd., Manchester, was accepted, at £277.

***

For resurfacing Tyrconnell road with bituminous concrete, the tender of Messrs. T. J. Moran and Co., at £3,772, was accepted. Under this contract the maintenance period has been reduced to one year.

***

The South Dublin Rural District Council has approved a report of the engineer on the proposed provision of a reservoir for the district, at an estimated cost of £29,000, water to be procured from the Rathmines Council's reservoir at Bohernabreena.

***

The Ministry of Local Government has agreed to recommend an advance of £1,500 to the South Dublin Rural District Council from local loan funds for waterworks' extensions at Balrothery, Templeogue, and Rathfarnham. Regarding the proposal to borrow £8,025 for the provision of sewerage at Clondalkin, the Minister suggests deferring the scheme until a proper water supply is available.

***

North Dublin Rural Council received tenders for the erection of sixteen labourers' cottages, and the following were accepted:—Mangan Brothers, five cottages at Diswellstown, £341 single cottages, £337 in pairs; Farmer Brothers, three cottages at Artane West, to be built in mass concrete, two at £355, one at £377; William Lacey, Howth, two cottages at Snug, £350; James Duff, four cottages at Baldoyle, £358; C. Bissett, two cottages at Huntstown, £342 10s. A contract from William Lacey for £135 for eight steel ventilating shafts in connection with the pine sewerage system at Killester was accepted.

A KILKENNY CONTRACT.

The Local Government Department wrote to Kilkenny Health Board refusing to sanction the acceptance of a tender at £249 11s. by Messrs. W. K. Cleere and Company, Kilkenny, for carrying out repairs to the fever hospital, on the ground that it was nearly 75 per cent. above the estimated cost.

Mr. James Gibbons, Acting County Surveyor, said the tender accepted did not cover the whole work. Messrs. Cleere and Son would not be prepared to do the whole work at that price.

The tender of Mr. Joseph Hickey, James's Green, Kilkenny, at £279 4s., for all the work, being the lowest, was accepted.

NEW ERA IN ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

"ELASTIC" BLOCKS THAT LAST YEARS.

Experts have been trying for years to discover a road surface for London thoroughfares that will not have the many disadvantages of the two systems now most generally used—wood blocks and asphalt.

Three essential qualities have been looked for. A non-skid material, the elimination of vibration, and a system that will render the surface, or "carpet," as it is generally known, almost indestructible.

Experiments have been made from time to time in various parts of London under the supervision of borough engineers and also by the Ministry of Transport, and as the result of trials of a new material a surface has been found which may lead to a new era in road construction.

The new material is made up of synthetic rubber, of which the chief ingredients are peat and bitumen. The blocks are made under pressure, and are elastic. It is claimed that they are non-skid, that vibration is eliminated, and that the surface is waterproof.

The surface was first laid as an experiment eighteen months ago on a part of Uxbridge road under the supervision of Middlesex County Council. Since then it is estimated that about 9,000,000 tons of traffic have passed over it.

Nine months ago another small portion of Uxbridge was treated in the same way, and six months ago, under the supervision of the Kensington authorities, a part of Fulham road, opposite Evelyn Gardens, was laid in the same way.

Peat is plentifully found all over the British Isles, so that the cost of making the new blocks is as cheap, if not cheaper, than wood blocks. The bitumen comes from Trinidad, and all the ingredients are found either in Great Britain or in the Empire.

One of the leading experts on road construction declared in a written report that the new blocks had proved the most suitable material for road construction yet brought to his notice, and that it would be no longer necessary to dig up the deep foundations of concrete when the blocks were worn out.

The blocks have a smooth surface, and are slightly larger than wood blocks. They are less deep, however, and this allows a sort of lining to be laid down between them and the concrete foundations.

CONFERENCE ON ENGINEERING MATERIALS.

A conference on engineering materials in Berlin is being arranged for October 22 to November 13. This will comprise a number of papers to be read between October 22 and November 6, while an exhibition of engineering materials, which will be continued until November, will include the actual materials and also the tests usually supplied in practice. Altogether, it is expected that 300 papers will be read, while the demonstrations will cover a wide range, and will comprise on the electrical side the testing of insulating materials up to 1,000,000 volts.

THE NEW TYNE BRIDGE.

Steady progress is being made with the building of the new bridge across the Tyne at Newcastle, an undertaking rendered necessary by the greatly increased volume of road traffic. The sinking of the foundations was begun in July, 1925, and the structure is not expected to be completed before the summer of next year.

The foundations are 79ft. below high-water mark of the river, and consist of four main caissons, each 84ft. 6in. deep and 28ft. wide, filled with cement to the surface. When the structure is completed its length will be made up by an approach 190ft. long and a steelwork approach of 483ft. on the Newcastle side, and a steelwork approach of 380ft. and a masonry approach of 259ft. on the Gateshead side. The main arch across the river will have a span of 531ft. The total length of the bridge will be 1,843ft. The width of the bridge from one hand-rail to the other will be 65ft. The height from the high-water mark to the underside of the roadway will be 89ft., and from the top of the arch to low water 206ft. The work will cost over £500,000.

This will be the sixth bridge connecting the Northumberland and Durham sides of the river at Newcastle.

AMERICAN LOAN SHAM.

SCATHING EXPOSURE BY MINISTER FOR INDUSTRY.

FOLLY OF "ANOTHER ROUND."

MR. P. J. HOGAN'S STRAIGHT TALK TO FARMERS.

Mr. P. J. McGilligan, Minister for Industry and Commerce, speaking at a Government Party meeting in Drogheda last night, exposed the hollowness of Fianna Fail's claim that Mr. de Valera, if he were returned to power, could raise a loan of £50,000,000 in the United States at a reasonable rate of interest.

Mr. Hogan, Minister for Agriculture, at Athlone spoke of the folly of "another round" with England; and at Castleblayney Mr. Blythe, Minister for Finance, described Mr. de Valera's plan for a loan as that of a Rip Van Winkle.

Mr. de Valera addressed a meeting at Cavan last night. He had nothing new to say, except that, in his view, what would be treason under the Public Safety Act would be nothing more or less than loyalty to Ireland.

LOUTH.

FIANNA FAIL'S POLICY ANALYSED.

MR. MCGILLIGAN REPLIES TO PARTY LEADERS.

(From Our Reporter.)

DROGHEDA, Wednesday Night.

A largely attended meeting in support of the Cumann na nGaedheal candidates for County Louth was held at the Mall, Drogheda, to-night.

Mr. James T. Magee, Chairman of Louth County Council, who presided, read a letter of apology for absence from the Right Rev. Monsignor Segrave, P.P., V.G., Drogheda, who stated in it that the people would have to determine now whether or not they wished to have a Government that would command confidence, or credit, at home and abroad and let the country settle down to the practical work which everyone of common sense saw was necessary if they were to get on in these difficult, depressed times. Public loans were needed to complete works in hands and meet engagements the country was committed to, and everyone knew that these could not be raised on terms the country would be able to bear if investors had not faith in the stability of the Government. It was a very practical and serious issue that faced all the voters at the present time. It was awkward to be brought out in the harvest; but the reaping of many harvests to come hung on what they did now.

A FATEFUL DECISION.

Mr. James Murphy, one of the candidates, said that the decision which the electors would be called upon to make on the 15th of this month would transcend in importance any of the grave national issues that they had had to decide in the past, because on the result of that decision would depend whether this State would stand or fall. It was frankly conceded that the people had the right to take risks if they so desired; but they, and they alone, would have to pay for their mistakes, a payment that would fall on the weakest and most impoverished. The law of retribution was the same for nations as for individuals. It was up to those who had brought about the present situation to make things right at this election, or put up with the inevitable consequence, which would be greater misery and want than ever had been experienced here before.

The issue in this election was not so much whether the people of this country wanted a Cosgrave Government as whether they wanted any Government at all, or whether they were to have anarchy and chaos. The question was whether the people of the State wanted ordered government and progress, or preferred to slip back into the slough of despond from which the Cosgrave Government had rescued them. The policy of Mr. de Valera he described as being like Joseph's coat—a thing of many colours. Had the people any guarantee, he asked, that the most sacred pledges of the Fianna Fail Party would not develop into empty political formulas as soon as the election was over? Would they tell them where the dumps were hidden, and against whom it was proposed to use these dumps?

MAINTAINING THE SERVICES.

Referring to the new National Loan, Mr. Murphy said that the arrangements that the Government had been able to make for the temporary carrying out of public services would not enable those services to be carried out beyond another two months. Money must, therefore, be found if those services were to be continued. The general election resulted in all Opposition, and no Government, and disclosed the very remarkable fact that the people of the country had not their minds made up as to what they wanted. The investing public knew what they wanted, and were not prepared to lend their money to people who behaved as they had behaved at the last election. If, as the result of this election, the people were returned to power who would repudiate the financial settlement, then good-bye stability, and good-bye economic conditions. The issue in this election was of the first magnitude. If Fianna Fail seized the reins of government no man could tell what would happen in the future. The road to stability was by electing the Government candidates. (Applause).

MR. HUGHES'S APPEAL.

Mr. Peter Hughes, ex-T.D., said that he had come forward again to ask the people of Louth whether they were going to rectify the mistake that they made in June last. They were told by advertisements and posters about the "extravagance" of the Government, what salaries were paid, and what services cost; but the people who told them that did not tell them how they could reduce expenditure. Some of those gentlemen, when representing this nation in Paris and America, spent more than any Minister got or more than the services of the State cost at present. Those gentlemen then were living in luxury and ease. He would like to see the balance sheet showing their expenditure. He asked the people to think well on the doctrine taught that the sanctity of an oath was to be trampled under foot. Were they to say that their oath was not their bond? The Government Party did not stand for that. Mr. Redmond's party, he said, had broken every pledge made at the last election, and the people would be fools if they elected that party again. He was confident that in this election the people would remedy the mistake they made last June.

LABOUR'S CHANGED ATTITUDE.

Mr. P. McGilligan, Minister for Industry and Commerce, said that this election was being called the "sharp practice" election by those who had tried to foist the unholy combination on the country. The explanation was that these people did not want to face the country. Before August Labour had a policy, which warranted them to appeal to any worker, but now they did not want to face the electors to explain their action. Fianna Fail was angry, they thought it dishonest to appeal to the electorate for its views on their latest antics. Captain Redmond had a grievance, because his policy of "National League appeasement" was to be tested. They already saw some of the first results of that testing. Some of his candidates deserted him; some failed to go forward; and others, though willing to go forward, could not get anyone to back them.

A month ago three men were tasting the sweets of office in anticipation. Could one not picture them, intoxicated with the thought of the power that was to be theirs, forgetting their political bitternesses. One saw Mr. Johnson patting Mr. de Valera on the back, and saying that he always knew that he was a man of peace, while Captain Redmond murmured "National appeasement." Now nothing was left of that delightful harmony, and the only reminders we had of it were their assurances that they would never again be found in each other's company. (Laughter.) They were back to the position at the last election, when Mr. Johnson said that Captain Redmond had great impudence to put himself forward as the leader of a political party, although he had since tried to make him President.

POLITICAL POKER.

Captain Redmond said that he voted for the alternative Government on the understanding that it would be a stable Government, and that he had an assurance that the more contentious points of the Labour policy, both legislative and administrative, would not be put into force in the lifetime of that administration. Mr. Johnson said that there were no party agreements. He (Mr. McGilligan) was glad to hear that; but he wanted to know what were the issues described by Captain Redmond as the more contentious points. What kind of peculiar Royal flush was Mr. Johnson playing for in this game of political Poker. From the cards he held, what had he decided to discard, and what cards was he to draw. Captain Redmond said that they had in mind a man in whom the commercial classes would have every confidence. Subsequent events had shown that Mr. Hugo Flinn was the gentleman referred to. Mr. Flinn's sole idea was a fatuous campaign for the abolition of income tax. How did that fit in with Captain Redmond's contention that 1s. off the income tax was robbing the poor in the interests of the rich?

What part of the Fianna Fail policy was not to be put into force? They all knew it, since the Manchester Guardian interview with Mr. de Valera—reopen the financial settlement with England; punish the North; have no land annuities, but alter the name, and have a land tax; have a less costly standard of living for this country.

MR. DE VALERA'S POLICY.

Mr. de Valera was now asking the country to return him to power to put that policy into operation. He was going to do it with money raised in America. They all knew the situation that he would meet going to America to raise a loan, because the people of Ireland would not lend him a "bob." It would cost four or five per cent. to collect; be issued probably at 80, and he would have to pay about 10 per cent. for it. In addition they would have to mortgage their Customs and Excise duties, and everything of value in the country as security.

They heard a lot about big salaries in the Civil Service. As a matter of justice, every single civil servant drawing a good salary should receive what he was getting; as a matter of expediency none of them could be touched. Eighteen out of every twenty of them were protected by the Treaty, and could retire, if they were attacked, on three-quarters of their present salaries as pensions. There were, at most, 300 people on the salary list at over £1,000 a year. A rigid calculation had shown that to reduce them all to a level of £750 would not mean a reduction of 3d. in the £ in taxation.

THEN AND NOW.

Messrs. Sean T. O'Kelly, "Beaverbrook" Brennan, and de Valera should know something about salaries. When Mr. O'Kelly was diplomatic representative of the Saorstat his office cost £8,000 a year, and he did no work. When in 1921 one of the much despised civil servants was put in charge of it he reduced the cost by half and did more work. Mr. de Valera's tour in America during our struggle for independence cost the country nearly £10,000. He had also an Embassy in Washington and another in New York, each costing £4,000. With the £18,000 he spent on the three he did damage to our cause in America, dividing the people who were behind the Irish cause, and making enemies of Ireland's best friends. Mr. Brennan, who held something of a record for being defeated in elections in Dublin, was also angry about expenditure. He had left the country just before the Black and Tans. His health had broken down, and he was sent on a tour of the foreign offices of Sinn Fein.

"I would like to know," said Mr. McGilligan, "what his tour cost, and what we got out of it in addition to having his shattered nerves restored"?

The money spent on rebuilding O'Connell street alone would pay 1,000 civil servants for five years. The average of the salaries of civil servants in the Saorstat was £180 a year, and if all those getting over £1,000 were reduced to a level of £1,000 it would not add £20 a year to the others.

THE ISSUE.

The issue in the election was between the two big parties, and the electorate should return one of them with a decisive majority. Let them have either a return to stability or a complete plunge into chaos. If Mr. de Valera's party were to be returned to power they should be in such strength that they would have to assume responsibility, and not skulk behind Captain Redmond and Mr. Johnson.

Mr. P. J. Roe and Senator Sir Edward Bellingham also addressed the meeting.

IN DEFENCE OF NATIONAL LEAGUE'S ACTION.

"NO ALLIANCE WITH LABOUR."

The National League held a successful meeting in Dundalk last night, when Mr. James Coburn, the candidate, was accorded a good reception. Mr. Deery, Chairman of the Urban Council, presided.

Mr. Coburn said that he was proud of the fact that he voted with his leader in order to arouse a new spirit of reconciliation in the country. They were blamed for that, because there was a slavish spirit prevailing that in Ireland no men could be found fitted to replace Cosgrave and company. John Redmond was driven out of public life because he advocated peace and good-will between Ireland and England, and was his son to be driven out because he endeavoured to get Irishmen to come together and unite for the good of the country?

Mr. Tom O'Donnell said that the Public Safety Bill would disgrace the Statute Book of a nation of cannibals, and branded the people of Ireland as the most primitive and the most undemocratic and the most unconstitutional race on the face of the earth.

When Mr. de Valera and his party entered the Dail, the National Party saw in that Act the first and most certain step towards gaining peace and prosperity for the country, and they were big enough and patriotic enough to think only of Ireland's interests and to forget the past differences. They could have taken the easy and cowardly step of letting the fight go on, but they were determined to do their best for peace and progress, and they welcomed into the National Parliament that big body of men who had suffered for Ireland, and who in the Dail would, at least, do as much for Ireland as Mr. Cosgrave's party. He believed that the entry into the Dail of this party would be more effective in preserving law and order than a thousand Public Safety Acts.

Mr. O'Donnell added that there was no alliance with Labour, but they had got a guarantee that during the life of a coalition Government no attempt would be made to pass special labour legislation.

Mr. McGahon, Vice-chairman Louth County Council, said that Louth had a reputation for sticking to its guns and its leaders, and it would do that on this occasion.

It is pointed out that the reasons that Dr. Peter D. Daly did not go forward as a Government candidate were: (1) he favoured running only three candidates for South Mayo, and (2) that he desired that any support in the Ballinrobe area should go to Mr. Fitzgerald-Kenny. Dr. Daly is one of the most active members of the Central Election Committee of the Government Party in South Mayo.

"RIP VAN WINKLE DE VALERA."

FINANCIAL PROBLEMS OF GOVERNMENT.

CASTLEBLAYNEY, Wednesday.

Meetings in support of the Cumann na nGaedheal and Fianna Fail candidates were held here to-day. It was market day, and both meetings were held at the same time, but the best of order prevailed.

Mr. T. McAree, Chairman U.D.C., presided at the Cumann na nGaedheal meeting.

The Rev. Father Nolan, C.C., Annayalla, said that the Treaty was substantially the most that could be screwed from England, and nothing had happened to justify them in destroying it. It was up to the people of Monaghan to show what they thought of the murder of Kevin O'Higgins by returning Mr. Blythe, who had stepped into the position of danger. (Cheers.)

Mr. Blythe, Minister for Finance, received a very enthusiastic welcome. He was pointing out that Mr. de Valera by coming into the Dail had created a situation of deadlock, when one of the audience shouted, "He is done now."

"I do not think," said Mr. Blythe, "that he will be very dangerous in the future." Mr. de Valera had told them that if there had not been a dissolution he would have been on his way to America to raise a loan, and that he would have got plenty of money. Some years ago Mr. de Valera raised £1,300,000 by loan in America, and the expenses in connection with it amounted to 15 per cent. That was to say, that for every £100 raised the Irish people got only £85. National borrowing could be done only for short periods—about twenty years—and the rate of Mr. de Valera's borrowing worked out at 6½ per cent., whereas the National Loan was borrowed at 5½ per cent.

RIP VAN WINKLE DE VALERA.

There were two ways of getting money for the country, by begging or borrowing, and they ought not to go with hat in hand begging for the work of the Government—the Shannon scheme, drainage, or the Agricultural Credits Corporation. They could not get by sending round the hat, the necessary money for such purposes. Mr. de Valera appeared to be like Rip Van Winkle—he appeared to have been asleep and not to know that new circumstances had arisen; that it was not merely money to help in carrying a political organisation that was required, but money for the Shannon scheme, drainage and agricultural credits. Money for these purposes could be got only on business terms, and if there was uncertainty or turmoil in the country it could not be borrowed on anything like a fair rate of interest. They had so far been carrying on with the Treaty in danger, but they had now reached a point when that was ended, and when they would not in future be trembling on the brink of a precipice. The Government would now be free to devote its whole attention to necessary work.

Mr. de Valera, continued Mr. Blythe, had already swallowed many pledges, but if he were put in power now nobody knew what wild thing he would do in order to justify all his actions of the past five years. If he and his party were in the Dail for the next four or five years they would realise some of the difficulties of carrying on government and financing the country. It would not be a matter of merely talking of the sins of England, but discussing the needs of Ireland. To allow Mr. de Valera to control the Government at present would incur the greatest dangers to the country.

FIANNA FAIL AND THE ARMY.

Referring to the statement made by Mr. Aiken as to the unification of the Army, he said that Mr. de Valera did not repudiate it. The result of this unification would be to place men who had been burning bridges, looting banks, and trying to coerce the people in the commissioned ranks of the Army. The time might well come when there would be a change of Government, and so far as he (the Minister) and his colleagues were concerned, they would be very glad to see some others there to take the blame for the government of the country. They would find they could not work miracles. But last month the Government could not sit back and see governing the country such a combination as had then been proposed.

If the country had a Government with the Labour Party in control one of the first things they would have would be an epidemic of strikes all over the place. (A Voice—"We had enough of that.") Such extravagant promises were made by the Labour Party in regard to wages that they would have strikes, lock-outs, loss of wages and property, and perhaps riots and disturbances. Another result of that combination would be that the men who were forced to put their arms into dumps would pluck up courage and bring them out again, and begin to challenge the lawfully established forces of the State.

Mr. de Valera's party had now stated that it was the party of peace, but it had only become a party of peace when it was well beaten. If they got to the top they would go back to their former tactics, and peace would be finished with; they would again say that the majority of the Irish people were wrong, and they would use all the force at their disposal to coerce the people. If the people of the Free State had political wisdom they would not give Mr. de Valera control over their lives and future until he had done penance and shown some contrition for all the harm that he had done. (A Voice—"He could not do half enough penance.")

ENCOURAGING PERJURY.

If Mr. de Valera had accepted the Treaty the Six Counties would have been by now in the Free State. After five years he had discovered that the oath was an empty formula—he had not the manliness to say that he had changed his mind, or that the circumstances had changed, but he pretended to be advised that it was no oath. That was a disgraceful declaration, calculated to continue the demoralising work that he had already done in the country. De Valera had put many a decent young Irishman in arms against his brother Irishman. Now, when he could do no more that way he came out with this declaration, which was calculated to encourage perjury in every court in the country.

The first tiff that he (Mr. Blythe) ever heard between Michael Collins and de Valera was when Collins found fault with de Valera's extravagance in America over the raising of the loan. That, he believed, was the beginning of the personal enmity between himself and Collins that led to his opposition to the Treaty, and the fact that he had now come into the Dail was a further proof that it was not to the substance or the form of the Treaty that he was opposed. He was afraid because it was said that Collins won the war that the Treaty would be known as Collins's Treaty.

It was the people's right to say who was to be the Government. The last Government could have hung on to office, but they would have been in a position to do no business, and they decided that the people should get the chance of saying who was to govern the country. (Cheers.)

Mr. P. Duffy, the other candidate also spoke.

THE FIANNA FAIL MEETING.

The Fianna Fail meeting was presided over by Mr. J. McGahey, County Councillor, and was addressed by the two candidates, Dr. Ward and Mr E. Donnelly, M.P. (Northern Ireland).

The Rev. Father Maguire, P.P., Aghaboy, said that, thinking the two wings of Sinn Fein would come together, he had remained silent for six years, but as they had not done so he thought it his duty to support Fianna Fail. They did not object to Mr. Blythe as a candidate because he was a Protestant, because they had great respect for the grand old Presbyterians of the North, who had done so much for Irish freedom.

LEITRIM-SLIGO.

ONE AT A TIME.

While a Cumann na nGaedheal meeting was in progress at Ballinamore, Mr. L. E. Holt, the Fianna Fail candidate, drove up and stopped his car on the outskirts of the crowd, stood up and was about to open his meeting when Civic Guards and detectives approached him. Mr. Holt defied the Guards to remove him, and they entered the car and ejected him.

The Cumann na nGaedheal meeting, which was addressed by Mr. P. Reynolds and Mr. James N. Dolan, continued. Mr. Dolan spoke of the good work done by the Government who, he said, would do even greater things if returned to power.

Mr. Holt subsequently addressed the crowd.

Mrs. Annie Lewis, aged 71, of Knighton, Radnorshire, died suddenly from heart failure in the Sunday School playing the opening hymn on the piano.

GALWAY.

MR. DE VALERA'S TRUCE HEROES.

MR. HOGAN ASSIGNS THE BLOOD-GUILT.

From Our Special Correspondent.

BALLINASLOE, Wednesday.

To-day was fair day in Ballinasloe, and Mr. P. Hogan, Minister for Lands and Agriculture, availed of the presence of farmers from the surrounding districts to address a large meeting in the market square.

If the farmers listening to him, said Mr. Hogan, wanted better prices let them put in Mr. de Valera, and the first thing de Valera would do would be to make war on England—at least he said he would, and they had to take his word. It was rather a novel way to get better prices—to make war on England and the English who bought their cattle and stock.

The farmers wanted cheaper Indian meal, cheaper clothes, cheaper boots, but would de Valera make them cheaper? De Valera had said that he would put a tariff on them, and his policy was tariff reform and "another round with England." The Government's policy was different. It was to sell England more cattle, more butter, more eggs and to get better prices. They had no quarrel with England. The English soldiers were gone, the English police were gone, and every man and woman in this country had a vote, and they were free to run the country in their own way.

THE POST-TRUCE HEROES.

The fellows who now wanted to fight were those who were never in any fight, and if de Valera got a majority and called for volunteers to fight England how many volunteers would he get from Fianna Fail?

A Voice—He would not know which bed to look under for them. (Laughter.)

Mr. Hogan—He would not get five fighting soldiers, but he would get 500 generals and captains fifty miles from where the fighting was. (Laughter.)

Continuing, Mr. Hogan said that he deliberately charged de Valera with causing the civil war when he went down to the South of Ireland, and at three meetings invited the foolish young men of the country to wade through blood. The civil war was de Valera's baby, and his was the blood-guilt.

DE VALERA RESPONSIBLE FOR THE CIVIL WAR.

De Valera five years ago thought that he could bluff and intimidate the Irish people. De Valera was not an Irishman, and did not realise that no white race could be cowed by intimidation, and before they were finished with him he would realise that the Irish people were not to be cowed by intimidation or threats of assassinations. Again he repeated that de Valera had caused the civil war and 77 executions with all the material damage that followed. And for what?

A few weeks ago the Government said: "You will have to leave politics if you don't take the oath. The challenge was: "Fight or surrender," and Mr. de Valera surrendered.

A Voice—They want John Bull.

Mr. Hogan—Yes, they would rather have John Bull than the Kellys and Burkes and Sheas. If this man's name was Staunton or Heenan or Hogan or Murphy they would not follow him at all. The real grievance against us is that we are Irishmen. A lot of people don't like to see a neighbour's child running the country.

THE DUTY OF THE VOTERS.

Replying to a remark by one of the audience, who said "it was all a joke," Mr. Hogan said it was an expensive joke, but they could end it quickly. If they wanted war, confusion and loss of credit they could put in de Valera, but if they wanted a decent, peaceful State, let them put in the present Government, who could end all this nonsense.

They heard a lot about young people, boys and girls, not having the sense to vote right. He did not worry about that, but was more concerned with the fact that the fathers and mothers, the people who had a real stake in the country, remained at home and would not take the trouble to vote. If the older people came to the polls the Government would have 95 per cent. of the voters. In four general elections the de Valera Party had not secured more than 50 seats of 150 seats in the Dail, showing that the people, by a two-thirds majority, were in favour of the Treaty and against civil war.

PUBLIC SAFETY ACT AND THE GUN BULLIES.

Now civil war was again hinted at, but there would be no more civil war in the country, because it was too dangerous. These people handed in the guns three years ago, when it became unsafe to handle them, and by the time they were done with the Public Safety Act the gun bullies would not come within ten miles of a gun. The Public Safety Act had been passed, and it would destroy them.

"We know the organisations that the Act is designed to deal with," said Mr. Hogan. "We know the sort of people who do this sort of thing. They have no guts and no pluck, and all you have to do is to stand up to them and they run. But we want to feel that we have the help of the people of this country behind us. Should there be a coercion act?"

There was a chorus of "Yes" from the crowd.

"Should these organisations be suppressed and certain men deported?" asked Mr. Hogan.

"Yes" roared the crowd.

"We have the people of the country behind us in that Act," concluded Mr. Hogan, "and we are going to use it, and by the time we are finished we will make as good a job of the assassins as we did of the warriors." (Cheers.)

THE BENEFITS OF THE TREATY.

The Rev. Father Heenan, C.C., who presided, said that he was there at the request of the Very Rev Father Madden, Administrator, who was unable to be present. He appealed to them to exercise the franchise, to return the present Government, and so bring about the stability which was so much required. The Treaty had been accepted by the people by a decisive majority. They thought that it gave them independence enough, and that they had ample opportunities to develop the resources of the country. To-day, under the Treaty, Ireland was independent, free to enact laws for herself, free to raise her own moneys, and free to use those moneys in the way she thought best.

The present Government, though they were not perfect—no human Government was perfect—had, amidst great difficulties, made a superhuman effort to raise up this little island. Ireland was free from all foreign domination, but she was not free from the enemy within it, and it was the curse of the country that Irishmen had not taken the opportunity that the Treaty had given them. The people had a chance to arise from the apathy of the last couple of years, and to put in a Government that would once and for all put an end to internal strife. If the present Government were given a strong majority they would end internal strife, and thus be free to devote their time, their energies and abilities to enacting good laws, so that peace, happiness and prosperity would come to their country. (Cheers.)

Mr. Andrew Staunton, candidate, also spoke.

CO. WICKLOW.

ELECTORS' DUTY

TO GO TO POLLS ON 15th INST.

Mr. D. Gun O'Mahony addressed his twelfth meeting in County Wicklow at Carnew and Coolboy on Tuesday night. He spoke of the importance of the Public Safety Act, and mentioned that, although that Act was actually in being as the law of the land, very few, if any, of them realised that fact, for the simple reason that they went about doing their ordinary daily work in a decent, sober manner, and consequently committed no offence against the Act.

He dwelt particularly on the fact that the power of the Government was derived directly from the body of the people themselves, as by the way in which they cast their votes they chose their representatives in the Dail. The Dail elected the President, and the President selected the Executive Council. Therefore, the whole responsibility rested with the electors themselves, and it was their serious responsibility and trust.

He earnestly appealed to the electors to think seriously of the issues that were at stake, and to make up their minds as to what they were going to do before going to the polls on the 15th inst., and then to do it—above all, go to the polls.

FARMERS' NEED OF PEACE.

Addressing a meeting in Rathdrum, Mr. R. Wilson, Farmers' candidate, said that, in declaring himself a supporter of the Constitution, he did not believe, whatever politicians stated to the contrary, that the present was a time to engage in a controversy with Great Britain over questions such as the oath. The essential fact was that the majority elected by the people would have absolute control over every penny raised in taxation, and it was the incidence of taxation and its regulation into channels of development that ought to be in the minds of the electors. Farmers especially were much concerned with that aspect. An agricultural community ought to be governed by agriculturists.

While the Treaty gave them 99 per cent. of all that had been written on the battle standards of the Sinn Fein Party, that organisation had split, and the unseemly division had continued since then, the common people looking on regretfully, knowing that when the welter and strife and waste was done they would have to foot the bill. That bill amounted to millions in taxation and 6d. in the £ in rates. One party had made a great constructive effort; the other was out for disruption. The farmer wanted peace; turmoil was his greatest enemy, and the agricultural policies of Fianna Fail and Labour were unsatisfactory. That of the Government was along the right lines, though the fiscal policy was not satisfactory.

LONGFORD-WESTMEATH.

OUR CUSTOMERS, THE BRITISH.

MR. HOGAN ON "ANOTHER ROUND."

From Our Own Correspondent.

ATHLONE, Wednesday.

Mr. P. Hogan, Minister for Agriculture, speaking in Athlone to-night, when asked why there was a duty on parcels coming from England and America, said that question affected everybody. He would answer it by asking another question: What was the policy of Fianna Fail? They said they were going to impose tariffs on everything imported into this country, but he did not know whether they could be believed, as they had broken every promise they had made. Take the case of the farmers. Fianna Fail would put a tax on Indian meal. Would that make the pig cheaper the day they were bringing it out? The policy of the Government was to endeavour to make everything that was imported cheaper, to endeavour to enable the shopkeeper to get cheaper goods and sell them with the farmer cheaper. There was another side to the question of a tax on everything that was imported. Where would they sell their eggs, their cattle, their pigs, their butter? Great Britain? He had no quarrel with Great Britain and did not want to fight Great Britain. Who owned the barracks across the way (Custume Barracks)?

A Voice—Great Britain.

"OUR SOLDIERS ARE IRELAND'S SONS."

Mr. Hogan—Great Britain be dashed. Our men are inside there. They are better men than you ever were.

A Voice—I took it over

Mr. Hogan—You took it over! You were kicked out of it by our army. Our soldiers are Ireland's sons; they are your servants; they are taking their orders from Irishmen. Supposing Thomas Johnson or de Valera is President of the Free State they will obey him. They will be at the service of any Government that comes into power in this country as a result of the majority vote of the people.

Would anybody tell him where were the British to-day? Where did the British now interfere? Why did these people follow de Valera? Because his name was de Valera. If it was Shaw or Dolan or Hogan they would no go with him at all.

"I knew the late Minister for Justice very well," proceeded Mr. Hogan. "His greatest quality was this—that he was the first man to realise after the Treaty that we were free men, and whether he was in England facing Cabinet Ministers or in Ireland facing a minority that challenged the will of the majority he acted like a free man. He had it in his blood. He was the first free man in the country.

"We had great men in the past—Grattan, O'Connell, Parnell and Redmond. John Redmond was a good man in his day. I will say nothing about his son. I have no use for him. He is no good. He is finished. But these men left us a tradition of opposition, as the English were in the country at the time.

IF THE MINORITY RULED.

"I hear now about the English being here, and about our Army being an English Army. That is because the men who say it do not realise, as Kevin O'Higgins was the first to realise, that we are free men. Unless the majority ruled there was no freedom. I would rather be ruled by the British than by a minority of gunmen. Why was there a fight against the British? Because they did not represent the will of the majority of the people. I do not care from what side the majority is challenged; if it is challenged successfully there is no liberty in the country, for we are not fit for self-government.

"We sell 98 per cent. of the goods we produce in Ireland to the British, and why, in the name of God, should we fight them? If there is to be fighting in the country, I know who would have to do it. It would be the Sean McKeons, and not the louts who interrupt at meetings. The minority are rotten with humbug. Now that the English are gone, our policy is to sell them our produce at the best price, and not to fight them."

If, he continued, they wanted more fight with England and more confusion, let them elect de Valera. He never believed that Fianna Fail were Republicans, Separatists, or Nationalists, because if they had been, they would not have put the country to the degradation of the last five years, nor would Michael Collins or Arthur Griffith be in their graves to-day. There was a small minority of Republicans, but they were out of the picture now. The election was necessary because they wanted to borrow money to finance an agricultural bank.

THE EX-UNIONISTS.

Mr. P. W. Shaw, candidate, said that Cumann na nGaedheal was attacked for taking into its ranks men who had been Unionists. Fifty-five per cent. of those people were anxious to do their part to assist the country. They put their money into it. They had stakes in the country. They gave most employment, and paid most of the taxation, and he could not see why they should not have representation in the National Assembly.

Canon Crowe presided at the meeting.

STRONG OPPOSITION.

INDEPENDENT FARMER'S VIEW.

Addressing a meeting at Ballymore, Mr. Patrick McKenna, Independent Farmer candidate for Longford-Westmeath, said that the country was split into two warring sections, who have been for the past few years stuck in each other's throats. As a man of peace, he was always in favour of national unity, and he was convinced that the need for unity could not be too constantly kept before the minds of leaders and people alike. There was a silver lining to the cloud in the fact that the silly abstention policy had ended, and that all elected representatives of the people had decided to revert to constitutionalism. What was wanted in the present crisis, no matter what party won, was a strong Opposition; otherwise the Parliament would be only a farce, because the people would be living under a dictatorship.

The people were the masters, and should place the balance of power in the hands of sane and capable men. He stood for stable government and for the liberty of the subject. He would oppose any attempt at coercion.

CAVAN.

LOYALTY AND TREASON.

MR. DE VALERA ON PUBLIC SAFETY ACT.

CAVAN, Wednesday.

Mr. de Valera addressed a large meeting from the balcony of the Town Hall, Cavan, to-night. Mr. C. Fitzgerald, Co.C., presided.

Mr. M Sheridan, candidate, protested against the action of Mr. Cosgrave in declaring a dissolution during the harvest season. The election, he said, had been sprung to obtain a snap majority. (Voices—He won't get it now). The Fianna Fail Party had entered the Dail in order to avert further trouble in the country, and, so far as he was concerned, he was in favour of pursuing their aims by constitutional means.

Mr. de Valera, who was cordially greeted, suggested that everything the Government had done since the last general election had deprived it of the right to appeal to the people for a majority. It was not the Government Party alone, he said, who had voted away twenty-two millions of money in twenty-one hours; other parties were equally to blame. There never was known a more disgraceful proceeding, and it was only by another Act in 1922, when a quarter of a million of Republican money was voted away upon the strength of a majority of six.

The people of Ireland did not want as their representatives men who first took an oath of allegiance to a foreign power. In order to prevent representatives opposed to that procedure from ever being elected, an Act was introduced, which made it compulsory for candidates to take an oath before election.

That was done, so that there would never again be in Ireland an election, such as that of 1918, when the people made it clear what their minds were.

The people who passed the Public Safety Act were those who talked about constitutional action; about the right of the people as the masters. The truth was they had proved themselves to be autocrats. By that Act the Government set aside no fewer than 22 Articles of their own Constitution. They were told that the purpose of the Act was merely to catch a handful of criminals, but, if that were so, what was all the machinery of the ordinary law for?

"Is it not clear," he said "that the purpose of that Act was not to catch a handful of criminals? They wanted the Act for one purpose only. They saw that the Republicans got 50 representatives at the last election, whereas the Government Party got 46; they saw that those who stood for the right of the Irish people were getting year by year increasing support, and that if that were allowed to continue in a short time the people would stand up and declare that they would be free and subject to no foreign interference or influence."

Under the Public Safety Act, he said, the Government could declare as an unlawful body Fianna Fail, although it represented far more citizens than Cumann na nGaedheal. The Executive Council was to have the right of deciding, not the Parliament of the people. Treason under the Act would consist in disloyalty to a foreign Power and the Constitution imposed by a foreign Power. Such treason was nothing more or less than loyalty to Ireland.

CO. KERRY.

A DECISIVE VOTE.

PROFESSOR O'SULLIVAN'S APPEAL.

The Right Rev. Monsignor O'Leary, P.P., V.G., P.A., Dean of Kerry, presiding at Cumann na nGaedheal meeting in Tralee, spoke of the necessity of returning a Government with a sufficiently strong majority to carry on the administration of the country for the next five years. He warned the electors of the danger of voting for the five or six different sections going forward.

Mr. T. Slattery said that he was standing as a Government candidate because they wanted peace and because they had enough of anarchy.

The Rev. P. J. Brennan, P.P., said that after five years of turmoil and ruin the so-called Fianna Fail Party had swallowed the oath, and it did not choke them. (Laughter.) If de Valera had taken that course five and a half years ago many a mother would have been spared from weeping over the loss of her son and many a man whose career had been blasted would now be a contented citizen of the Free State.

Mr. F. Lynch, Minister for Fisheries, expressed the hope that the electors of Kerry would on this occasion take at least another seat from the gentlemen who were talking about oaths. A new loan could not be garnered or an Agricultural Credit Act put into operation unless they elected a strong National Government.

Professor O'Sullivan justified the Public Safety Act, and said that he had yet to learn that it was a crime for any Government to protect the people. Whatever the verdict of the people might be as a result of this election he trusted it would be, at all events, decisive. He had paid a tribute to the Labour Party in the Dail, but he could not pay a tribute to Mr. Johnson for the way he had misled the party for the past three months. Mr. de Valera's protection policy, which, if applied to Ireland, would mean higher prices at home. The Government stood for the full development of Ireland under the Treaty, and there was nothing in the Treaty to prevent them from making all they could of the natural resources of the country.

Mr. James Crowley and the Rev. Father Scanlan, P.P., also spoke.

A DISCLAIMER.

Mr. P. S. Morrissey, agent for the Fianna Fail candidates for Co. Dublin, writes:—My attention has been drawn to a statement made by Mr. G. O'Sullivan, Cumann na nGaedheal candidate, with reference to an offensive inscription painted on a wall in County Dublin, concerning the late Kevin O'Higgins. I am instructed by the Fianna Fail candidates to state, in the most emphatic terms, that no supporters of theirs were responsible for this inscription. Fianna Fail does not descend to such vile methods of electioneering.

SOUTH DUBLIN.

PEACE OR WAR.

THE CHOICE BEFORE THE ELECTORS.

A large gathering of the electors was addressed last night at the end of York street (Aungier street) by several of the Cumann na nGaedheal candidates for Dublin City South constituency.

Mr. P. S. Doyle, who presided, said that the issue before the electors at the present election was whether the Treaty should be maintained or repudiated. Any violation of the Treaty would mean that the Free State could make no progress economically or otherwise, and he appealed to the electors to go to the poll on Thursday, the 15th inst., and to vote for the Government candidates.

Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C., said that the issue before the people was whether or not they were going to have peace or war. In 1922 Mr. de Valera, speaking at Killarney, said: "It may be necessary for brothers to wade through brothers' blood, to walk over the dead bodies of Irishmen, even the bodies of Ministers themselves." Mr. de Valera had made good his threat, and for ten months had carried on a war which cost the country thirty millions of pounds, and the lives of many good Irishmen.

A FRESH THREAT.

Mr. de Valera now came before them with a fresh threat, for he said in Wexford last Sunday that the votes of the people would decide whether they were to have peace or be thrown back into the condition in which they were in 1922. In other words, if they did not give Mr. de Valera a majority he would renew the war.

He hoped the electors would not be intimidated into voting for either Mr. de Valera or any of his followers, for if they were elected by a majority it would mean another war with England. He had been told that there were stacks of arms concealed in Clare. If the Fianna Fail Party were to act constitutionally, as they said they would do, why were those arms not handed up to the authorities? He hoped that the people of Ireland would not allow themselves to be intimidated by the gunmen.

If Mr. de Valera had the power to impose tariffs many factories would be closed very soon, and unemployment would be seriously increased. Therefore, he appealed to the sensible men and women to record their votes for the candidates who would support the present Government—the Government that could raise a loan which was required for the development of the industries of the country. (Applause.)

Dr. Hennessy appealed to the electors to vote for the Cumann na nGaedheal candidates and save the country from disaster. Mr. de Valera had said, in a fit of vanity, that if the people accepted the Treaty he would be satisfied. Well, the people had by two to one accepted the Treaty and Mr. de Valera had shown that he had no more regard for his word than he had for his oath.

MEMBERS' SALARIES.

THE FIANNA FAIL PLAN.

The Fianna Fail Party held a series of meetings last night in furtherance of the candidature of their four candidates in Dublin City, South. In Old Camden street all four addressed a small gathering.

Mr. Robert Briscoe said that Fianna Fail was not a war party, but was trying to bring about a spirit of reconciliation among the people of the twenty-six counties. The elected deputies went into the Dail because the only choice for them was civil war or peace, and they were out for peace. They did not seek election for self-gain or to secure a salary of £360 a year. The policy of Fianna Fail with regard to the allowances to deputies was to pool the whole lot into one common purse, out of which those who required it would be paid to enable them to carry on their public duties. The surplus would be used for national purposes or for helping to alleviate distress in the constituencies. They proposed definitely to reduce the salaries of Ministers from £1,700 to £1,000 a year.

Mr. Sean Lemass, in part of his speech, turned to the charge made by the Government Party that Fianna Fail had not given up the dumps of arms. On that, he said, he was prepared to make an offer to Mr. Cosgrave. He honestly believed that the arms in the Free State barracks were a greater menace to the peace of Ireland than were the guns rusting in the holes in the mountains. If Mr. Cosgrave was afraid of the dumps, he also knew that Fianna Fail did not control them. His (Mr. Lemass's) offer and the offer of those associated with him was that they would use their influence with those who controlled the dumps if Mr. Cosgrave would use his influence with those in control of the arms in the barracks, to put the whole lot together to be bartered for steam engines, and so do away with the possibility of another civil war in Ireland.

NORTH DUBLIN.

HELP WANTED TO RAISE A LOAN.

FIANNA FAIL CANDIDATE WHO WANTS CHEAP BEER.

At a meeting held in Temple street, Dublin, last night in support of the Fianna Fail candidates for Dublin City North, Mr. Padraig Fleming said that his aim was for peace and unity for Ireland.

"We must get peace if we are to do any good for the country. If we win this election we shall have to get unity among the other parties; we shall have to get them to stand in and accept responsibility for relieving distress. If they all stand in and accept responsibility for a loan, I am confident that the loan will be got."

Money was lent to Mr. Cosgrave, as the President of the majority party in Ireland. If the simplest man in the crowd were president of the majority he would be able to raise money, suggested Mr. Fleming. If de Valera is head of the majority he will be able to raise money; as an individual he has raised more money before now than Mr. Cosgrave.

"I am not a Pussyfoot, I realise that there are men who need a drink, and they are entitled to get it at a fair rate; they should not be bound to pay four-fifths of the price to the State. That is what you are doing at the present time," he added.

Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly said that he was out for absolute and complete independence for the country. The gentlemen who are in power were put there because they were prepared to do England's bidding in shooting down their brothers and those who had served with them in the Republican Army. This election is being fought on the national issue and the economic issue. For every man that was idle or unemployed five and a half years ago there are four or five able-bodied people unemployed in the Free State to-day. Who is responsible? It might be unfair to state that the Free State Government is wholly and entirely responsible; but any sound national Government in control of Ireland's finances and resources for those years should surely have been able to do something, at any rate, to alleviate and reduce unemployment.

"All our ideals and aspirations should have one end—the control of Ireland for the Irish, and not for the planters and West Britons. You are dominated to-day by the old Castle gang, the Masonic gang, the planter element, the old British and Imperial element. J. J. Walsh said in his letter that he left because the Government were getting in behind them all the rotten old elements. Mr. Cosgrave is opening his arms to them because nationalist Ireland is leaving him. Fianna Fail will lead Ireland back again into the paths of Irish nationalism, into independence. Do not be afraid we will bring war on you. We will govern Ireland in your interests and for your benefit and get out of Ireland the rotten pro-British element that has been so long in evidence.

UNITY, LIBERTY AND CHARITY.

Mr. John Homan, Peace Commissioner, who presided at a Cumann na nGaedheal meeting at East Wall road, Dublin, urged his hearers to work for unity in essential things, liberty in doubtful things, and charity in all things. The Cumann na nGaedheal platform, he said, was broad enough to hold all the people of the Free State, and its machinery would enable them to give a long pull and a strong pull, and a pull all together in the struggle for liberty and prosperity.

Speeches by Mr. John J. Byrne, Mrs. Collins-O'Driscoll, and General Mulcahy were cordially received, and the meeting concluded with loud cheers for President Cosgrave.

Another meeting, addressed by the same speakers, was held at Fairview.

MR. LARKIN ABSENT.

A crowd of over 200 people waited patiently for over an hour at James's street Fountain, Dublin, last night to hear Mr. James Larkin, who was to have addressed a meeting there, according to an announcement in the Press. Mr. Larkin, however, did not turn up.

Shortly after 9 o'clock a motor van drove up to the Fountain, and from the roof of the vehicle a man announced that "the big fellow"—apparently referring to Mr. Larkin—would arrive in half an hour. The "big fellow," however, did not arrive. The meeting was addressed later by Mr. Peter Larkin and Mr. John Lawlor, who is contesting the South City constituency on behalf of the Workers' Union of Ireland.

CO. DUBLIN.

A GOOD IRISHMAN.

MAJOR BRYAN COOPER'S DEFINITION.

A meeting in support of the Cumann na nGaedheal candidates for Dublin County was held at Ballsbridge last night, and was addressed by Mr. Batt O'Connor, Mr. Sean McGarry, Mr. Geroid O'Sullivan, and Major Cooper. The attendance included supporters of the Irish Workers' League, who had been addressed by Mr. J. Larkin and Mr. P. Larkin, and they interrupted the speakers frequently.

Mr. O'Connor protested against the interruptions, and said that the interrupters ought to have some regard for the freedom of speech. They might vote for him or against him, but he would not allow them to blackguard him. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Sean McGarry said that Mr. James Larkin was not the sort of man that the working men should follow as leader, and he should not be chosen as member for any constituency. (Hear, hear.) With regard to Mr. de Valera, the trouble was that if he was not placed in the saddle he threatened that there would be no peace.

Mr. Geroid O'Sullivan asked the voters to make it clear that Ireland was to be governed according to the will of the majority of the people. Mr. de Valera, he said, was a political fraud; he had deceived the people who followed him, and he had led to an early grave many fine young men who believed in him.

Major Cooper asked—"What is the definition of a good Irishman?"

"My definition is," he said, "the man who lives in Ireland, spends his money in Ireland, employs Irish labour, pays his rates and taxes, and does his best to promote the prosperity of Ireland. What is Fianna Fail's definition of the Irishman? Anybody who agrees with Mr. de Valera in whatever he may say, whether he denies an oath or accepts it; whether he repudiates a national loan or says that he will repay it."

He appealed for the support of the electors for the Government that has done so much in the last five years to restore peace and prosperity to the country.

IS A MAJORITY PARTY NECESSARY?

COALITION GOVERNMENTS IN EUROPE.

Mr. Thomas Johnson, the Labour candidate for County Dublin, addressed large meetings at Donnybrook, Ballsbridge and Ringsend last night. Just as he was about to start at Donnybrook a lorry drove up within a few yards of Mr. Johnson's motor, on which a banner was spread, and on which was blazoned: "Vote No. 1 for Jim Larkin—The Voice of the Poor," and, on the reverse side, "Vote for John Lawlor."

When Mr. Johnson drove away to Ballsbridge, another of the Larkinite group, with another lorry, followed him, but there were no interruptions of any kind. Mr. Johnson was allowed to conclude his speech at all the places in perfect quiet.

Dealing with the point made in reference to a coalition in the Dail, Mr. Johnson said that they were told that there is no stability in a country where there is a coalition; that the one essential thing is a single party majority in the Dail, able to form a Government out of its own members. When the present Ministry submitted the Constitution they included a scheme of proportional representation, which was to guarantee that minorities would be represented. There was to be very little chance of a single party obtaining a commanding majority in the Dail.

IN OTHER COUNTRIES.

That scheme was introduced deliberately for the purpose of bringing in, or securing representation of minorities. Now, however, they are out to abolish proportional representation and to deprive minorities of the protection which the Constitution intended.

Continuing, he said: "If we take a look at Europe it will be found that, outside Britain, and Italy, Spain, Portugal and Greece (where there is no stability, but much dictatorship), virtually every country in Europe has a larger number of groups and parties in their Parliaments than has even been hinted at in the Free State.

"In nearly all these countries there exists, and has existed since the war, Coalition Governments. In Germany, for instance, there are twelve parties and a Coalition Ministry made up of four parties. In Holland there are seven parties, and a Coalition made up of the representatives of four parties. In Norway there are eight parties in the Chamber, and a Conservative Ministry—the Ministerial party being in a decided minority, less than one-third of the total membership.

THE COALITION BOGIE.

"There are six parties and a Coalition Ministry in France. There are ten parties in Belgium, and four parties form a Coalition Ministry.

"In Czecho-Slovakia there are thirteen parties in the Chamber, and a Coalition Ministry made up of seven parties. In Esthonia there are eight parties in the Chamber, and a Coalition Ministry representing four parties.

"In Denmark six parties and a Coalition Ministry of Social Democrats and Radical Liberals. In Finland six parties in the Chamber and a Coalition of two parties.

"These countries," said Mr. Johnson, "are not unstable; and it has not been even necessary for any single party majority to provide a Government. (Hear, hear.) So much for the bogie that coalition must inevitably lead to chaos."

Mr. Johnson went on to refer to the question of rents, which, he said, the state of legislation would enable the landlords to increase in 1929. He also criticised the Public Safety Act, and referred to the considered judgment of Mr. Justice Hanna, who in effect said that any man could be made a criminal on the mere suspicion of a police officer.

Mr. William Norton also addressed the meeting.

FIANNA FAIL'S £10,000.

WHERE IT GOT ITS FUNDS.

Speaking at a meeting in Lucan last night, Mr. Robert Brennan, Fianna Fail candidate for County Dublin, said that when the result of the two recent by-elections was known the Government rushed a general election, thinking that the voice of Dublin County and South City was the voice of Ireland; but they were mistaken. At the by-election the Unionists of Rathmines and other districts voted 100 per cent. for the Government candidates. If they recalled the election of 1918 they would remember that out of 100 seats Sinn Fein won 73, and the only place, outside the North-East Corner, that returned a Unionist was the Rathmines District, which returned Sir Maurice Dockrell; but could it be said that because Sir Maurice Dockrell was returned by Rathmines it was the votes of Ireland? There was a big change in things recently. Two important things had happened. One was that Mr. J. J. Walsh went out one door and Major Bryan Cooper came in by another door. That showed that the Government was not working in the interests of the people of Ireland, but in the interests of England in Ireland.

THE GOLDEN LEGEND AGAIN.

They had English newspaper magnates contributing £150,000 to Mr. Cosgrave's Government to fight the election. Mr. Cosgrave denied that, but it was not so long ago since he CORK.

HAS THE LOAN BEEN POSTPONED?

SENATOR O'FARRELL'S VIEWS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Wednesday.

Senator J. T. O'Farrell, speaking at the South Mall, Cork, in support of the Labour candidates, Messrs. R. Anthony and L. J. Duffy, said that Ministers talked fulsomely about patriotism, stability, law and order, and so forth, but at the mere suggestion of removal from power, office and emoluments of the Cumann na nGaedheal Party they were prepared to pull down, if they could, the pillars of the State. The present Government could have been deposed on 16th August and a new Government installed in its place without any injurious social or economic palpitations except those occurring in the breasts of the people removed from offices which they have come to look upon as permanent.

It had always been, and still was, the object of the Labour Party to save the nation from the extremism of both the Cumann na nGaedheal and Fianna Fail Parties until such time as sufficient Labour deputies were returned to thrust both parties aside and proceed with a policy of economic and industrial reorganisation, calculated to bring work and prosperity to the people.

WHY LABOUR INTERVENED.

There was no point now in talking about a National Loan, when the Government had previously definitely decided to postpone it until next year, owing to the internal situation they expected to ensue because of the vigorous application of the Public Safety Act. It was the expressed opinion of Ministers that a vigorous application of coercion was essential before any loan could be satisfactorily floated, and, as this would result in serious conflict, there was no hope for any loan in the autumn.

This was the prospect held out to the country for the coming winter. It was to prevent such a disastrous development that the Labour Party intervened when it did. Ministers said that a Labour Government would not get a loan on favourable terms, when they must know that, immediately it was thought Labour was coming into office, there were various approaches to the Labour Party by important financiers anxious to discuss the loan which it was assumed would be floated by the new Government. All the money that was necessary could have been found on as favourable terms as the present Government can secure it.

In the election Labour had to rely on the pennies and sixpences of Irish workers, whilst the two big parties drew their financial support from overseas, so that, while their bodies may be here, their souls are elsewhere. Each was anxious to please its paymaster, so that future appeals might not be in vain.

PRESS CRITICISED.

The speakers were, however, given a good hearing, and one or two isolated cases of interruption were speedily dealt with by the Civic Guards.

Mr. E. J. Fitzgerald, who presided, said that the Government, in their Press propaganda, were trying to make capital out of alliance and secret agreements, but such alliances and secret agreements existed only in minds of their opponents. The Labour Party was as independent to-day as it was five years ago. The Capitalist Press was trying, he alleged, to put a wrong construction on every word and act of the Labour Party, who had no Press behind them to refute the statements.

Mr. Luke Duffy, General Secretary of the Shop Assistants' Union and Vice-Chairman of the Labour Party, one of the candidates, said that everything which had occurred since the last election justified the Labour Party's claim for the support of the electors.

"When Fianna Fail came in," added Mr. Duffy, "we continued to play the same part we had always done during the last six years—a defence of the rights of the people."

Mr. J. J. Walsh could not be induced to stand again for Cumann na nGaedheal, and, in desperation, Mr. Cosgrave had consented to go forward in his stead; but he thought Mr. Cosgrave would never represent Cork City.

THE TREATY.

Mr. R. S. Anthony, the other candidate, and retiring Labour representative, said that it had been suggested that, if Fianna Fail were returned to power, the Labour Party would agree to an alteration of Article 17.

"I want to tell you our attitude," he proceeded. "So far as we of the Labour Party are concerned, we will have no tinkering whatsoever with the Treaty. We have too much talk about oaths and treaties, and I am perfectly sick of it. Our first consideration is work and employment for our people."

In conclusion, Mr. Anthony asked the electors to declare to Cumann na nGaedheal and Fianna Fail, "A plague on both your houses," and to vote for Labour alone.

Mr. Tom Cassidy, Derry, referred to the dastardly and callous manner in which President Cosgrave has turned down Mr. Johnson's proposals to save the stability of the country. It was an infamous lie to suggest that Mr. Johnson's suggestion was prompted by any desire for a position on the National Cabinet.

A RUDE AWAKENING.

Mr. Conlon, a Government candidate for Roscommon, speaking at Ballaghaderreen on Tuesday, said that at the last general election the people, believing that peace and security had been definitely established, voted for candidates on personal grounds. A rude awakening had taken place owing to the assassination of Kevin O'Higgins, and the electors, were not likely to indulge in further experiments with Independent candidates. The entry of the Fianna Fail Party to the Dail brought about a position of stalemate. At the last election the people gave no party sufficient strength to maintain a Government, and, as under the Constitution all powers of government were derived from the people, an opportunity had to be given to the people to rectify the mistake made in June.

Referring to the statement attributed to the Rev. Malachy Brennan, P.P., Kilglass, that, with General Mulcahy, he had given an assurance that Messrs. T. Brennan, Conlon and A. Lavin would be sanctioned as Cumann na nGaedheal candidates, Mr. Conlon stated that no such assurance was, or could have been, given by him.

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE.

Following his meeting at Sligo on Tuesday night, President Cosgrave yesterday returned to Dublin. To-day he leaves for Kilkenny, where he will remain until Saturday, when it is expected he will proceed to Cork to wind up his electioneering activities.

JUMP INTO LIFFEY.

UNEMPLOYED PAINTER DROWNED.

At 4.45 o'clock yesterday afternoon a well-dressed young man was seen to mount the parapet of the Metal Bridge, Dublin, and jump into the Liffey. While struggling in the water he shouted twice. "Save me, save me," but, although some people on the quay threw a lifebuoy to him, he appeared to make no effort to seize it, and his body was recovered after two hours' grappling.

In the mortuary of Jervis Street Hospital the dead man was identified as William Nolan, aged 26, who lived with his parents at 17 Lower Wellington street. A painter by trade, he had been out of work for some time past.

BRAY HOME FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN.

ANNUAL SALE OF WORK.

The annual sale of work at the Home for Crippled Children at Bray was opened yesterday, and will be continued to-day. The work exhibited for sale, especially that of the young patients, is most interesting. The pupils, despite their disabilities, do great credit to their instructors in these specimens of their handicraft. The sale was well patronised yesterday, and it is hoped that it will be fully supported to-day. The Home is urgently in need of contributions. Both for current expenses and for the new scheme for sunlight and artificial light treatment, generous aid is sought.

VALUATIONS DOUBLED.

Enniskillen Rural Council, having appealed against the low valuation placed upon houses in Bloomfield terrace, on the outskirts of Enniskillen, failed to get the valuation raised. They appealed a second time, and now the appeal has been upheld and the valuations doubled—from £6 a year to £12 5s. in two cases, and £11 15s. in the other cases.

Now they are Shocked!

ELECTION NOTICES.

ADDRESS to the ELECTORATE OF COUNTY WICKLOW.

At the Cumann na nGaedheal Convention, held at Baltinglass on Wednesday, August 31st, I was selected as the only Government Candidate for County Wicklow in the coming Elections.

The real issues at stake are very clear, and every possible endeavour should be made to return every Government Candidate, in order that the country may have a strong and stable Government in power for the next five years.

THE SACREDNESS OF THE TREATY, AND OF AN OATH, THE SAFETY OF OUR CONSTITUTION, AND THE UPHOLDING OF THE FINANCIAL CREDIT OF THIS COUNTRY REST IN THE HANDS OF THE ELECTORS. THIS IS A SERIOUS TRUST AND A GREAT RESPONSIBILITY, AND IT LIES IN YOUR POWER TO SHOW HOW YOU APPRECIATE THE SERIOUSNESS OF THIS RESPONSIBILITY AND TRUST.

I ask you, for your own sake, and, above all, for your Country's sake, to go to the Poll and to urge everyone to do the same; and I ask all those who support me to give their second preference to Mr. Wilson, the Farmers' Candidate. Remember, the Farmers' Party stood by the Government during the late crisis.

I regret very much that, due to shortness of time, I shall be unable to call and see all those I should like to; but I appeal to the Electors of Wicklow to think fairly and squarely on the real issues at stake, and to support me in every possible way in order that President Cosgrave may have a strong working majority, and thereby ensure our Country's Security, Credit and Stability.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A ridge of high pressure is moving eastwards across the British Isles. Secondary depressions, associated with a deep depression South-west of Iceland, will probably move north-east across Ireland and Scotland before long. Fair weather is probable during most of the day in the South-East of England, but elsewhere the weather will become mainly cloudy or dull, with rain in Western Ireland.

Ireland, all Districts.—Wind between south and south-west, fresh to strong; mainly cloudy; occasional rain; visibility moderate to good; moderate temperature.

All Seaboards.—Freshening south-westerly winds, becoming dull, with rain later; visibility moderate to good; sea becoming rather rough.

ANIMAL WELFARE.

DISPENSARY IN DUBLIN.

A feature of modern times is the increasing interest taken in animal welfare. At first the activities of various societies were directed to the prevention of actual cruelty, but of late new ground has been broken, and the establishment of animal dispensaries, where sick animals of the poor may receive free treatment, is the result. This, apart from the merit of the work done for animals, is of interest to the general public, inasmuch as these institutions treat large numbers of diseased animals, which otherwise would wander at large a nuisance to themselves and potential disseminators of disease among their human associates. In this respect Dublin is not backward, and we welcome the advent of a new dispensary: "The Dublin Animals' Dispensary for Sick Animals of the Poor," which is being opened at 582 North Circular road.

A capable committee is in charge, under the presidency of Mrs. W. R. E. Murphy. The professional side is under the care of Mr. Grogan, V.S., Bray. The premises are suitably equipped and well stocked with every requirement. Premises have been secured at Grattan court, rere of 81 and 82 Lower Mount street, where it is hoped also to establish a dispensary and a hospital. In the latter animals can receive more effective treatment than it is possible to give by means of dispensary treatment only. In this connection the September Carnival, opening in September at the Rotunda Gardens, is being organised in order to obtain the necessary funds.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL DICK.

The Times announces the death of Brigadier-General Archibald Campbell Douglas Dick, C.B., C.M.G., of Pitkerro. He commanded a battalion of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders in the South African War, and during the Great War he trained and commanded a brigade of the same regiment, and later organised the Forfarshire Volunteers. In 1917 he went to Flanders, at the age of seventy, as Area Commandant, and then his health broke down.

The Case for Sanity.

Speaking at Gort, on Tuesday, Mr. P. J. Hogan said:—"I want you to return de Valera with a big majority or to return us with a big majority. Do one thing or the other." There is shrewd common-sense in this appeal. Of the three possible results of the coming general election the worst might be an indecisive verdict. It would mean a period of political instability—to be prolonged, perhaps, by the like outcome of yet another election three or six months hence. If President Cosgrave's party gets a majority of less than half a dozen (including Farmers and Independents) at next week's polls, he will be virtually helpless. At a meeting, on Tuesday, a Labour speaker extolled Mr. Thomas Johnson as a master of "stratagem." Mr. Johnson would have disastrous scope for the employment of his stratagems if Mr. Cosgrave could not be sure of the result of any division. They would take the shape of contrivances, with the Fianna Fail party's help, to catch the Government napping; and in such circumstances Mr. de Valera, though he might not show his whole hand, could be exceedingly mischievous. Of course the debility of Parliament would be reflected in every aspect of public affairs. Trade would wither because the people's confidence in the country's future would have disappeared. Since a new loan would be impossible, a financial crisis, not to be solved by any of Mr. Johnson's stratagems, would be certain before Christmas.

Mr. Hogan prefers the dangers of a drastic remedy to the miseries of a lingering decline. Once, in the great days of Athens, a noisy and incompetent demagogue criticised the conduct of a military campaign so persistently that the National Assembly said to him, "You shall be the commander-in-chief." So said, so done; and history records the fate of Cleon the leather-seller. Mr. de Valera, no doubt, desires an election result which, through Johnsonian stratagem, would put power, without responsibility, in his hands. Mr. Hogan, on the other hand, "wants the country to call this bluff once for all." If Mr. Cosgrave is not returned with a big majority, then Mr. de Valera, returned with a big majority, ought to be compelled to fulfil his huge folio of promises. He has undertaken, if he becomes the head of a Government, to denounce the Anglo-Irish Treaty, to reopen the financial settlement, to "punish" Northern Ireland, to resist the payment of land annuities, to surround the Free State with a bristling wall of tariffs. This programme, as Mr. Hogan says, would mean instant and inexorable war with England. Even if there were no actual fighting, the country would collapse speedily into anarchy, bankruptcy and despair. The farmer's markets would vanish, and his ruin would be completed by the policy of steep protection. Mr. de Valera would be submerged in the general calamity. In six months—perhaps, in three—another election would abolish him and his crazy policies, and the people, once more in its right mind, would call Mr. Cosgrave to the rescue.

We agree with Mr. Hogan that this terrific remedy would be better than no remedy at all. At the worst, however, it might kill the patient; at the best it would saddle the country and Mr. Cosgrave's next Government with truly formidable tasks of reconstruction. We suppose that it would put at least two shillings on the income tax for the next twenty years. Fortunately, there is not the slightest need to burn the nation's house for the sake of roast pork. If the electors wish to avoid alike the disaster of war with England and the misfortune of feeble and distracted government, they can secure both ends, on Thursday next, for a period of at least four years. The only thing needful is that they shall return Mr. Cosgrave to office with a majority that will make him immune from all political accidents and stratagems. He has told them what he will do with that lease of power, and his record shows that he can keep his promise. He will improve all the services of the State, will reduce taxation, will float a national loan on favourable terms, will help the farmers, will cultivate friendship with England and with Northern Ireland, and will "stand for honesty in public life." We have not the slightest doubt that the country desires this policy, but there is urgent need that it shall realise the full measure of its duty. If it wishes to grasp four years of peace and progress, it must present Mr. Cosgrave, next Thursday, with at least a dozen of the seats which were held in the late Dail by Fianna Fail, Labour and the National League. If, through apathy, lunacy or stupidity, it fails to make the effort, it will deserve the consequences.

Electricity on the Farm.

Irish farmers will be interested keenly in the controversy which has been created in England by Mr. R. Borlase Matthews's criticisms of English farming methods before the British Association. Mr. Matthews thinks that English farmers are very much behind the times. Some of their methods, he declares, are those of a century ago, and there never is likely to be any substantial improvement in the agricultural industry until the farmers decide to take advantage of the latest inventions of electrical science. He urges the adoption of electro-mechanical transport on all farms. In the field, he says, wagon loaders ought to be used, and in the barns loads ought to be removed by electrical appliances and transported in single lifts. Threshing machines should be fed by electrically driven conveyers, while similar conveyers should remove the grain, chaff and straw to their respective destinations. Mr. Matthews asserts that by the intelligent use of electricity the complete threshing operation on an ordinary farm could be carried out by three or four men, instead of the usual dozen. He contends also that three men could feed, clean and milk 150 cows in addition to cleansing their byres if electricity were employed. Finally, he suggests that every farm shall have a central hydro-manure plant, worked by electric current. This plant would pump manure to the fields, where it would be distributed by an ordinary fire-hose. Several representative farmers in England have expressed their views on Mr. Matthews's thesis, and they virtually all agree that, while the use of electricity on their farms undoubtedly would make for economy and increased production, the present cost of current in England is prohibitive. The British Government has passed an Electricity Bill to provide villages with cheap current, and it is possible that costs may be reduced considerably as a result of its operation. For the time being, however, the price of electricity in the rural areas is so high that, apart altogether from the cost of installation, very few farmers could afford to equip their holdings even as an experiment. As a "paying proposition" Mr. Matthews's suggestions are regarded as completely impracticable. The Irish Free State has more than an academic interest in these matters; for, if and when the Shannon Scheme is in a position to supply cheap electric current to the farmers, Mr. Matthews's plans, which one leading agriculturist describes as "Heath Robinson ideas," will be brought into the range of possibility in this country. Despite the good work that has been done by the co-operative movement in Ireland, farming methods still are rather primitive in some parts of the country. Marked improvements, however, have been made in recent years, and, if the advantages of electricity are brought home to the farmers by well-directed propaganda, there is little doubt that large numbers of them will take advantage of the cheap current. The new Shannon Board ought to lose no time in the organisation of its campaign. Ultimately, the success of the whole scheme is likely to depend on the extent to which the farmers use the Shannon current; and for the sake of the undertaking, as well as for the sake of better farming, no stone ought to be left unturned in the effort to create a healthy demand throughout the rural areas.

The Octopus.

The cinema industry of the West Indies has been acquired by a syndicate of American film-producers, which in future will have a virtual monopoly of film distribution throughout those islands. Thus the universal mechanisation of amusement is carried a step further. There is something regrettable in the world-wide adoption of a common standard of taste from China to Peru. To know that the same bright, particular stars smile bewitchingly or scowl fiercely from large and lurid posters in Irish villages, in Venice, where "Tasso's echoes are no more," in Tokio, and, for all we know, in "Greenland's icy mountains," subtracts something from the variety of life and the glamour of travel. It cannot be said that the cinema "makes the whole world kin" by touches of nature, since the majority of themes selected by producers are crude and violent. They do not "feature" a desirable order of society, or one which races with widely different codes of behaviour study with advantage. "The world is so full of a number of things," and it would be more amusing not to find the same "super picture" "running" in Robinson Crusoe's island that we had seen at home. There is danger of a standardisation which would be fatal to originality in art and to character in race. It happens that the immense majority of films is American, and that the cinema is regarded in America exclusively as a business and is organised exactly like any other branch of large-scale production; but the same danger would have arisen if any other country had secured so complete a monopoly. The man who wished to make a nation's ballads rather than its laws never contemplated the making of ballads for all mankind. "The movies" are as potent an influence in the life of any modern people as the ballad was in seventeenth century England, and it is not a healthy condition of affairs that one nation—or, more truly, one city—should make "movies" for the world.

A Daring Dane.

Thorkil Barford, a Danish citizen, has offered to test the lethal efficacy of the electric chair by personal experience. He is willing to be treated in exactly the same manner as if he had been sentenced to death by a United States court, but stipulates, not unreasonably, that the American authorities shall pay his passage out and—if he survives—back to Denmark. This offer has been prompted by discussion, following a recent event, whether "the chair" is a swift and humane method of execution, and whether the effect of the electric current might be counteracted by speedy medical attention. In the unlikely event of the acceptance of his offer Mr. Barford might hesitate to take his "seat perilous," but the eagerness of mankind to "try anything once" scarcely appears to have any limit. Whether the experiment promises useful results or not, intrepid persons always will be found to go over the falls of Niagara in a barrel or to dance continuously for a week. Volunteers in one of Jules Verne's romances consented to be shot out of a cannon to the moon, and fiction lags behind truth in wild examples of foolhardiness. No trans-Atlantic flyer will have any difficulty in securing passengers, who take no thought whatever of the dangers before them. The spirit of self-advertisement may be more highly developed than ever in this age of publicity, but we must be slow to condemn heroic recklessness when it may contribute to human progress. There ought to be other ways, however, of ensuring that the execution of American criminals is painless than the sacrifice of the innocent Mr. Barford to make a sensation-mongers' holiday.

NEW MOTOR ORDER CANCELLED.

SEQUEL TO THE TRADERS' REPRESENTATIONS.

With reference to the introduction of a modified system of assessing Customs duty on imported motor cars, a deputation, representing the Society of Irish Motor Traders, Ltd., was received on Tuesday by the Free State Revenue Commissioners.

The deputation put forward certain proposals relating to the production to the Revenue Commissioners of contracts or agreements between sellers (manufacturers) and purchasers (importers) and of affidavits bearing on such contracts and other kindred matters, with a view of the more effective safeguarding of the revenue in future.

After a lengthy discussion in which the Commissioners outlined the conditions under which they would be prepared to agree to the proposals of the trade, the deputation accepted the conditions on behalf of the members of the Society.

On this understanding the Commissioners agreed to cancel their recent Order instituting a basis of assessment of duty on motor cars with reference to the Irish Free State retail selling price, less a flat percentage and less other statutory allowances.

Accordingly, the system of assessing duty on motor cars followed prior to the recent Order of the Commissioners will be reverted to at once, and the safeguards referred to above will be brought into force as soon as possible in agreement with the motor trade generally.

A meeting of the Society of Irish Motor Traders, Ltd., was held yesterday afternoon at 31 Upper Merrion street, Mr. John O'Neill, president, in the chair.

The meeting expressed appreciation of the concessions granted, "which settled a very troublesome matter to the entire satisfaction of the Society."

The new regulation is now cancelled.

MR. MACDONALD'S GIBE AT PREMIER.

COMPARED TO SITTING EAGLE

Criticising Mr. Baldwin in a speech last night in Edinburgh, Mr. Ramsay Macdonald said:—"The Premier has been endeavouring to live up to his new title 'Sitting Eagle'—tranquillity and dignity. He warns us against upsets. If there is any danger of upset it is because of the Tory Government of the kind we now have in office."

It was, he added, now proved by the Trade Union Congress that attacks on the Labour, political and industrial movement by the Tory Party had never had a shadow of reality. The Congress had declared it was Socialist, not Communistic. He did not wish peace in industry by surrendering the workman. It should come by giving the worker greater share in the proceeds of industry.

NORTH'S £6,000,000 DRINK BILL.

DEMAND FOR LOCAL OPTION.

The Rev. T. M. Johnstone, speaking at a temperance meeting in the Shankill road district, Belfast, said:—"In Ulster no less than £6,000,000 is spent yearly in drink, and I tell you to-night, without fear of denial, that if this money was diverted into legitimate industries, within two years there would not be an unemployed man in Ulster."

Proceeding, he said that he admitted that the Northern Government were doing everything that was humanly possible to solve the problem of unemployment, except the one thing that would solve it—namely, the abolition of the drink traffic. The temperance party in Ulster, he declared, had come to the end of their tether, and they were now out for local option in the next Parliament, which would come in 1928 or 1929. It was fifty-six years since local option was first mentioned in the Presbyterian Church, and they were not going to wait another fifty-six years or even five years.

THE KING'S CUP.

DOVER ARTILLERYMAN'S SUCCESS.

The 168th Battery of the 10th Heavy Brigade, which yesterday won the King's Cup for the best Territorial Heavy Artillery Brigade in Great Britain, at Sandown, Isle of Wight, has its headquarters at Dover, and is composed of mainly Kent coalminers and employés of the Dover Corporation. Captain C. W. Raw, who was in charge of the battery, and gave the ranging and elevation orders from his observation post, is a chartered accountant in London and Dover.

CUBIST SHOP WINDOWS.

TURNING US INTO MECHANICAL ROBOTS.

"The modern shop window is becoming definitely Cubist," said Mr. Holbrook Jackson, editor of the "Drapers' Record," at the National Display Convention at Leicester yesterday. "It is simple, direct and rectangular. All the best modernist displays are angular rather than curved, and the best backgrounds are plain rather than ornate.

"This new form of art is like nothing else in the history of art. It has arisen almost spontaneously out of a curious mechanisation of life that will turn us into machanical Robots if we do not look out."

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD.

The King and Queen have sent a message of congratulation to Mrs. Charlotte Follell, a native of Mears Ashby, Northants, who yesterday celebrated her hundredth birthday. She attributes her long life to hard work in the open air. Until two years ago she lived alone in a small cottage.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The King gave an audience on Tuesday evening to the Right Hon. Winston Churchill on his arrival at Balmoral Castle, where he is staying as Minister-in-Attendance. Their Majesties are giving small dinner parties at the Castle, and their last guests included Lady Dorothea Ashley-Cooper, Lord Stamfordham, the Hon. Mrs. Adeane, the Hon. Margaret Bigge and Miss Lœlia Ponsonby. To-day Their Majesties, with a large party, will attend the Braemar Gathering, and will drive from Balmoral Castle to the Princes' Royal Park in a landau, drawn by four grey horses, with postillions and outriders.

Princess Victoria, who has been taking a course of the waters at Harrogate, has returned to Coppins, her residence in Buckinghamshire, and will probably pay some visits in Scotland before the late autumn. Her Royal Highness is taking much interest in the efforts to raise funds for the Royal London Ophthalmic Hospital, and has promised to open the annual sale of the Ladies' Guild, for which Sir John and Lady Bland-Sutton are lending their house in Brook street, Grosvenor square, in November.

The Marchioness of Londonderry, after a short stay with the Duke of Argyll and his sister, Lady Elspeth Campbell, at Inverary Castle, has arrived at Loch Choire Lodge, Sutherlandshire, which the Marquis of Londonderry has rented again this season for the fishing and deerstalking. The Earl and Countess of Cavan have left London for Scotland, and will be away for some weeks. Lord and Lady Herschell have arrived in the Shetlands, and are staying at Brough Lodge, Fetlar, the residence of the Dowager Lady Nicolson.

Viscount Clifden and his daughters, the Hon. Julia and the Hon. Edith Agar-Robartes, have left London for Bath. Viscount Tredegar, the Marquis de Galtero and the Dean of Exeter are among the arrivals at Llandrindod Wells. The Dowager Viscountess Mountgarret returned to London from the Continent on Monday, and left yesterday for Scotland. Elizabeth Lady Cheylesmore left Southampton yesterday on the s.s. Olympic for New York. The Countess of Erroll is leaving for Kenya to visit her son and daughter-in-law, Lord and Lady Kilmarnock, and will not return to England till the beginning of December.

There was a large attendance at the opening of the Doncaster Meeting, and again yesterday. Among the Irish visitors seen on the stands were the Marchioness of Headfort, Lady Millicent Taylour, Lady Mary Kirk, the Hon. Geoffrey and Mrs. Parsons, General Sir Bryan and Lady Mahon, Major and the Hon. Mrs. Barry and Major and Mrs. Featherstonhaugh.

Harrogate has many visitors this autumn. They include the Countess of Aylesford, the Countess of Mount Edgcumbe, the Earl of Rosslyn, Lord Saville, Lord Bethell, Lord Glanely, Lord Cawley, Lord Illingworth, the Hon. Lady Hill-Wood, Sir Frederick and Lady Freake, Sir John Canzoni, M.P., and Sir William Pryke.

Dr. Dempsey has left 7 Merrion square for one month.

Dr. Boxwell has returned to 2 Upper Hatch street.

Dr. D. A. MacErlean has returned to 62 Fitzwilliam square.

Doctor M. M. Maughan has left 27 Harcourt street until the end of the month.

Dr. Spencer Sheill has returned to 31 Upper Pembroke street.

Miss May Joyce has left 14 Parnell square until September 26th.

Mr. M. M. Donnelly, L.D.S.I., Surgeon Dentist, begs to announce that he has taken over Mr. R. J. Naughton's practice at 36 Shop street, Galway.

The "Switzermac" Featherweight Raincoat affords all the protection of a heavy coat without the inconvenience. It is absolutely Rainproof, and can be had in many attractive shades at Switzers, Grafton street. The price is only 25s.

When you have examined Ciro Pearls at the Ciro Salon, Switzers, you will not be surprised that even experts find it difficult to tell them from the real. Fully guaranteed. London prices.

SCHOOLBOY ORATORS IN WASHINGTON.

SEVEN NATIONAL GROUPS TO BE REPRESENTED.

Selected out of 500 competitors to represent England at an international oratorical contest at Washington in October, James Keith Watson, the elder son of Mr. James Watson, of Craigie Lea, Ben Rhydding, near Ilkley, Yorkshire, sails on Friday for America. Captain of the Ilkley Grammar Schools for two years, he won the Governor's Leaving Scholarship and the West Riding County Major Scholarship.

In the Washington contest seven national groups will be represented—England, France, Canada, Mexico, the United States, Hawaiian Islands and Japan. For the English representative, pupils in secondary and grammar schools were asked to submit a thousand words oration. Mr. Watson chose as his subject, "England's Contribution to Constitutional Government." This he will deliver in Washington in the presence of President Coolidge and about eight thousand people. He receives a free passage to America and thirty shillings a day expenses from the day of his landing, September 18th, to his departure on October 15.

The object of the contest is to promote a better understanding between the nations by a friendly interchange of views and to stimulate scholastic enthusiasm for intellect as contrasted with purely athletic pursuits. Watson has taken a special interest in politics, and has proved a fluent speaker in several local debating societies.

When the Ilkley Grammar School speech day took place six weeks ago, the Canadian schoolboy orator, F. P. Hotson, was in England enjoying his prize, a trip to Europe. Before going to Canada three years ago, Hotson was for years at Midhurst Grammar School, Essex. Both Hotson and Watson delivered before the speech day audience at Ilkley the orations they will make in Washington.

LONDON LETTER.

A BLOW AT COMMUNISM.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Communism received an almost staggering blow at the Trade Union Congress to-day, when, by an overwhelming vote, it was decided to ban the minority movement, while the General Council has decided to recommend that no useful purpose will be served by continuing negotiations with the Russian trade unions so long as their present attitude and policy are maintained. This is a direct answer to the highly impudent communication sent from Moscow to the Congress attacking the Labour leaders for their conduct in the general strike and declaring that several of them were traitors. It is interesting to find that common-sense is playing such a prominent part in the discussions of the Congress.

Working-Class Candidates.

It is hoped that Conservative working-men candidates will contest several seats at the next general election, and that the monopoly of such candidates will cease to remain with the Socialists. I am informed that the selection of suitable candidates of such standing will meet with no obstacle at the party headquarters, and that a working miner has been adopted for a North of England constituency. If circumstances permit, it is possible that several industrial constituencies now held by Socialists will be contested by Conservative workers at the next election—a point of interest when it is recalled that a great number of working women will be given the vote under the new franchise scheme. Many of these women, while certainly not Socialists, would prefer to be represented by one of their own class.

National Economy.

The absence of any very definite reference to the continued promotion of national economy in Mr. Churchill's speech last week has been exercising the minds of a number of Conservatives, and it is likely that efforts will be made to secure assurances from the Government that the pursuit of further substantial savings in the estimates has not been dropped. It is suggested that Mr. Churchill should not rest satisfied with the prospect of not having to increase taxation, but that he should aim at a reduction. This view is strongly held in the City of London, where it is maintained that the high rate of taxation is a serious hindrance to the growth of trade. Much may be heard of this question when the House of Commons re-assembles.

The Irish Elections.

People who have been on holiday in the Irish Free State on returning to London comment upon the extraordinary apathy which they have noticed among the electorate in connection with the forthcoming election, though, on being questioned, they agreed that there was in places considerable enthusiasm for the Government. Apathy is the one great danger to Governments at election times, a fact proved on this side of the Irish Channel. It is hoped in Irish circles here that apathy in the Free State will not result in a return to the deadlock of last month.

The Schneider Trophy.

Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary for Air, with Sir Sefton Brancker, the Director of Civil Aviation, and a party of officials, is to fly from England to Venice for the Schneider trophy contest in the new commercial flying boat, Medina. The start is to be made from Southampton, and the flight will be via Cherbourg and Marseilles, concluding on the Lido, where the contest will take place on September 25th. Great preparations have been made on the Lido by the British airmen, who have had two hangars placed at their disposal, though the aeroplanes which they are using for training purposes are not those in which they will compete. The Eagle, the aeroplane carrier, will arrive in a few days, bringing some special aeroplanes ready for flight. These will not be released from the ship until a few hours before the competition opens

An Atlantic Rocket.

The pilots announcing an intention of flying the Atlantic have been inundated with applications from would-be passengers; but it is understood that no offers have been received by the American scientist who asks for passengers to test his giant rocket apparatus across the Atlantic. The theory of the device is that, by successive explosions, the apparatus could be projected over long distances before finally coming to earth. Nothing is said as to an arrangement for easing the shock of landing, and, although the inventor professes immense confidence in the device, he apparently does not intend to make use of it for his own projection.

The Earth's Age.

Considerable interest has been aroused here by the assertion of Sir Oliver Lodge that there are indications that the universe always has existed. These indications are not unknown to many other people than Sir Oliver Lodge; for in caverns in this country scientists have discovered indisputable evidence that the earth is millions of years old. In Kent's cavern at Torquay scientists have discovered successive layers in the earth showing that fires were used for cooking purposes countless thousands of years ago. Traces of wood ashes and calcined bones of animals in successive layers have been discovered under the deposits of stalagmites, which have been steadily forming for unknown ages.

Conscription.

The time does not seem to be far distant when conscription will be generally abandoned; for in Germany the theory that safety can be secured only by a nation in arms is fast falling into disrepute, while in France the General Staff is now being won over to the idea of a highly-trained professional army such as ours, which, in course of time, would mean the abandonment of the conscription of the present large number of men. It is said that the reason for the new point of view is that conscription is becoming more and more unpopular, and the fact that unwilling recruits do not make an army that can be trusted is now recognised.

The Harvest.

The dry weather of the past few days has brought satisfaction to the farmer; for it has done much to uplift the crops which the rain had beaten down, and cutting will be rendered less difficult. There are optimistic reports from all parts of the country as to the quality of the harvest both of grain and fruit. The root crops have been particularly good, especially sugar beet. If the fine weather lasts a few days longer, the harvesting of crops should be completed in a highly satisfactory manner. Talking of the sun, it is, perhaps, worth noting that London, for the first time for a week, enjoyed several hours of bright sunshine to-day.

Coal Prices.

The upward movement of retail coal prices in London has begun. So far the rise is only from one shilling to two shillings a ton, and applies to certain districts. Next week the area over which the increased prices operate is to be extended, and in the following week it is probable that a further increase will take place in all districts. It is the experience of many London merchants that demand is stimulated by the first increase towards winter prices, and that the efforts to induce householders to stock their cellars in the summer meet with little success.

If I were a would-be reformer I would throw myself with ardour into the task of fighting politically for mothers.—Mrs. J. B. S. Haldane.

LINERS SEARCH FOR LOST ATLANTIC FLIERS.

"S.O.S." MESSAGE SENT WHEN 600 MILES OFF NEWFOUNDLAND.

NO TRACE OF THE OLD GLORY.

LITTLE HOPE OF FINDING MISSING MACHINE IN ROUGH SEA.

WIRELESS FROM CAPTAINS.

HAS the Old Glory, which left Old Orchard, Maine, U.S.A., on Tuesday afternoon, shared the fate of the St. Raphael and White Bird, both of which disappeared while flying the Atlantic?

Yesterday, at 8.9 a.m. (G.M.T.), nearly fourteen hours after the machine took off on her flight to Rome, a "S.O.S." message was picked up by several Atlantic liners. They immediately altered their course, and proceeded to a point about 600 miles east of Newfoundland, which it was calculated the Old Glory would have reached. Up to a late hour this morning the search for the missing airmen had been fruitless.

Both the Canadian aeroplanes which are attempting the Transatlantic flight, are understood to be following the same course as the Old Glory, and it is hoped that they may be of some assistance in locating the latter. The Sir John Carling (London to London) left Harbour Grace, Newfoundland, yesterday morning, while the Royal Windsor, flying to Windsor (England), is refuelling at Harbour Grace (Newfoundland) before continuing her flight across the Atlantic.

LINERS RUSH TO THE RESCUE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Wednesday.

Although two liners are steaming under every inch of pressure in response to the Old Glory's "S.O.S.," apprehension regarding the airmen's safety is increasing, as hour after hour passes without any further wireless signal in explanation of their plight.

It is hoped that the silence means nothing worse than that either the apparatus is not working, or that the crew have been forced to leave the aeroplane because it is sinking, and have entrusted themselves to the collapsible rubber lifeboat, which was part of their equipment.

If the liners fail to find the airmen, it is possible that a rescue may be effected by one of the two other aeroplanes that are taking the same course—namely, the Sir John Carling and the Royal Windsor.

It has been estimated that the former should pass over the point indicated by the "S.O.S." at about 5.30 p.m. B.S.T., and the latter at about midnight.

SPECULATIONS.

It is hard to conjecture exactly what accident prompted the sending of the "S.O.S." It is evident that the emergency was a sudden one; perhaps due to squally weather, or some sudden and violent freak of the wind that in some manner disabled the craft.

Even so, the fuel could have been emptied in less than a minute, and the machine, buoyed up by its empty tanks, should have floated for some time, even in the rough water that the ships have reported in the vicinity. Friends, who have been comforting the relatives of the flyers, recalled how Commander Rodgers and a crew of four men spent nine days in an aeroplane in the open Pacific, when forced down on their flight from San Francisco to Honolulu in 1925, and lived to tell the tale.

LAST SEEN 350 MILES OUT.

Unfortunately there is the same uncertainty as to the whereabouts of the Old Glory, as of Commander Rodgers's machine. All the information that the Old Glory flashed through the pitch darkness of the early morning was: "S.O.S. Five hours out Newfoundland." No latitude or longitude was given, and the vessels going to the airmen's relief were forced to work on the conjecture that the machine had travelled so many miles an hour, and not deviated from the course.

On the basis of 100 miles an hour, the officers of the Transylvania decided that the aeroplane had come down at the position 49.50 North, 41.15 West. The liner arrived there late in the morning, but after cruising around and finding nothing, proceeded to the point where the machine was last seen by the s.s. California, 350 miles east of St. John's at 5.57 British time.

"'PLANE IS HEAVY."

The Carmania and the Lapland also proceeded westward to take part in the general search. Possibly a premonition of what was to come led Bertaud to wireless last night, as the Old Glory was proceeding up the Atlantic seaboard, "The plane is heavy"; and one recalls that it was this same tremendous burden of fuel which delayed for weeks the airmen's departure, and eventually forced them to take off from Old Orchard Beach, instead of the runway at Roosevelt Field, which had been sufficient for Commander Byrd's three-engined America.

Mr. Anthony Fokker, the designer of the Old Glory, has on several occasions expressed concern at the load which the machine Old Glory was expected to carry.

MR. FOKKER'S COMMENT.

In a statement made before it left New York, Mr. Fokker said that he thought the weight had been unnecessarily increased, and, dwelling at length upon the margin of safety thought to have been provided, declared: "There is an essential difference between an aeroplane and a motor lorry which is not always realised. If a motor lorry is overloaded, another man can still be put on; but in an aeroplane the addition of another passenger may prevent every possibility of flying, or even result in disaster."

This reference to an extra passenger occasioned a discussion between Mr. Fokker's representative and Mr. Philip Payne, the representative of Mr. Hearst, who is backing the flight. It did not, however, prevent Mr. Payne from going as one of the crew.

The statement listed several other items which, it was submitted, could have been dispensed with, such as a fifty-pound exhaust muffler, which was stated to consume ten horse-power, and a fourteen-pound mattress.

REPORTS FROM LINERS.

TRANSYLVANIA gave up search at nightfall, and proceeded on voyage. Reported little chance of the airmen surviving.

CALIFORNIA still searching to the Northward.

AMERICAN MERCHANT still searching to the Eastward.

CARMANIA reported: "There is little chance of the survival of the collapsible boat under the present conditions."

STRONG WINDS AND HEAVY SEAS.

THE LATEST ATLANTIC WEATHER REPORTS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
OLD ORCHARD (MAINE), Wednesday.

Late reports of heavy seas in the region of the Atlantic, whence the dramatic S.O.S. calls for help from the trans-Atlantic 'plane, Old Glory, were received early this morning, have given rise to the gravest pessimism here concerning the safety of the American flyers, Bertaud, Hill and Payne.

The last favourable message from the trio was received here when they were just off Bigby, Nova Scotia, and reported that they were proceeding at a speed of a hundred miles an hour, and that all was well.

THE WREATH FOR NUNGESSER.

Meteorological reports from the United States coastal stations indicated that strong Westerly winds would follow the machine, taking approximately the same direction as the proposed flight, with occasional variation of 27 degrees.

The wave length used by Mechanic Payne is the same as that used by the majority of the British broadcasting companies and stations, so that listeners who possess a knowledge of the Morse code might pick up signals of the machine as it approached Europe.

One of the last things taken aboard the Old Glory was a wreath of flowers, marked "To Nungesser and Coli," which Bertaud planned to throw into the sea in memory of the two intrepid Frenchmen, who failed to return from their great adventure.

It was Lloyd Bertaud who was to have served as the second member of the crew of the Miss Columbia, with Mr. Clarence Chamberlin. As a result of differences with Mr. Levine, the owner of the aeroplane, however, he abandoned the project to find another patron and another aeroplane.

EMPTYING THE TANKS.

The Old Glory and the attempted non-stop flight to Rome were the result. The Old Glory is a Fokker monoplane, greatly resembling the America, which Commander Byrd flew to France. The only essential difference between the two is that Byrd's 'plane had three motors, while Bertaud's is equipped with but one.

The Old Glory was in a position to develop 450 horse power. The fuel used on account of the strong compression of the motor was a mixture of 80 per cent. petrol and 20 per cent. benzol, with a small addition of ethyl. The tanks were so arranged that they might be emptied in 45 seconds. This is a significant safety measure in view of the "S.O.S." report, since it was expected that in case the airmen encountered trouble over the ocean

NEW FLIGHT IN PROGRESS.

LONDON-LONDON.

BREAKING THE NEW OF OLD GLORY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEWFOUNDLAND, Wednesday.

The airmen on board the Sir John Carling were not aware when they left Harbour Grace this morning that the Old Glory was in distress. A report was, however, placed in their map case, by arrangement with the local authorities of Harbour Grace.

This would be found by the airmen when they took out their map for navigation purposes.

ROYAL WINDSOR TO START TO-DAY.

ANOTHER STAGE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND, Wednesday.

The aeroplane Royal Windsor, which is attempting to fly from Windsor, Ontario, to Windsor, England, made an easy flight here from Old Orchard, Maine. The weather was favourable, except when passing over Placentia Bay, when it rained.

The actual flying time was seven hours fifty-five minutes. After landing, the airmen decided not to refuel the aeroplane till daylight for fear of a repetition of the accident of the explosion of petrol on Monday night, when the Sir John Carling was having her tanks filled.

Three hundred gallons of petrol will be required, taking about four hours to stow away. The aeroplane is not likely to start before to-morrow afternoon.

The aviators express keen sympathy with the ill-fated occupants of Old Glory, and surprise that they should have met with a mishap.

CAPTAIN COURTNEY'S FLIGHT.

WEATHER REPORTS STILL UNFAVOURABLE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MADRID, Wednesday.

According to telegrams from Corunna, the weather reports to hand indicate inauspicious conditions at present for Captain Courtney's proposed flight to the Azores.

they would be able to empty the aeroplane's tanks before alighting in the water, and thus stand a better chance of keeping afloat.

SEARCH BY LINERS.

"NO RESULT."

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

No further news of the Old Glory has been received since the "S.O.S." early this morning, when she was estimated to be 500 miles off the Newfoundland coast, and about 83 miles from the liner Transylvania, and 120 miles from the Carmania, both of which indicated that they were rushing to her aid.

Weather conditions in the North Atlantic are reported to be unfavourable, with an overcast sky, high seas, and a strong wind.

Later.

The captain of the Transylvania, on reaching the spot, searched a 30-mile area round about the spot indicated without result.

Messages received earlier from the captains of the Transylvania and the Carmania reported that the ships were steaming at full speed towards the spot where the Old Glory was expected to be. Fresh winds and a rough sea continued. No further signals were received from the aeroplane.

LINER PROCEEDING ON VOYAGE.

Having spent the day in futile search for the Old Glory, the liner Transylvania wirelessed to-night that she is proceeding on her voyage.

Captain Bone adds:—"The California is continuing the search to northward, and the American Merchant to eastward, but there is little hope of survival of the aviators in view of the rough sea at the time of the casualty."

Captain Brown, of the Carmania, reporting late this afternoon, made a similarly disquieting statement. "I consider," he said, "that there is little chance of the survival of the collapsible boat under the present conditions."

AEROPLANES THAT VANISHED.

SIX THIS YEAR.

1910.

Mr. Cecil Grace, flying across the English Channel from France to England, was seen by a lighthouse keeper off the Goodwins, and then vanished.

1914.

Gustav Hamel, ascended from a French coast aerodrome to fly to London, and was never seen again

1920.

Captain Hirell and Mr. Fraser were lost in the Mediterranean while attempting to fly to Australia.

1924.

A Dutch monoplane, piloted by M. Tyd, with two Dutch passengers, left London for Amsterdam, but failed to reach its destination. No traces of machine or occupants were ever found.

1927.

May—The French airmen, Captain St. Roman, and Lieutenant Mouneyres, left Senegal to fly across the South Atlantic to Brazil, and were not heard of again

May—Captains Nungesser and Coli, attempting a westward flight across the North Atlantic, from France to America, were seen crossing the Irish coast, but were never definitely heard of again.

August—In a race across the Pacific, from California to Hawaii, three aeroplanes vanished. Two of them, the Miss Doran and the Golden Eagle, were competing craft. The third, the Spirit of Dallas, was a machine searching for the other two. In one of the missing aeroplanes was a woman passenger, Miss Mildred Doran, after whom one of the missing machines was named.

August 4—Colonel F. F. Minchin and Captain Leslie Hamilton, with Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim as passenger, left Upavon on the monoplane, St. Raphael, attempting to fly to Ottawa. The machine was last seen from land passing over Galway shortly after noon on Wednesday, August 31. An oil tank steamer reported that an aeroplane passed them in mid-Atlantic, but no news as to the fate of the machine or its occupants has been received

THE ELECTION.

POINTS FROM LAST NIGHT'S SPEECHES.

MR. P. J. McGILLIGAN.

What part of the Fianna Fail policy was not to be put in force. We all know it since the Manchester Guardian's interview with Mr. de Valera—re-open the financial settlement with England; punish the North; have no land annuities, but alter the name, and have a land tax; have a less costly standard of living for this country. Mr. de Valera is now asking the country to return him to power to put that policy into operation.

He is going to do it with money raised in America. We all know the situation he would meet going to America to raise a loan. It would cost 4 to 5 per cent. to collect, be issued probably at 80, and we would have to pay 10 per cent. for it. In addition, we would have to mortgage the Customs and Excise duties, and everything of value in the country, as security.—At Drogheda.

MR. ERNEST BLYTHE.

Mr. de Valera appears to be like Rip Van Winkle—he appears to have been asleep and not to know that new circumstances have arisen—that it is not merely money to help in carrying on a political party that is required, but money for the Shannon scheme, drainage and agricultural credits. Money for these purposes can be got only on business terms, and if there is uncertainty and turmoil in the country, it cannot be borrowed on anything like a fair rate of interest.—At Castleblayney.

MR. P. HOGAN.

I hear now about the English being here and about our Army being an English army. That is because the men who say it do not realise, as Kevin O'Higgins was the first to realise, that we are free men. I would rather be ruled by the British than by a minority of gunmen.

We sell 98 per cent. of the goods we produce in Ireland to the British, and why, in the name of God, should we fight them? If there is to be fighting in the country, I know who would have to do it. It would be the Sean MacKeons, and not the louts who interrupt at meetings. The minority are rotten with humbug. Now that the English are gone, our policy is to sell them our produce at the best price, and not to fight them.

If you want more fight with England and more confusion, then elect de Valera.—At Athlone.

MR. DE VALERA.

Treason under the Public Safety Act would consist in disloyalty to a foreign Power and the Constitution imposed by a foreign Power. Such treason is nothing more or less than loyalty to Ireland.—At Cavan.

PRINCESS XENIA DELAYED.

FLIGHT OVER DUBLIN YESTERDAY.

Weather conditions yesterday again prohibited the start of the trans-Atlantic flight, from Baldonnel Aerodrome, Co. Dublin, of the Fokker monoplane, Princess Xenia. While awaiting a final weather report, Captain McIntosh, about 10 a.m., took Commandant Fitzmaurice, the officer commanding at Baldonnel, up on a trial spin, as a compliment to him for his help in connection with the preparations. The monoplane glided gracefully into the air after a run of only 400 to 500 yards, although carrying 70 per cent. of the full load.

The monoplane climbed steadily to a height of about a thousand feet, and then cruised around in wide circles. The weather was fine and sunny, with excellent visibility, but a light wind that had sprung up in the early morning was increasing steadily in velocity. It was then blowing at about 15-20 miles per hour, but by 1 p.m. it had increased to 25 m.p.h.

IMPROVING THE TAKE-OFF.

After cruising for about twenty minutes, the machine landed, and was given a bad bump as the result of touching a slight ridge near the centre of the aerodrome.

A conference was held by Captain Piercey and Commandant Fitzmaurice, and it was decided to send to Dublin for seven tons of compressed peat to fill in the ridge, and any unevenness of the surface. It was also decided that the grass on this section of the aerodrome should be cut, and the job was finished before nightfall by a motor tractor. The work of filling in the ridge and unevenness of the ground surface was then started, and will be finished at dawn to-day.

This new track, in Captain Piercey's opinion, should help the "take-off" of the monoplane when fully loaded, and also take the strain off the under-carriage and wings of the machine.

Almost immediately after the first trial flight, Captain McIntosh and Captain Wreford took their monoplane up for a dual test flight.

The Princess Xenia again made an excellent "take-off," and, after circling around the aerodrome once, flew over Dublin at a height of several thousand feet. The identification markings: "G—EBTS," which are painted in large black letters against a white background underneath the wings, and on the sides of the fuselage, however, could hardly be distinguished from the ground.

Captain McIntosh and Captain Wreford cruised around for nearly an hour, and again made an excellent landing in less than six hundred yards.

Speaking after the flight, Captain McIntosh smilingly remarked: "She's working beautifully. Yes, that test was perfect. I am very satisfied."

Large crowds visited the aerodrome to see the machine yesterday, and General D. Hogan, Chief of Staff, was shown over the machine by the airmen. Colonel O'Higgins, Chief Staff Officer, and Colonel C. Russell were also present.

At 5 p.m. the monoplane was locked in her hangar for the night.

The petrol fuelling men again stood by all night to finish the fuelling of the tanks in the hope that a start will be possible to-day.

The weather report last night, however, was not promising, and instead of starting at 10 a.m., as Captain McIntosh hopes, he may have to spend the day on the ground.

MISS COLUMBIA HELD UP.

It was stated by Captain Hinchliffe yesterday that it is doubtful whether Miss Columbia would be able to leave Cranwell Aerodrome (Lincs) on her flight to the United States before to-morrow or Saturday.

ELECTRICITY ON THE FARM.

MOSTLY A QUESTION OF £.S.D.

SHARP DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.

In view of the widespread distribution of electricity throughout the Free State when the Shannon scheme is completed, the views of English farmers on the use of electricity in agriculture are of special interest.

As reported in the Irish Times yesterday, Mr. Borlase Matthews, the well-known agricultural engineer, stated at the British Association meeting on Tuesday, that "many of the farm duties are carried out just as they were a hundred years ago, and the remedy is the introduction of more machinery and electric power."

"IMPRACTICABLE" SAY NORFOLK FARMERS.

Inquiries made of representative British farmers yesterday revealed sharply diverse views on Mr. Mathews' statement. Norfolk farmers were not at all impressed by the suggestions made. They would welcome electricity for grinding corn, chaff-cutting and root preparing and for lighting barns and cow-sheds. Most of the other suggestions, however, are described as impracticable.

The omission of figures giving the cost of an installation is regarded as significant, and attention is drawn to the contradictory statements that Labour would be saved by the use of electricity, and yet that there would not be fewer workers on the land.

Some farmers resent the suggestion that they are lagging behind other industries, and declare that they are ever ready to use suitable machinery when practicable. To run an electrically equipped farm at a profit, they say, the produce would have to be sold at three times the present prices.

SUGGESTED GOVERNMENT EXPERIMENT.

A prominent official of the British National Farmers' Union said: "So long as the costs of equipment and power remains at the high level of to-day it is utterly uneconomic to go in for electrical development on a large scale in agriculture."

Mr. Joseph Gibson, an ex-Chairman of the Notts Branch of the Farmers' Union, and a large farmer in the Newark district, suggested that an experiment should be made by the Government on an average farm, and, if electricity could be found to pay the farmers, the question of further capital was not insoluble.

A QUESTION OF £ S. D.

Mr. J. C. Henderson, Chairman of the Cupar Branch of the Farmers' Union, said:—"Electricity is a good thing for farmers if the cost is within measureable distance. Short daylight difficulties in winter would be overcome, and farm work carried through with smaller staffs and less danger."

Mr. Miles H. Hember, Secretary of the Somerset County Branch of the National Farmers' Union, said:—"The whole question of obtaining and using electricity for power and lighting on English farms resolves itself into one of 'L.S.D.' On the majority of farms in the West of England machinery is driven by oil engine, but farmers would gladly substitute electricity and extend mechanical working if the supply was cheaper. English farmers want help to tide over the present lean time and put the industry on a more prosperous footing.

THE EXAMPLE OF GERMANY.

"I have just returned from a Continental holiday during which I travelled hundreds of miles by road through Germany, observing agricultural conditions, and I particularly noted the general use of electricity on farms. The supply is conveyed by long distance overhead cables from water power generating stations. Similarly big schemes providing cheap electricity would help English farming immensely."

BEDFORDSHIRE FARMERS ENTHUSIASTIC.

"At no very distant date the application of electricity to farming operations will be the salvation of the agricultural industry," said Mr. W. Quenby, who farms nearly a thousand acres at Oakley, Bedfordshire, in an interview to-day. He makes his own current for lighting, and is quite ready to make use of the Bedford electricity scheme when it reaches Oakley. While agreeing with Mr. Borlase Matthews on general grounds, he points out that the stumbling block of capital expenditure will prevent the lecturer's vision being realised for some time.

"It will come gradually," he says, "beginning with the bigger farms, and there is no doubt that when every gate post has its electric plug vast labour expenses will be cut and farming will pay better."

DISTRIBUTION COSTS.

The problem of distribution in rural areas is referred to in a memorandum issued yesterday by the British Electricity Commission. This states:—"The costs of local transmission and distribution represent a substantial addition to the cost of producing electricity, even in urban centres, where the number of consumers obtainable per mile of cable laid is necessarily greater than can be the case in the sparsely populated rural areas."

Underground cables, it is noted, cost three to four times as much per mile as overhead lines. "The substantially higher cost of underground distribution interposes a serious and, in many cases, an absolute obstacle in the way of this method of electrical development in rural areas, and in consequence the liberal use of overhead lines, together with the best possible facilities for their erection is essential if rural communities are to enjoy the benefits of a public supply of electricity."

FLOODS IN RUSSIA.

HEAVY DAMAGE AND LOSS OF LIFE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MOSCOW, Wednesday.

Unprecedentedly heavy rain in the region of Batum has caused loss of life and the destruction of much property.

Caoba, a suburb of Batum, has been inundated and many houses wrecked.

In the village of Goni all the buildings were carried away by the floods, and other villages suffered similarly. Several Kurd families have perished.

LATE NEWS.

DEFENCE AGAINST AGGRESSION.

POLAND'S PLAN TO THE LEAGUE.

FROM THE SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF "THE TIMES."
GENEVA, Wednesday.

The Netherlands Minister's introduction of the Protocol idea into his speech yesterday, and the moving of a resolution which will carry the question before one of the Commissions of the Assembly, came as a great surprise last night, and the Polish Government has followed this up to-day with the presentation of the draft text of the scheme for common defence against aggression which it was known to be elaborating.

The Polish draft has not yet been published, but copies have been put into the hands of Sir Austen Chamberlain, M. Briand, Herr Stresemann, and several of the delegations of the smaller States which are likely to sympathise with it.

Although Sir Austen Chamberlain had not seen the text before he had been made acquainted with its general contents, it is understood that his known unwillingness to commit Great Britain to any further obligations of intervention in Europe have been taken into account in the present draft.

The first impression to-night is that the Polish proposal is not far-reaching. From having been framed originally as an amendment to the Covenant, it has been transformed into a long resolution, which will, doubtless, in the end be unanimously passed.

It is understood to have been originally designed to amplify Article 15 of the Covenant, which is considered to leave a loophole for States within the League, to make war upon one another.

It has, however, been very considerably modified during the past week. It apparently contains a declaration outlawing war, an idea which is expected to enlist the sympathy of Anglo Saxons, which was so markedly withheld from the former project.

The Dutch resolution in favour of re-opening the discussion of the principles of the Protocol of 1924 was taken up this morning by the Finnish and Latvian Foreign Ministers before the Assembly, and, in addition, M. Erich (Finland) advocated the scheme for the pooling of the financial resources of members of the League, which has engaged the attention of the Finance Committee for many months.

Its aim is to strengthen the credit of a State which is the victim of an aggression by organised association with other States, and it falls in with the general scheme of mutual assistance.

QUEENSLAND LABOUR TROUBLES.

LABOUR GOVERNMENT'S FIRM STAND.

The Times, in a leading article, says:—No news has yet reached us of the further progress of the discussion or of the decision of the single chamber constituting the Queensland Parliament. The result will be of great interest, not only to Queensland and to the Commonwealth, but to all the self-governing nations of the Empire, for the struggle is between a Labour Government, recently placed in office by an election on a system of adult sufferage of both sexes, on the one side, and the forces of organised labour on the other.

Contests between the Government and the railwaymen go back in Queensland to the Labour Government of the late Mr. T. J. Ryan, after the Labour victories at the polls in 1915. They continued under the Labour Government of Mr. Theodore, and became serious under the Labour Government of his immediate successor, Mr. Gillies, in 1925, a Government of which Mr. McCormack was a member. The railwaymen tried a strike under this administration. It lasted for seven or eight days, and then Mr. Gillies surrendered. He was obliged to retire, but there is no doubt that the success of the railway strikers against the Government of 1925 is encouraging them to try conclusions with the Government now in office. But Mr. McCormack, as his speeches and his present action show, has grasped the real nature and the inevitable effects of such a challenge to the State and to the community. His language has been perfectly clear and firm. The Labour Government is a Government like another, and it cannot, with safety to itself, or with safety to the root principles of Constitutional Government, and more especially to the root principles of democracy, suffer any trade union, or any combination of trade unions, to usurp its functions. Mr McCormack sees that to tolerate a usurpation of that kind would be fatal to trade unionism as well as to the Government and to the true interests of the people. He reminded the members of the Legislative Assembly that they take an oath to abide by constitutional government, and that if that oath is not kept revolution must follow. So, too, he told them, must revolution follow if they gave allegiance to some body outside Parliament. It took some courage for the Labour Prime Minister of a Labour majority to preach this doctrine to his followers. It is the doctrine upon which Mr. Baldwin and his Government met and defeated the general strike of last year, and the doctrine on which the Trade Disputes and Trade Unions Act of this year is founded. On both these measures they had the hearty and general support of the British people, who are democratic and Constitutional to the core.

The issue in Queensland to-day is, in substance, the issue which the general strike raised, and on which the nation pronounced, not merely by words, but by acts, its emphatic and deliberate verdict. Is the majority, acting through its Constitutionally elected representatives, to govern, or is government to pass into the hands of the manipulators of irresponsible organisations? The speech which Mr. Stanley Bruce, the Prime Minister of the Australian Commonwealth, made in Melbourne last night, shows that he, as well as Mr. McCormack, recognises that this is the real question, and that he contemplates the early introduction of measures to prevent an extension of disputes beyond the bounds of the industry in which they begin.

TWISTING THE LION'S TAIL.

PLEA FOR ANGLO-AMERICAN UNDERSTANDING.

The Daily Chronicle, discussing the remarks of Mr. Houghton, the United States Ambassador, about Anglo-American understanding, says that, though the best-informed Americans appreciate Great Britain, and the best-informed British opinion is deeply sympathetic to the United States, it would, we think, be untrue, and, therefore, unwise, to pretend that mass opinion in either country enthusiastically admires the other.

There is still profit for American politicians who "twist the British Lion's tail," England, who, though not hostile to America in any way, are suspicious, sceptical, and disposed to stress differences rather than agreement.

These dislikes are a legacy of tradition and dead quarrels; they have no justification in living facts. It should be the business of well-informed people on both sides of the Atlantic to hasten their disappearance.

CHANNEL SWIM POSTPONED.

FRENCH TRAIN MURDER.

VICTIM THROWN ON TO THE LINE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Wednesday.

A brutal murder was committed to-night in a train on the line from Paris to Amiens. A passenger, whose identity has not yet been established, was cut to pieces with dagger thrusts, and his body thrown upon the permanent way.

The crime is believed to be the work of two men, who were seen to jump off the train just before it reached the station of Breteuil, in the Oise department.

THE QUEENSLAND STRIKE.

A TRADES UNION BILL FORESHADOWED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

In a speech at the Constitutional Club to-night Mr. Stanley Bruce, referring to the Queensland strike, said that he believed the crisis had been brought about by comparatively few extremists seeking to destroy Australian industry and ruin the workers. They were mostly foreigners, battening on Australian workers. The States should recognise equally with the Commonwealth that Australia did not require foreign extremists.

"If I had my way," said the Commonwealth Premier, "I would throw them out of Australia."

Mr. Bruce combatted the suggestion that the events in Queensland were peculiar to Australia. The strike was an exemplification of the unrest permeating the world since the war.

A position had now been reached in Queensland at which it was possible that industry throughout Australia might be paralysed. It was amazing to think that so great a turmoil should have followed the dissatisfaction of one of the parties in a small local dispute.

In the course of the forthcoming session at Canberra, Parliament would be asked to consider means of preventing an extension of disputes beyond the bounds of the industry in which they began.

BOMBAY WOMEN'S FATAL RIOT.

MILL MANAGER STONED TO DEATH.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
BOMBAY, Wednesday.

For the first time in the history of Bombay women mill workers yesterday behaved riotously, stoning the Parsee manager of the mills of Sir Shapurji Broacha.

The manager died later in hospital.

The trouble rose from the manager's endeavours to enforce stricter discipline in the mill, which involved the dismissal of a number of women workers.

The inquest has been postponed for ten days for police inquiries.

RUMANIA'S MAGIC SPRING.

FAITH AND PLAIN WATER EFFECT CURES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BUCHAREST, Wednesday.

Reports were circulated throughout the country a few weeks ago to the effect that a wonderful spring had been discovered at Smeeni, in the mountainous district of Buzeu, the waters of which possessed marvellous curative properties in cases of paralysis.

Thousands of sick persons made a pilgrimage to Smeeni to drink the water, and a number of cures were reported. It was believed that the water was strongly radio-active, but when it was subsequently analysed by the State medical authorities they reported that it contained no salts of any kind or any radio-active quality, and was merely pure drinking water.

The cures effected by it were, therefore, merely due to auto-suggestion.

LONDON'S VULGAR PLAYS.

GRIMSBY MAYOR'S IMPRESSIONS.

At the annual exhibition of Art Students' work at Grimsby yesterday, the Mayor, Councillor L. K. Osmond, said he sometimes wondered how we stood to-day in regard to art generally.

He was in London a little while ago and went to two theatres. At the first he saw a play in which the whole of the humour was obtained by very coarse expressions. The next night he witnessed a sordid, morbid production, in which one of the characters, an admiral, used an expletive about a golf club for which he would have been kicked out of an ordinary room.

He came away wondering if what he saw was typical of the dramatic art of to-day.

The marriage of Lady Jane Grey, daughter of the Countess of Stamford, and sister of the Earl of Stamford, to the Rev. Peveril Hayes Turnbull, of Suffolk, takes place on September 29 in Henry VII. Chapel in Westminster Abbey.

EVILS OF THE WAGE SYSTEM.

CO-PARTNERSHIP AS A REMEDY.

EFFECTS OF TRADES ON PHYSIQUE.

FROM THE PRESS ASSOCIATION SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

LEEDS, Wednesday.

"An enormous success," was how Sir Arthur Keith, the President, summed up this year's meeting of the British Association, which ended at Leeds to-day. He challenged a published statement that "there is a general impression of an arduous, overcrowded and somewhat flat meeting."

Everyone, he said, was entitled to an individual opinion, but when that was represented as a general opinion, it was a huge and wicked error. It had been an arduous meeting and an overcrowded meeting, but it had been overcrowded with enthusiasm. Far from being a flat meeting, according to the Presidents of sections and everyone else whom he had consulted, it had been the most stimulating meeting in their memory.

KNOWLEDGE ADVANCED.

"I should regret intensely if we were to leave this great city after having been received as we have been and to think that there is even .5 per cent. of members of our Association that have any other impression except that we have advanced knowledge and have been working for the good of the country." (Cheers.)

"If what has been provided for us here in this last week is to be likened to flat champagne, I am not prepared to face the fizzy kind," said the Duchess of Atholl. "If I did, I fear I might have to wend my way homeward to the North in a condition which hardly would bring credit to the Association."

These remarks were made at the final meeting, when the hospitality of the City and University of Leeds was acknowledged.

SCIENTISTS AT THE RACES.

Sir Arthur Keith, like a good many more of the scientists, went to Doncaster in the afternoon to see the St. Leger. Far from professing to place the winner, he said to the Press Association reporter: "Give me a tip. What I want is a good outsider."

Thirty-one men and nineteen women took part in the Association's char-à-banc excursion to Doncaster, and while the men made a big show of studying "form," the women were content to chat on any and every subject with only an occasional reference to the attractive colours of a jockey's cap or the pleasant sounding name of a St. Leger candidate.

"Women do not stop to consider facts, but I think we are right as often as the men are," said Mrs. Ashworth, the wife of Professor J. H. Ashworth. "I think that women's intuition is usually correct. If we make a mistake we forget it and just begin again. Surely that is progressive. We grasp situations and make up our minds more quickly than men."

THE INDUSTRIAL SYSTEM

INSISTENT DEMAND FOR A NEW SPIRIT.

Popular interest centred to-day in the Economics and Anthropology Sections.

In the Economics Section Mr. C. J. Hamilton, Joint Secretary of the Industrial Co-Partnership Association, discussed the "Theory of Co-Partnership."

"At no time," he said, "has there been more general agreement in condemning a good deal of that which we understand by the industrial system from the standpoint of its purely economic results, and also from its failure to conform to the nobler aspirations of man. The defections of the present economic conditions are daily becoming more obvious. The dissatisfaction born of this knowledge is growing in strength and in extent. There is an insistent demand for a new spirit in industry."

THE WAGE SYSTEM.

Among the defects of the present régime he reckoned the wage system's failure to provide a stimulus to the productive effort of the workers. Wages alone were, with reason, regarded as giving to labour in many cases less than a fair share of the joint product of industry. The wage system tended to breed a sense of inferiority in status in the mind of the worker, and this led to discontent, and stunted his general efficiency.

The issue was whether profit-sharing should pass beyond the stage of an amiable fad, and be recognised as a modification of simple capitalisation, which could not be disregarded. Co-partnership was at present characterised by an absence of standardised practice and excessive fraternalism. The method was still wholly in the experimental stage. Success or failure depended greatly on the character of the scheme, and even more on the manner in which it was applied.

He did not think the objection that co-partnership would lead to a weakening of the workers' power of collective bargaining was valid. Trade unions often found difficulty in maintaining their hold on members, but this was partly the result of trade union policy, which had exaggerated their purely combative function to the neglect of positive and constructive enterprise.

CO-PARTNERSHIP AS A PRODUCTIVE STIMULUS.

Mr. Hamilton contended that co-partnership provided a productive stimulus to industry.

Dr. James A. Bowie, Manchester, said that if the desire of the Trades Union Congress to further industrial peace was followed up it seemed likely co-partnership would be a strong claimant for consideration as an instrument for securing something like industrial peace. If there was one main cause of the present malaise it was the segregation of those engaged in industry into two classes—capital-owning profit takers and ownerless weekly wage earners. If workers were to become capitalists they ought first to become savers. It seemed a dangerous procedure to hand over automatically to Labour ordinary shares in a business.

EMPLOYEES AS SHAREHOLDERS.

He considered the right way was that adopted by a great number of firms in Britain recently, and universally adopted in the United States, of encouraging employés to become shareholders, but asking them to purchase shares with their own money. It was one of the great virtues of a properly constituted copartnership scheme that workers assumed responsibility equivalent to their willing assumption of risks.

Mr. E. Kilburn Scott, London, urging that more encouragement should be given to the creative men in industry, declared that far too many men were sending their sons to Oxford and Cambridge, and they were producing "haw-haws." "We do not want 'haw-haws,'" he declared, amidst laughter.

SOME CURIOSITIES OF PHYSIOLOGY.

DARK, STUNTED WORKERS IN HEAVY TRADES.

That the darkest children were found in the poorest and most congested industrial areas of the city was one of the interesting discoveries made in an ethnological survey of Sheffield and district, which Miss McInnes, of Sheffield, described to the Anthropological Section.

Other points were that the further away from the city the children lived the fairer both of hair and eye colour they were. Head and body measurements of adult town workers showed two types. The lighter cutlery and silver-plating trades employed, on the whole, a fairer, taller type than the heavy iron and steel works. The workers in the latter were stunted, longer of body, shorter of leg, and darker of colour than those in the former. Both fell far below the average of the more leisured classes, where the tall, muscular, well-proportioned Nordic type was in the majority.

TWINS AND TRIPLETS.

"The occurrence of twins and triplets in man is remarkable in certain ways, and is unique in the animal kingdom," Dr. H. Fisher, of Harpenden, said, in an address on "Measurements and Degrees of Resemblance in Triplets Children from the King's Bounty Records."

"We are badly placed in this country for the study of twins, because we have no official registration of multiple births. The existence of a Royal bounty affords means of studying triplet cases, and from extracts from the records over a period of three years I was able to study 166 cases of triplets and three of quadruplets. I found that half the girls and five out of every eight boys born alive failed to survive. This excessive mortality

NORWAY'S LIQUOR MONOPOLY.

SWEDEN'S REMARKABLE SOBRIETY.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

OSLO, Wednesday.

After four and a half years of prohibition, Norway is to-day in the liquor business. A Government monopoly controls the sale of alcoholic drinks, this monopoly being subleased to a private share company, with a capital of twenty million kroner. The shares are owned by two of the largest banks of the country, and the dividend is limited to 6 per cent. by law, the remainder of the profit reverting to the Government. At present thirty-two stores in eleven towns are to supply the needs of the country, and the municipalities themselves are given the power to decide whether or not the sale of liquor is to be permitted.

It is estimated that the Government will have an income of thirty million kroner from the monopoly, but when the customs duties and excise taxes are added the entire revenue from the sale of alcoholic drink will reach forty-five million kroner. This income will be used to pay off the Government debt, and approximately eighty per cent. of it will be used in social and cultural work.

In Oslo, which has a population of 300,000, there are sixteen liquor shops open, and they sell daily 90,000 to 150,000 kroners' worth of alcoholic drink.

The total population of Norway—just over two millions—spent eight million kroner in its liquor shops in May last. Before prohibition was enforced in Norway various districts had gone "dry" under local option.

REGULATIONS RESPECTED.

The districts which remained "wet" are to-day allowed to have liquor stores. These establishments remain open from nine in the morning until three in the afternoon, and restaurants are permitted to sell strong drink only between three in the afternoon and eleven at night. This regulation is respected, and it is impossible to obtain anything stronger than beer and light wine after 11 p.m. in any Oslo restaurant.

Mr. Ragnr Johannesen, the director of the Vin Monopolet, as the monopoly is called, has informed your correspondent that the sales during the first three months after prohibition ended were not as large as expected. The prices consequently were reduced on August 1.

Teetotalers in Norway are already beginning to fight for a new prohibition law, but the Vin Monopolet remains neutral, making no attempt to induce the people to purchase liquor.

The director states that the large amount of liquor advertising, especially that of British distillers, is all paid for by agents in Oslo. What will be the outcome of the repeal of the prohibition law is entirely a matter of speculation, as it is still too early to obtain facts and statistics, but the majority of the population are now in favour of temperance propaganda and against the prohibition theory.

SWEDEN'S REMARKABLE SOBRIETY.

In Sweden a remarkably successful plan for preventing the great evil has been worked out. To-day every Swede is entitled to carry a small book, which is his passport to enter the shops of the Swedish Vin Monopolet. This book permits him to purchase three litres of strong liquor each month. If he is entertaining guests, he speaks to the director, and, provided he is a reputable citizen, there is no trouble in his obtaining sufficient spirits for his needs. However, the moment he is arrested, the little book is taken away from him, and from then on he must depend on his friends for his drinks.

In Swedish restaurants every diner is entitled to thirty centilitres of liquor. When taken with food this amount has only a slightly invigorating effect. To obtain an additional quantity it is necessary to pay the bill, get up, and sit down at another table, ordering another meal. These regulations, which are religiously observed by the Swedes, have resulted in a continuous decrease in the consumption of alcoholic drink, and have made Sweden the soberest nation in Northern and North-Eastern Europe.

ROYAL TOUR IN CANADA ENDS.

"A WONDERFUL TRIP"—THE PRINCE OF WALES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

QUEBEC, Wednesday.

Having completed a seven thousand mile tour of Canada, the Prince of Wales and Prince George arrived here this morning in the Royal train, and boarded the Empress of Scotland, which will bear them to England.

According to the expressed wishes of the Princes, the reception at Quebec was devoid of formality or ceremony. Before leaving the station they chatted with those who had made the long journey with them, bidding them good-bye and presenting them with souvenirs.

"It has been a wonderful trip," said the Prince of Wales.

Before the Royal train came to the end of its journey the railwaymen in charge of it received cards of membership of a secret society formed in the luggage van while the train was crossing the prairies. The society bears the name "Royal Order to Stoop to Conquer," and the membership is for life and 99 years thereafter.

Details of the society's activities are shrouded in mystery, but it is understood that they formed one of the most amusing features of the journey. Initiation, which took place with the candidates blindfold, involved the taking of numerous impossible oaths.

Both the Princes appear wonderfully improved in health and completely rested after the arduous official portion of their tour.

BRAID SCOTS MISTAKEN FOR BAD LANGUAGE.

CADDIE'S EXPLANATION OF HIS ARREST.

"I was talking broad, and the constable thought it was bad language," said William Cowan, an Ayrshire caddie, yesterday, at the Birmingham Police Court, where he was charged with being drunk and disorderly. He explained that he had travelled to Birmingham to caddie for a professional playing in the Midland Gold Championship.

He was fined and warned to behave better on his next visit to Birmingham.

SAD SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

John Collins, the eight years old son of a farm labourer at Farnham Royal, Bucks., accidentally shot dead his sister, Elsie, aged ten, when playing with his father's gun yesterday. He brought the gun downstairs, and apparently loaded it. He pointed it through a window, and when Elsie returned from school she got hold of the muzzle. The gun went off, and the top of the girl's head was blown away. The parents were working on the farm at the time.

may be taken as a fair measure of exceptionally unfavourable environmental conditions before birth.

"With twins of the same sex where the resemblance was strongly marked, they might truly be said to be really a single individual who happened to have grown two bodies."

THE NORDIC TYPE IN WALES.

"The Nordic type in the Welsh population is characterised by enterprise and initiative, but does not seem to excel in intellect," said Mr. J. E. Daniel, of London, in an address on the relation of religious denominations to racial and social factors. In Wales, as in England, this type is predominant among the landed aristocracy.

The largest element in the Welsh population was the Mediterranean type—the little dark people, with dark hair and eyes, long heads and small stature. They were acquiescent rather than assertive, although imbued with strong imaginative and emotional qualities. The tendency in Wales had been towards the development of local cultures rather than the development of highly unified national consciousness. Welsh nationalism had turned towards spiritual rather than political ends.

ROSSE COLLEGE, STEPHEN'S GREEN. Last year's Successes include 17 BANK OF IRELAND, 15 NATIONAL BANK, and 8 MUNSTER AND LEINSTER BANK Clerkships.—(Advt.)

IRISH INSURANCE COMMITTEES.

MEDICAL ASSISTANCE FOR WORKERS.

PROPOSALS AT ANNUAL MEETING.

At the annual meeting of delegates from the National Association of Insurance Committees (Ireland), which was held yesterday at 11 Rutland square, Dublin, a resolution was approved calling on the Committees vigorously to oppose any proposal for the abolition of Insurance Committees.

On the motion of Mr. M. J. Stafford, Chairman of the County Dublin Committee, seconded by Mr. Terence Waldron, Dublin, the following memorandum, which was submitted by the Insurance Committee for the County Dublin, was approved:—

MEDICAL TREATMENT.

"The Association, having considered the final report of the Committee of Inquiry into Health Insurance and Medical Services, desires to place on record its considered views on certain recommendations therein:—

"1.—The Association is convinced that the only satisfactory solution of the problem of the provision of adequate medical treatment for the working classes and their dependents—whether insured persons or otherwise—in Saorstat Eireann lies in the immediate adoption of a national scheme of medical services on a contributory basis, comprehensive in scope, and freed from all association with Poor Law administration.

"2.—The Association emphatically disagrees with the suggestion made in the final report that for various reasons—mainly financial—the immediate adoption of such a comprehensive scheme is not practicable. Not only is the care of the public health one of the first duties of government, but true national economy lies in the preservation of the working capacity of the people. 'Economy secured at the expense of the people's health is prodigal waste of a national asset.'

"3.—The Association agrees that unless a national scheme embracing insured persons as well as others is immediately adopted, the provision of medical benefit for insured persons is an urgent necessity.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

"4.—The Association cannot commend the proposals for medical benefit adumbrated in the final report as satisfactory to insured persons. In its opinion, the very limited advantages which they might confer on certain classes of insured persons are not commensurate with the sacrifices which insured persons generally, as well as their employers, are called upon to make.

"5.—The Association considers that any scheme of medical benefit, to be satisfactory to insured persons, must comply with certain essential conditions:—

"(a) It must be completely dissociated from Poor Law administration.

"(b) The treatment provided must be thoroughly efficient, which connotes agreement with, and the full co-operation of, the medical profession.

"(c) Being on a contributory basis, its operation must be open to the free criticism of the persons whom it serves, and it must provide convenient machinery for the investigation of complaints. It must, therefore, be locally administered by bodies on which the contributors as well as the other interests concerned are represented.

REPRESENTATION.

"6.—The Association strongly urges on the Government the immediate adoption of a comprehensive national scheme of health services for insured persons, as well as other members of the community, unable to provide adequate medical treatment in illness, on similar lines to those advocated by the Irish Public Health Council and the County Councils' General Council.

"7.—The Association protests strongly against the proposal to deprive insured contributors of the right of representation, guaranteed to them under the National Insurance Act, 1911, which is involved in the recommendation for the abolition of Insurance Committees. Should the co-ordination of health services under a comprehensive national scheme render necessary or desirable the transfer of the powers and duties of Insurance Committees to other local authorities, the Association claims:—

"(1) That the scheme should make provision for the representation of insured contributors on the local authorities administering benefits for insured persons.

"(2) That justice demands that the officials of Insurance Committees, who have devoted years of their lives to the administration of the National Insurance Acts, should be absorbed into the substituted service, or, in the alternative, should receive adequate pensions in respect of their services."

Mr. O'Hanlon suggested that candidates for the Dail should be asked, if they were elected to the Dail, to press the case that under no circumstances should insured persons be asked to contribute further without representation on the committees.

QUESTION OF COMPENSATION.

The Chairman said that if the Government decide upon the abolition of the committees, the members of this Association should use their influence with members of the Dail to see that proper representation was secured on the new committees proposed to be set up; also, that adequate compensation be paid to the officers who had carried on the work from its inception in the Free State.

On the motion of Mr. J. O'Hanlon, seconded by Mr. Farrell, a resolution, submitted by the County Dublin Committee, to the following effect, was approved:—"That the Committees were vigorously to oppose any proposal for the abolition of Insurance Committees, and that, if the medical benefits under the National Health Insurance Act became law, we call upon the powers that be to add the administration thereof to the duties of the Insurance Committees, as is the case in England, where the Act was originated."

TUBERCULOSIS CASES.

A resolution from the County Westmeath Committee was passed by a majority, to the effect that all patients suffering from consumption in the advanced stage should be removed, compulsorily if necessary, from their residences, unless the medical officer is of the opinion that their surroundings and care are such that their remaining in their homes is not a source of danger to others.

The following resolution from the County Dublin Committee was approved:—

"That the Association take steps to secure the revision of the standard form of agreement between insurance committees and local authorities for the provision of treatment for insured and eligible tuberculous persons, so that the benefits derivable from the Sanatorium Benefit Fund may be equitably distributed over all tuberculous insured applicants for sanatorium benefit in accordance with the medical requirements of each case."

The meeting thanked the secretary, Mr. A. Keogh Nolan, for the excellent summary of the final report of the Committee on Health Insurance and Medical Services which he had prepared and submitted to the delegates.

THE COMMITTEES.

Councillor Henry Smith, Waterford, presided at the opening of the proceedings. Mr. John P. Doran, Peace Commissioner, Dublin, having been elected chairman for the ensuing year, subsequently presided.

Mr. Smith was elected vice-chairman for the ensuing year, and Miss N. O'Ryan, Wexford, was re-elected deputy vice-chairman.

The following were appointed to the executive committee:—Mr. J. O'Mullane, representing Munster; Mr. J. J. Collins, Connaught; Miss Lowry, Leinster; Mr. E. O'Mahony, Ulster.

An advisory committee was appointed as follows:—Mr. J. O'Hanlon, Dublin; Miss M. O'Brien, Ennis; Mr. J. J. Collins, Castlebar; Mr. D. Taggart, County Cavan committee.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

MR DE VALERA'S POLICY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Mr. de Valera states that "his party had been struggling for peace and they had been the peace party in Ireland since the Treaty." It would be well, therefore, for the electors to remember that he was answerable for the actions of the irregulars during the late civil war, as we can judge of a man's future by his past.

In his celebrated Easter message of 1922 he said: "Young men and young women of Ireland, hold steadily on. . . . Yours is the faith that moves mountains—the faith that confounds cowardly reason and its thousand misgivings. . . . Ireland is yours for the taking. Take it."

God, in the Old Testament, said to the Jews:—Honour thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long upon the land, which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Five years ago Mr. de Valera told the young men and women to take Ireland from their fathers. Many tried to do so, but the majority stood by their parents, and the rebels were beaten.

The Catholic Hierarchy, in their published appeal to the young men of Ireland five years ago, said:—"We beg the young men connected with this military revolt to consider religiously our solemn teaching on this fundamental maxim of social morality; otherwise they will involve themselves in conscientious defects of the gravest character; for when in prosecution of these principles they proceed to make shameful war upon their own country, they are parricides, and not patriots. When they shoot their brothers on the opposite side, they are murderers. When they injure public and private property, they are robbers and brigands, bound to restitution—all sins and crimes of the most heinous guilt."

It is the man who was answerable for the actions of those young men, who unfortunately despised the teaching of their bishops, who now asks the votes of Catholic Ireland to enable him to rule our country, having first declared that the oath he has taken to the Constitution is an empty formality. He takes the oath to enable him to destroy the Constitution and to break the Treaty with England, as William III. broke the Treaty of Limerick. Will Catholic Ireland allow it?—Yours, etc.,

CIVIC FESTIVITIES IN DUBLIN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Below you will find contemporary extracts, from old Dublin newspapers, reporting the unveiling of King George's statue on Essex Bridge in the year 1722—an event recently alluded to in your columns. This is a belated note owing to my notes having been out on loan. Nevertheless, some of the sentiments expressed by his Reverence of Christ Church Cathedral might be taken to heart at the present time:—

"Dublin, Aug. 4. Last Wednesday, being the Day upon which his Majesty King George began his happy Reign, was begun with the Ringing of Bells, and other Signals of Mirth: Our Lord Mayor, and the several Corporations of this honourable City (except that of the Shoemakers, who upon some Difference did not ride) made a very handsome Appearance. Each Company was well mounted, and handsomely equipp'd, rode the Franchises as usual, and after their Cavalcade, they came from the Strand, about five a'clock in the Afternoon, when the Lord Mayor and Sherriffs, attending with the City Officers, commanded His Majesty's Equestrian Statue, which is erected upon a stately Pedestal on Essex-Bridge, and then covered, to be exhibited to publick View, which was immediately obeyed with loud Acclamations of Joy, insomuch that the Voices of the People unanimously resounded, as the Vollies, which soon after followed. The standing Army were drawn along Ormonde's Key, and both Ends of Essex Bridge were guarded by the Militia Grenadiers. The River was crowded all over with People of all Ages and Sexes, in Boats and Barges: The very Vaults on both Sides of the Bridge were full of People, and the House Tops were covered with Multitudes of Spectators. Some of the Corporations, particularly the Hosiers, took the Boats and spent the remaining Part of the Day in Musick and Jovialness. Some Hogsheads of Wine were given to the Mobb, and thus ended this glorious Day, which was a continual Scene of Joy, and Gladness with loyal Healths, and other Signals of Affection, to his Majesty and Government." (Hume's Dublin Courant, Saturday, 4 Aug., 1722.)

"Dublin, August 4. On Wednesday last being the Anniversary Commemoration of his Majesty's happy Accession to the Throne, 'twas usher'd in with Ringing of Bells and Fireing of Gun's Perpetually, and the Lord Mayor with all the Corporations Riding the Franchises. There was a Loyal sermon Preach'd at Christ-Church by the Reverend Mr. Hopkins, whom I formerly mention'd, on Ersa Chap. 6, ver. 10. That they may offer Sacrifices of sweet Savor, and pray for the Life of the King and his Sons; wherein he shew'd 1st, to what intent our Prayers and Supplications shou'd be made to the God of Heaven for the life of the King. 2dly. That it is our Duty that we shou'd offer our Sacrifices of sweet savor for the Life of the King's Son. 3dly. That we are oblig'd to pray for all those that are put in Authority under them, first by praying for the Lord Lieut. and Lords Justices, the High Court of Parliament, those that are eminent in the State—viz., the Privy-Council, and the Ministry in General. 4thly. How these our Prayers may be effectual and accepted by being altogether Christians, and living together in Unity, by avoiding Sedition and Rebellion, and by bearing a grateful Remembrance of our deceas'd and surviving Deliverers, by regarding The publick Tokens of Love set up (such as the Statue erected,) as instances of Heroick Minds and how the people of Rome punish'd with Death such as maim'd or Malitiously Disfigur'd a Statue of any Roman Emperor by which they thought the Person of the Prince to be Violated as if Living, and that our PRAYERS wou'd be further effectual if we Love our Enemies &c. and are in Charity with one another, with a very good close of Thanksgiving for his Majesty's Happy Accession to the Throne, to the Satisfaction of all Christians that were there. After which the Corporations were Saluted with great Guns on the River as they pass'd by the Statue, to meet the Lord Mayor on the Strand, and when they return'd, at the Lord Mayor's entring the Bridge, the Statue was Uncover'd and the Great Guns and Patterraroes in several Boats and Barges on the River, continually Fir'd till the whole Cavalcade was past by, and 2 Hogsheads of Claret plac'd at the 2 Ends of the Bridge were let run among the Mobb, after which the 2 Regiments, all the while Stood to their Arms on Ormond-Key, to keep things from Disorder, fir'd each 3 Volleys, and the several Corporations retir'd to their several Dinners provided for them, where they Drank to the good Healths of the King, Prince, the rest of the Royal Family, the Government of Ireland, the Lord Mayor, &c: And the Day ended with Ringing of Bells and all other Tokens of joy and a General Satisfaction.

"No Accident happen'd by all the Rejoycing, but the Eldest Son of Sir Gustavus Hume, who road out beyond Ballybought Bridge, his Horse having started, Flung him and broke his Neck, so that he expir'd instantly." (Whalley's Dublin News Letter, Monday, 6 Aug. 1722.)

The City Corporations did themselves well in those days:—"Dublin, July 26. Yesterday was celebrated the Anniversary of the Journeymen of the Thimble and Sheers, who all met on the Occasion, and went to St. John's Church, where they had a suitable Sermon for the Day; after which they went in Procession to the King's-Inns, where a small Repast was provided for them, consisting of several Dozen of Rounds of Beef, Legs of Mutton, Venison Pasties, Geese garnish'd with small Fowls, and Roots proper for each Dish, an Inundation of Beer, Ale, Brandy, &c. 'Tis said, each eating Worthy behaved with a good Appetite; a Consort of Musick attending the Festival, and concluded the Entertainment." (Faulkner's Dublin Journal, 26th July, 1726.)

Vivid descriptions of the pageantry processions at the triennial riding of the Franchises by the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and City Corporations, will be found in subsequent old Dublin newspapers, from which our present City Fathers might well take a leaf for the coming Civic Week.—Yours, etc.,

TWO MINERS ENTOMBED.

Unavailing efforts have been carried on all day to rescue James Docherty and James McAlpine, miners, who have been entombed in Broomrigg Colliery, Dennyloanhead, Stirlingshire, since Tuesday evening, when an extensive fall occurred. Semi-liquid material has since poured into the pit from old workings. Tappings were heard during yesterday morning.

"VERITABLE DEATH-TRAP."

THE KILKENNY 'BUS ACCIDENT.

VERDICT AT INQUEST ON VICTIM.

Giving evidence at the inquest, which was held in Owning, County Kilkenny, on Mr. Richard Power (50), farmer, of Ballytarsna, Kilmoganny, who was killed in a char-a-banc accident last Sunday, Joseph Gorman, Curraghmore, said that he and the deceased man got into the 'bus at Ballytarsna and went in the direction of Owning, on the way to Tramore.

The 'bus was not travelling very fast, and it did not come down Beaten Hill very fast. At the bottom of Beaten Hill the car hit a heap of stones and got a shaking; the stones were about fifty yards from where the accident occurred. Witness was caught underneath the 'bus; he was the second to come out from under it. "I think," continued the witness, "everyone was caught under it. My brother and myself lifted the 'bus off Larry Purcell's neck, and helped him to get out. I heard my brother enquire if everybody was safe, and I heard him ask for Dick Power. We then lifted the 'bus to see if he was under it. I did not see him under the 'bus, but saw him after he was taken out. At the bottom of Beaten Hill I and several of the occupants shouted to the driver to mind the bend. When the car came round the bend it turned over. To my mind it struck nothing. It fell on the right side. The driver was driving with ordinary care, and was absolutely sober."

BRAKE FAILS TO ACT.

Patrick McGrath, Monster House, Kilkenny, gave corroborative evidence, and added that when the 'bus struck the stones the driver stood up and pressed with all his might on the brake, but it did not respond. The driver of an ordinary touring car would have cleared the corner at the speed he was going at.

Dr. Fogarty, Carrick-on-Suir, who, with Dr. Quirke, Piltown, held a post-mortem examination, stated that the only external marks on the body was a contusion or bruise under the right and upper side of the abdomen. Internally, the liver was entirely contused and the right kidney lacerated. The last six ribs on the right side were fractured, three being broken in two places. The last three ribs on the left side were also broken. He had both a healthy heart and brain. Death was almost instantaneous.

A verdict in accordance with the medical evidence was returned, and the jury added a rider that the County Council or whoever is in authority should immediately ease this corner, as it is not the first time that a fatal accident occurred there. It was nothing less than a veritable death trap.

DISPENSARY DOCTORS.

RATHDOWN GUARDIANS AND THE COMMISSION.

When the Rathdown Guardians yesterday took up again the question of the appointment of two doctors to the Killiney and Glencullen dispensary district, it was reported that the Secretary to the Appointments Commission had written stating that before the Commissioners arrived at their decision to recommend Dr. Enright and Dr. Sexton for these appointments they had before them the report of a competent board of selection, by whom an exhaustive examination of the qualifications and experience of the doctors named had been made in comparison with those of the other candidates who presented themselves. He also gave the qualifications of the two doctors recommended.

Messrs. William Shannon and Company, solicitors, wrote stating that the Guardians appeared to have no option but to appoint the person recommended by the Commission.

The Chairman said that they had not been given the qualifications of the other candidates, nor told whether they compared favourably with the qualifications of those two recommended.

Mr. Kelly moved, and Mrs. McDonald seconded, that the appointments should be made.

Mr. Delaney proposed an amendment—seconded by Mr. Rollins—that the appointments should be postponed until the first sitting of the new Dail, with a view to having that section of the Act repealed where the Appointments Commissioners may recommend one or more candidates for the appointment, and that the Guardians should circularise all public bodies, and bring this matter forcibly before their representatives.

Mr. Leonard said that they should resign as a protest.

The amendment was carried by 7 votes to 5.

DERRY WEDDING MISHAP.

GUEST GIVES BRIDE AWAY.

A regrettable accident occurred at the wedding in Londonderry yesterday of Mr. W. J. Burns, Steelstown, Londonderry, and Miss Eva Ballantine, daughter of Mr. W. G. S. Ballantine, Secretary of the Londonderry Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Ballantine had left his home, and was stepping into a motor car to drive to the church when his head came into contact with the top of the car, and he received injuries which it was found necessary to have medically treated.

The motor car waited for some minutes, but it was soon seen that Mr. Ballantine would not be able to continue the journey. He, however, was able to proceed to the church later, arriving in time for the concluding portion of the wedding ceremony, which took place at First Derry Presbyterian Church.

Mr. McCurry, one of the guests, deputised for him, and gave the bride away.

TAILORS TO ADVERTISE.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN DECIDED UPON.

The National Federation of Merchant Tailors, at their conference at Portsmouth yesterday, decided on a national advertising campaign.

Mr. H. E. Stocks said that if the master tailors did not wake up, they would find that the hatters and hosiers, the big stores and the multiple shops had secured their trade by advertising "stunts."

DEAN'S GIFT TO COUNCIL.

At the monthly meeting of Carrickmacross Urban Council, Mr. Patrick Conlon, Chairman, who presided, read the following letter received by him from Dean Keown, P.P., V.G., Carrickmacross:—

"I learn from the Press that the auditor will not permit the Urban Council to expend public taxes in maintaining the Mass Pad in a state of repair. Since I purchased the children's recreation field from Miss O'Hagan the entire Mass Pad, from the Castleblayney road to the Church lane, is my property. I take it that the auditor's objection is based upon the fact that the Council is not warranted in expending taxes in maintaining private property. This is a serious matter for those who use the Mass Pad, and I can see no way of solving the difficulty unless by vesting the ownership of the Mass Pad in the Urban Council. Accordingly, I am prepared to convey, as a free gift to the Council, all my right, title and interest in the Mass Pad, subject to the following conditions: (1) That the free use of the 'Pad' be secured for ever to the public; (2) that the Urban Council of Carrickmacross undertake to maintain the fences (it will be a long time before the fences need any attention); (3) that the public have free access for ever by the Mass Pad to St. Joseph's Park. I will pay the cost of conveyance."

At the recent audit of the Council's accounts, members who authorised payments in respect of expenditure on this right-of-way were surcharged, and an appeal against such surcharge is pending.

The Council, in accepting Dean Keown's offer, expressed warm appreciation of his generosity, the Chairman saying that his latest action was only in keeping with others of the kind since he came among them.

U.S. MARKETS.

STRONG CLOSING OF STOCKS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

Stocks opened strong. Considerable intermittent realising and professional short selling marked the early dealings, but the subsequent demonstrated ability to surpass previous high levels caused large outside buying and short covering. The fact that the additional gains in representative shares were built up on the recent remarkable advances induced some cautionary commission house advices, but the prospects for a decided increase in business activity and the assurance of ample capital at low rates induced more general pool activity. Stocks with investment qualifications gained substantially, and speculative issues continued buoyant, notably Houston Oil, which jumped 20 points. Colorado Fuel and Iron, National Lead and Endicott Johnson Corporation advanced 5 to 7 points. The closing was strong. Government Bonds steady. Railroad Bonds firm. The day's sales totalled 2,686,000 shares.

Money on call closed steady at 3½ per cent. bid and 3¾ per cent. asked. All business during the day was concluded at 3½ per cent. Sterling Exchange steady. Silver 1/8c. up at 55.

The July earnings of 185 railroads reporting to the Inter-State Commerce Commission show the following:—

Operating revenue—$509,380,000; decrease, $48,520,000 from last year.

Operating income—$84,380,000; decrease, $32,590,000 from last year.

According to Bradstreet's statement, the visible supply of wheat increased 165,000 bushels on the week, and the visible supply of corn east of the Rockies decreased 1,188,000 bushels on the same period.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Wednesday.

WHEAT opened steady, 1/8c. up to 1/8c. down. Values advanced early on a forecast of cooler weather in the North-West, private reports that rains had delayed harvesting in Canada, and a Kansas State report mentioning that farm work had been impeded by rains. Then a reaction set in on a disappointing export demand and Eastern selling, the market closing steady at declines ranging from 1/8c. to 7/8c. Spot steady, 7/8c. to 5/8c. up.

TRADES UNION CONGRESS AND MINORITY MOVEMENT.

At the Trades Union Congress in Edinburgh yesterday the motion to refer back the section of the Council's report relating to the minority movement resulted as follows:—

Against reference back	3,746,000
For reference back	148,000
Majority against	3,598,000

The announcement of the figures was received with laughter and cheers.

Speeches were made by the fraternal delegates. Tomsky and another delegate were on the list as representing Russian trade unions, but, the Home Secretary having refused visas, they were not present. Those who spoke were: Mr. J. Corfield, of the American Federation of Labour; Mr. Brunett, Canadian Trades and Labour Congress; and Mr. Sassenbach, International Federation of Trade Unions.

It was announced that Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, as representing the Labour Party, would address the Congress this morning.

The fraternal delegates were presented with gold badges and canteens of cutlery. The canteens given to the American delegates included corkscrews.

THE POOR MAN'S DOG.

FETE TO ASSIST A GOOD WORK.

The "September Carnival," which is to be held in the Rotunda Gardens, Dublin, on Saturday next and following days, has been organiser to aid the Dublin Animals Dispensary on the North Circular road and the hospital for sick animals in Mount street. It is impossible to exaggerate the good work done by those voluntary institutions in assisting the poorer people to relieve the pain and suffering of the dogs which are as dear to them as the pampered pets of the well-to-do. Any lover of dogs has only to visit the dispensary to be convinced that it is a work of mercy that should be extended all over the city.

The carnival, which will be opened at 3 o'clock, is being organised on a big scale, with dancing a foremost attraction. Those in charge can be relied upon to see that it will not be a dull affair, and that visitors will get full value for their money.

There will be a cat and dog show on Saturday, at which prizes will be given to, among other classes, the ugliest and the laziest dog and the largest cat. A baby show and "pram" parade will take place on Sunday. Prizes are offered for the best baby, the prettiest girl, and the handsomest boy. The price of admission is only sixpence.

ATTACK ON FARMER.

SEQUEL TO SALE OF A HORSE.

Sentence of one month's hard labour was imposed on a youth named John Dillon at Stewartstown Petty Sessions for assaulting and beating a farmer named Felix Donnelly, living at Kilmenagh, Ardboe. In addition he was required to find bail in £10 and two sureties of £5 each to keep the peace for twelve months, or suffer a further month's imprisonment.

The case was brought by District Inspector Hall, Cookstown, Donnelly having declined to prosecute. In evidence Donnelly stated that after attending Stewartstown Fair on the 17th ult. he was passing the defendant's house, when Dillon and another man molested him, and the defendant struck him above the eye with some sharp instrument. He fell, and while he lay on the ground he got three or four "skites" with some sharp instrument in the mouth. He gave no provocation.

Evidence for the defence was given to the effect that Donnelly interfered in the sale of a horse, and the defendant alleged that Donnelly struck him twice over the head with an ashplant.

DEATH OF THE "SIAMESE" TWINS.

Born last Friday night, Mary and Ann Church, the "Siamese" twins, died in St. Thomas's Hospital, London, at 6.30 yesterday morning. Their father, Mr. C. E. Church, an engineer's fitter, of Peabody avenue, Ebury Bridge, Pimlico, spent most of Tuesday night at the hospital, and was present when the babies died. Their death was rather sudden and unexpected, and is believed to be due to heart failure. An inquest is unlikely.

MEADOW DAIRY AND LIPTONS.

In explanation of the strength of Lipton's shares, which have risen within the past fortnight from 13s. 9d. to 18s., the Westminster Gazette learns "on reliable authority" that an arrangement has been entered into between that company and the Meadow Dairy Company. It is understood that shareholders of Lipton, Ltd., will be advised of the arrangement almost immediately.

Under this agreement the chairman and another director of the Meadow Dairy Company will join the board of Lipton, Ltd., and manage this concern. The Meadow Dairy Company will be entitled to a share of any profits that may be made by Lipton, Ltd., but in the event of a loss the Meadow Company will be exempt.

The above agreement would appear favourable to Liptons, adds the Westminster Gazette, because the success of Lipton, Ltd., is chiefly a question of up-to-date management. From the Meadow Dairy's point of view the agreement should be equally beneficial, since it will give it an opening for its products in a large number of shops in the South of England.

ANOTHER DERRY FIRE.

The fourth fire in Londonderry within eight days occurred on Tuesday night, when there was an outbreak at the premsies of Messrs. A. L. Smyth and Company, furniture dealers, Great James's street. Smoke attracted the attention of Miss Gray, assistant in Mr. Perry's tobacconist shop, on the opposite side of the street, and she immediately gave an alarm, while pedestrians on their way home broke in the door and dragged out a number of burning mattresses and other bedding material. The Fire Brigade, on arrival, found that one small jet was sufficient to quell the outbreak. Nevertheless, the damage to the shop by water was fairly considerable.

INSPECTION OF NEW BRIDGES.

NORTHERN GOVERNOR IN ENNISKILLEN.

The Duke of Abercorn arrived at Florencecourt, the residence of the Earl of Enniskillen, D.S.O., last Tuesday evening, and yesterday made a tour of lower Lough Erne, and inspected three new bridges built through the generosity of the Northern Government.

The house party at Florencecourt included the Duke and Duchess of Abercorn, Lady Evelyn Ward, Captain Martelli, Lady Kathleen Villiers, Commander Oscar Henderson, and the children of the Earl and Countess of Enniskillen.

The party afterwards proceeded to Rosscor Bridge, where the Governor met Mr. James Cooper, M.P., Chairman of the County Council; Mr. W. H. West, County Secretary, and other members of the Council. Proceeding by way of the new bridges at Boar Island, the party reached Rosalad, the residence of Colonel Richardson, where they had tea, returning later in the evening to Florencecourt.

SPARE THE TREES.

A strong plea to the Department of Agriculture to initiate legislation compelling people who cut timber to replant was made at the meeting of the Louth Agricultural Committee.

Mr. Begley stated that thousands of pounds' worth of trees were being cut down, and hardly a tree was being planted. If this was allowed to continue there would not be a tree in the country in twenty years.

Mr. McGahon agreed, and stated that in other countries there was legislation to the effect that a man cutting down a tree had to plant three in its place.

The Committee adopted the resolution.

DUBLIN BRIGHTER.

GUINNESS RALLY SHARPLY.

The Stock Exchange Markets in Dublin yesterday were decidedly more cheerful, with little or no selling pressure, and in some directions a big accession in buying orders, which occasionally proved as difficult to fill, except at rapidly recovering quotations, as was the case the other way about the previous few days. The rebound in the price of Guinness Ord. Shares was determined and rapid, with finally a big excited business put through at an important recovery. The opening quotation was the higher at 45¾, and further improved to 45⅞, 11/16, 46, 46 1/16 x.d., while at the later market the price opened strong at 46⅜, eased momentarily to 46¼, and then improved to 46, 1/16, ⅜, 7/16, or a rise of 1 11/16 on the day. The names of leading insurance companies were passed for these shares at the last settlement. The Pref. Shares were again bid for, and rose further. The Ord. is dealt in as "Stock" in London, and as £10 shares in Dublin, Belfast and Cork. It would certainly popularise the shares if the Board decided to split the shares into £1 units in Ireland, so as to bring them within the scope of small investors. Grand Canal Ord. and British and Irish Steam Pref. were bid for. Marconi Ord. Shares advanced again. There was still a dull trend in the Home Railway market, but prices in some cases were well held. Trams were neglected. Alliance Gas closed harder. Manufacturing Shares presented a very lively market in some cases. Courtaulds, to make up for the previous day's neglect on this market, were buoyant at the opening in answer to overnight strength in London. The opening price, 144s., was 7s. higher, and up to 144s. 4½d. was paid, but profit-taking influenced a reaction to finally 143s. 6d. at the close. British-American Tobaccos sprang forward 1s. 9d. to 107s.-107s. 3d., but Imperials, though slightly harder at 108s., were a quieter market. Dunlop Rubber Ord. recovered on firm support, to 35s. 1½d. buyers, and Goulding Ord. were harder at 52s. Strong support was offered for Coats Shares, while the £10 Pref. rose 1/16 to 11 1/16, but Bleachers were a few pence cheaper. Imperial Chemicals on balance did not alter. Fresh records were established in Artificial Silk Shares, with Celanese particularly promising. Branston Shares remain in favour; and Match Shares, British as well as Swedish, were higher. Irish Times Pref. were on offer at last prices, but Merchants' Warehousing and Alex. Thom issues were buyers.

LONDON STEADY.

ACTIVITY AMONG INDUSTRIALS.

A generally firm tone prevailed in the London Stock Markets yesterday, with principal interest again centred in the Industrial section. A stronger tone developed in the gilt-edged section, following the announcement of the Government new loan and conversion proposals. Cons. 4 p.c. advanced smartly, while Funding Loan and Victory Bonds went better. Little of interest transpired in Foreign Government Stocks, and, apart from German Sevens, which went back a point, little alteration was shown. Home Rails made a firm start, but later on prices weakened, and at the close Metropolitan Districts and Southern Def.-Ord. were both ½ down. Colonial and Foreign Rails experienced another quiet session, and, with the exception of Canpacs. and Antofagasta Ord., both of which improved, the closing levels were the same as before.

In the Industrial sections Artsilks still attracted principal attention. Courtaulds were firmer, as were Snias, but Celanese, after a firm opening, eased slightly. Tobaccos still displayed activity, British-Americans rising smartly. Iron and Steels were quiet and steady, but Rubbers continued dull. Oils made a firm start, but became dull later, while Mines, as a whole, were quiet and without much alteration.

U.S. FINANCING.

Mr. Mills, Under-Secretary of the U.S. Treasury, announces that two offerings of new securities for a total of about $500,000,000 (£100,000,000) will mark the September financing of the Treasury Department. One issue will be of certificates of indebtedness bearing 3 per cent. interest and maturing in six months. The other will be 3 to 5 year Treasury Notes bearing interest at 3½ per cent. The Treasury is seeking to raise about $250,000,000 (£50,000,000) through the issue of certificates. Note flotation will be for about $250,000,000 in cash and an amount of exchange subscription limited only by the amount of the Second Liberty Loan Converted 4¼ per cent. Bonds tendered and accepted. None of the Second Liberty Loan 4 per cent. will be received in exchange for the new notes. The first maturity the Treasury must meet is that of the two issues of certificates falling due on 15th September. One of these, amounting to $229,269,500, is paying 3½ per cent., and the other, totalling $150,618,000, pays 3¼ per cent. These will be accepted in payment of the new issues of both certificates and notes.

CANADA'S HARVEST.

The London office of the Dominion Bank (Canada) has received the following report on crop conditions from Winnipeg:—"Harvesting now progressing rapidly, and, although damage from rust has increased lately, total yield is still expected to be greater than last year."

200 MILES OF 'BUS TICKETS A DAY.

If the tickets issued in one day by the London General Omnibus Company were placed end to end in a line, the distance covered would be 200 miles. Four and a half millions are distributed daily among the conductors, and a new system of ticket conveyors, which has just been introduced at the Chiswick Overhaul Works of the company, enables 300 girls to sort, arrange and check them more speedily than before. On a Saturday a million more are given out. The company carries a stock of 450,000,000 tickets, weighing 200 tons, at the Chiswick dépôt. There are 41 different denominations of tickets, and they cover 202 routes.

THREE NEW GREYHOUND COMPANIES.

The registration of three new companies in connection with greyhound racing is reported by Jordan and Sons, Ltd. Northern Greyhound Racers (Wigan), Limited, is a public company, with a capital of £20,000 in 5s. shares. Northern Greyhound Constructors, Limited, is a private company, with £500 capital. It is to carry on the business of builders and contractors and racecourse constructors. Northern Greyhound Farmers, Limited, another private company, is to carry on the business of dog farmers and dealers in greyhounds. Its capital is £1,000. W. Aland is managing director of all the companies.

LONDON CHANGES.

Although taken by surprise, the market for British Funds improved on the new Government proposals, the feature being provided by the new 4 p.c. Consols, which rose sharply from 84⅝ to 85¼. This was due to the fact that the proposals for conversion of next year's maturing 3½ p.c. War Loan and National War Bonds is into Conversion 3½ p.c., whereas the anticipation had been that any offer would have been to exchange into 4 p.c. Consols. In other directions, War Loan Fives finished ⅛ firmer at 102¼, while Funding Loan at 87¼ and Victory Bonds at 93¼ were ⅛ and ¼ firmer, respectively. 4½ p.c. Conversion Loans were another firm market, and an advance of ¼ was shown at 98. Little of interest transpired in Foreign Government Stocks, and quotations, as a rule, were the same as previously. Czecho-Slovakia Bonds stiffened to 111, or ½ to the good, while Uruguay 3½ p.c. marked a similar improvement to 68½. Turkish Unified went off to 24, or ¼ lower, while among Reconstruction Loans German Sevens dropped a point to 106.

RAILS IRREGULAR.

A slightly easier tendency developed in Home Rails, and, after being a trifle firmer at the commencement of business, the final values, where altered, were lower. Metropolitan Districts dropped ½ to 62, while Southern Def.-Ord. lost a like amount to 38½.

Apart from Canpacs., which gained a point to 192 x.d., and Antofagasta Ord., which finished ½ firmer at 83, Colonial and Foreign Rails were quiet and steady.

RUBBER SHARES LOWER.

There was still very little business passing in the Rubber Share Market. With a couple or so exceptions, movements were all against holders. A steady tone ruled in the commodity market, spot and September fetching 1s. 4⅞d., while October to December sold 1s. 5¼d to 1s. 5d. per lb. January to March realised 1s. 5½d., and January to December 1928 were quoted 1s. 6¼d. per lb. In the share market Bukit Kajang dropped 1s. 3d. to 45s., while Central Ceylon dropped 1s. to 54s. 9d. Kapar Para were a heavy spot, the final level being 3s. 9d. lower, while Sapong and Sialang each lost 1s. 3d. Bah Lias stiffened to 48s. 9d., or 1s. 3d. better, while Asahan at 18s. 9d. were 9d. to the good.

TEA SHARES DULL.

Although the volume of business passing in the Tea Share Market continued on a fair scale, a dull tone prevailed, and at the close a vast majority of alterations were in the downward direction. Amalgamated Estates dropped ¼ to 51⅜, while Brahmapootra lost a similar amount to 40¼. Ceylon Plants dropped 1/16. Jhanzie was 5 1/16, or 1/16 lower, while Jokai at 5¼ was 1/32 lower. Kanan Devan at 49½ was ½ easier, and Moabund shed 1s. 10½d. to 63s. 1½d. The only improvement of any note was that of 3s. 1½d. in Pundaloya to 85s. 7½d.

OIL SHARES UNCERTAIN.

Having regard to the rapidity of the advance in Oil shares in the late dealings on Tuesday, the fact that profit-taking, which in some cases was on quite a considerable scale, should take place yesterday morning can hardly have caused surprise. In the circumstances the market held well, and closed with a firm appearance, for while the price movements finally recorded were adverse, in the majority of cases they were generally of small amount. Like other leading counters, Shells gave way in the early hours, but they rallied later and closed without alteration. Royal Dutch were a firm market, being quoted at 29 at the start, and although they weakened to 28⅞ at one time, they finished with a gain of 1/16 at 28 15/16. Following a steady start, Anglo-Persians came on offer and fell to 4⅛ sellers, but from this point they rallied to 4 1/16, which left them only 1/16 down on the day. Burmahs, which were offered at one time at 5¼, closed with a loss of ⅛ at 5 1/16. A fair business was transacted in Mexican Eagles, but at the close the Ord. and 8 p.c. Participating Prefs. were slightly easier at 18s. 4½d. and 18s. 6d. respectively. V.O.C. Holdings weakened at one time, but closed steady and unchanged. British Controlled Prefd. had a firm appearance in the morning at 8s. 3d., but a fairly heavy line of stock came out and checked the market, although a small gain was finally registered at 8s. 1½d. The Common eased to 5s. 6d. Creole Syndicates eased 1/16 to 2 1/16. As regards Trinidad issues, Apex, despite the record output for August and the encouraging dividend outlook, receded 1/16 to 2 1/16. Trinidad Leaseholds remained a firm market at 4⅛.

INDUSTRIALS LESS ACTIVE.

Although there was less doing generally in the Industrial market yesterday, a good turnover was again noticeable for some of the Artsilk issues, particularly Courtaulds, several thousand shares changing hands at one time. The price rose at one time to 7¼ bid, closing with a net gain of 1/16 at 7 1/16. Snia Viscosa were prominent, touching 47s. 6d., and finishing 1s. 9d. to the good on balance at 45s. 6d. American Celanese Common changed hands at 21¼, being finally 21, with the Preferred 33¼. British Celanese Ord. were quieter, and eased 1/16 to 3 11/16, with the Pref. a firm market around 31s. 9d. Canadian Celanese remained at 17¼. Branstons continued active, the Ord. at 17s. 9d. and the Def. around 5s. 9d., with Nuera Def. inquired for at 24s. 3d. Textiles showed little variation except for Listers, which strengthened to 24s. 6d. Of the Textile Machinists, Hetheringtons again met with provincial inquiry and improved to 19s. 4½d.

Coal, Steel and Engineering descriptions remained undecided. Chinese Engineering were favoured with an advance of ⅛ to 2 11/16, with buyers coming forward for Babcocks at 53s. 6d. and Mond Nickels at 53s. Cammell Lairds were unaffected by the directors' announcement that no interim dividend will be paid on the Pref. or Ord. shares. No distribution has been made on the Pref. since June 30, 1925. Electrical Equipments made a mixed showing. British Insulateds recovered 1s. to 76s., but Callenders receded to 72s. and Metro. Vickers to 29s.

Shipping issues were rather dull. On the new issue, P. and O. Def. changed hands at one time down to 265, closing with a net loss of 20 at 275. Insurance shares were quieter; Royal Exchange rose to 7¼, but North British and Mercantile eased ⅛ to 27⅜. Bank shares were more active, with fractional advances recorded by Anglo of South America at 7, Bank of Australasia at 14 7/16, Barclays A at 8, Chartered of India at 20½, Midland at 8 15/16, National of New Zealand at 6⅛, National Provincial £20 Shares (£4 paid) at 13 1/16, and Standard of South Africa at 14⅝. Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking put on a point to 115½, but Canadian of Commerce lost that amount at 57½.

Breweries were uncertain. Watney Def. were favoured with an advance of 2 to 258½, being dealt in up to 260, but Guinness remained a heavy market, changing hands down to 445. Tobaccos were generally maintained, but while Bats were favoured with a rise of 1s. 3d. to 106s. 9d., Imps were sold and shed 1s. to £5 6s., while Imperial of Canada receded to 35s. 6d. Carreras held their improvement. Stores and Catering issues again attracted attention. Harrods were dealt in up to 68s. 9d., closing with an advance of 3s. 6d. at 68s. 6d., with Harrods B.A. 3d. harder at 17s. Liptons continued strong and active, awaiting developments. The Ord. put on 1s. 3d. to 18s. 3d., with the 5 p.c. Pref. dealt in at 15s. 9d. and the 9 p.c. Pref. at 20s. Van Den Berghs changed hands at 49s. 3d. and Meadow Dairy at 5s. 1½d.

Land shares were harder in places, Hudson's Bays stiffening to 4⅝. Nitrates proved irregular. Some of the Cement shares were favoured. Traction issues were slightly easier, and some of the leading Motor shares lost ground. Newspapers kept fairly firm, without much variation. In the Miscellaneous department Swedish Match remained in the ascendant, the "B" shares closing at 18 3/16, with British Match harder at 29s. 3d. Dunlops were a better market, finishing 3d. harder at 35s. 4½d. Wallpaper Deferred improved to 35s. 10½d., with Crittals firm on the meeting at 57s. 6d.

LONDON MINING MARKET.

KAFFIR PRICES HARDENING.

The tone of the House yesterday was again firm, and it is evident that the speculative activity seen recently in industrial shares is spreading to other markets. In the Mining market Kaffirs were harder, despite the fact that the Cape was less inclined to take interest, and the majority of changes on the day were again rises. Central Mining improved on Paris advices, and Johnnies again hardened, with a further recovery in Diamond shares. Goldfields were better on French inquiries. The investment demand for Modders appears to have been fanned by the record results, and the price appreciated. Crown Mines improved, and Robinson Deep B, on better development report, were higher on bear closing. Modder Deeps continued in demand, and Van Ryn Deeps were also firm.

In the Rhodesian department, General Asbestos created a fresh record by being 4⅜ bid at one time, and although they closed slightly below this level there was still a good rise to show on the day. Congo Borders were a better market, and Rhodesian Minerals were in demand and higher. Tanganyika London numbers were a strong spot at one time, but Brussels numbers were weak. Chartered were content to maintain their former level, and Sherwood Starr weakened a trifle. A revival in Goldfields Rhodesian was seen and American Celanese shares. De Beers Def. rallied sharply in Diamond shares, while the Pref. and Jagers were also better. The demand for Consolidated Diamonds continued, and the shares improved.

The price of Tin improved 11s. 3d. to £290 12s. 6d. per ton, and there was more activity in the share market. In Coppers, Rio Tintos improved on Paris inquiries. Keeley Silver rallied the turn in Canadians, but the other two changes shown were small declines. In other directions, Burma Corporations were small sellers and easier.

DUBLIN BUSINESS DONE.

BANK STOCK AND RAILS DULL. COURTAULD BUOYANCY. COATS HARD. "BATS" GOOD. DUNLOPS BETTER. ARTIFICIAL SILK STILL RISING.

Government National 5 per cent. Sterling fell ⅜ to 96 for a broken lot, while Land Bonds 4½ per cent. repeated 91⅝, also for an odd amount.

British Funds were good. War Loan 5 per cent. rose 1/16 to 102⅛, do. Deed 1/16 to 102⅛, Conversion 3½ per cent. ½ to 74⅞ x.d., and India 3 per cent. 1/16 to 59 1/16, while Consols repeated 54 1/16.

In Banks, Bank Stock fell ½ to 272½ x.d., while Hibernians repeated 7⅞, but Nationals rose ⅛ to 20⅝, all business done being in small lots.

In Breweries, the selling pressure suddenly ceased in Guinness Ord. Shares, and buyers rallied the price up to no less than 1 11/16 to 46 1/16, after earlier dealing at 45⅝-⅞-11/16, 46, 46 1/16, ⅜, ¼, 1/16, ⅜, and the Pref. rose a further ⅛ to 11⅜.

In Steam, British and Irish Prefs. repeated 15s. 9d., while Grand Canal Ord. rose 1s. 8d. to 52s. 6d.

Marconi Ord. rose 10½d. to 21s.

In Home Rails, Great Northern repeated 30¼, but the Pref. fell ⅜ to 48⅜, and Great Southern Ord. ¼ to 18⅜, while the Guaranteed of the latter repeated 51, and the Debs. 63⅜.

In Drapery shares, Henry street Warehouse repeated 12s. 6d. for a small lot.

Alliance Gas rose 1/16 to 8⅞.

Manufacturing shares were lively. Courtaulds, following the overnight lead, opened 7s. higher at 144s., and then rose to 144s. 4½d., 144s. 3d., with a subsequent reaction to 143s. 6d. Coats Ord. improved 3d. to 56s. 7½d., 56s. 9d., but Bleachers fell 6d. to 39s. 6d. Dunlop Rubber Ord. realised 35s., 35s. 1½d., and British Match shares changed hands at 29s. 1½d., and Vickers repeated 11s. 7½d. British-American Tobaccos opened 1s. 6d. higher at 107s., but then realised 107s. 3d. Imperial Tobacco shares were 1½d. higher at 108s. Coats £10 Pref. were scarce, and rose 1/16 to 11 1/16, and Goulding Ord. 3d. to 52s. Imperial Chemical Ord. eased 1½d. to 27s. 7½d., but the Deferred rose 1½d. to 8s. 10½d.

Trading, etc., shares were entirely neglected, but Irish Times Pref. were on sale at 75s., the last price unofficially.

Other business done included Branston Artificial Silk Ord. at 17s. 6d., 17s. 7½d., 17s. 6d., 17s. 4½d., and the 5s. Deferred, with 1s. 6d. paid, quoted 5s. 10½d. British Celanese Ord. rose 3s. 6d. to 76s., and the Pref. 2s. 3d. to 31s. 4½d. British Controlled Oil Common realised 5s. 10½d., and Swedish Match "B" 18⅝.

COMPANY MEETING.

CRITTALL MANUFACTURING COMPANY, LIMITED.

EXTENSIVE DEVELOPMENT POLICY.

Presiding at the general meeting of the Crittall Manufacturing Company, Limited, held at River Plate House, London, E.C., yesterday, the Chairman, Mr. Francis H. Crittall, J.P., in moving the adoption of the report and accounts, said that the net profit of £163,285, showing an increase of £49,200 on the previous year, was all the more satisfactory in that it had been achieved in a difficult year, in which, while handling an increased volume of trade, they had been engaged in extensions and reorganisation work, the benefits of which were not reflected in the present accounts.

Some of them might think that the profits had been unduly influenced by the boom in the building trade. In regard to that he wished to say the directors were satisfied that when the building trade again became normal they would still be unable to cope with the volume of trade which awaited them. As a matter of fact, he believed that the metal window business was merely in its infancy, and that the scope for its expansion was practically unlimited both in the home and export trades.

Important extensions and rearrangements had been made in connection with their various factories at Witham, Maldon, Braintree and Silver End, while the establishing of dépôts and warehouses in various parts of the country, where their finished products could be purchased by local builders, added materially to their sales.

With a view to consolidating the operations of the company, they had acquired the business of Messrs. E. J. Parlanti and Co., of West Kensington, long recognised as the leading casters of statuary bronze, and arrangements had been completed for satisfactory working arrangements and the acquisition of an interest in Messrs. Mellowes and Co., Limited, of Sheffield, who have had over forty years' experience in the roof glazing industry.

Another important development was the purchase of certain land at Silver End, midway between Braintree and Witham, through their subsidiary company—the Silver End Development Company—for the provision in the vicinity of their factories of housing accommodation for their employés. In districts adjacent to their factories there was only a limited supply of housing and labour, and the provision of housing accommodation attracted the necessary labour to the neighbourhood. The houses as soon as erected were either tenanted by the employés or purchased by them on the instalment principle.

The company's overseas trade continued to expand, and further branches and additional subsidiary companies were being established by them in various parts of the world. That trade now formed a considerable portion of their total business, an important feature being that it was not subject to seasonal demands.

The report and accounts were unanimously adopted.

THE MONEY MARKET

LOANS STRINGENT.

Conditions in Lombard street became more stringent yesterday owing to the heavier calling in of balances for window-dressing purposes, and the market narrowly escaped having recourse to the Bank of England, special measures being taken to prevent this. Loans over the night commanded from 4 to 4½ p.c., while most of the old day-to-day money was renewed at 3¾ to 4 p.c. Weekly fixtures went on at 3½ p.c.

Bank Rate Discount (changed April 21 1927), 4½%
60 days (fine)		4 5/16%
3 months "		4 5/16%	Trade	4½	5	%
4 " "	4 5/16	4⅜%	"	4¾	5	%
6 " "	4 7/16	4½%	"	5	5½	%
Loans to Brokers Day-to-day				3½	4½	%
" for a Week					3½	%
Deposit Allowance: Banks at Call					2½	%
" " Discount Houses at Call					2½	%
" " " " at Notice					2¾	%

The discount market was steady, with 4 1/16 p.c. generally quoted for fine three months' bills. Special buying of the "hot" Treasuries was reported at 4 1/16 p.c.

The Bank of England announced the sale of £12,000 of bar gold. Since the issue of the last Bank return the net influx is £641,000. The China banks bought and sold bar silver. Both the spot and forward prices rose 1/16d. to 25⅜d. per oz. Gold remained at 84s. 11½d. per fine oz.

The American exchange was a shade easier at 4.86 1/16. In the South American group there was a further slight improvement in Chilean dollars, and the Uruguayan currency was better. European rates showed very little variation, apart from a further sharp appreciation in Norwegian kroner, the rate for which drooped to 18.43. Spanish pesetas were a little cheaper, but to a slight extent Austria and Holland moved against us. Italian lire were unaltered.

CLEVER "DOLE" FRAUD.

DRAWING FOR SIX YEARS FOR FICTITIOUS PERSONS.

Sentence of five years' penal servitude was passed yesterday at the Old Bailey, London, on Albert William Gorham (47), clerk, for forging claims for unemployment benefit and obtaining money from the Ministry of Labour by false pretences. The prisoner pleaded guilty.

It was stated by the prosecution that in 1920 Gorham was released from prison after serving a sentence for obtaining money by false pretences. In the name of Newcombe he then drew out of work benefit, and gave the names of fictitious people, drawing money on their behalf, and also for wives and children who did not exist. In nearly every case he gave the name of the employer of the person he purported to be as Gorham. This fraud went on for over six years, Gorham obtaining over £700 from the Ministry.

The prisoner told the judge that if the officials had done their duty these frauds could not have been carried out, but the Recorder said that no blame attached to them.

AUTUMN SHEEP SALE.

The autumn disposals of store sheep were continued on Tuesday in the Dublin Cattle Market, Messrs. Ganly offering 2,500 head of the various classes. Competition was hardly so keen as at last week's sale for the Roscommon and Galway ewes, but the greater portion changed hands. General run for best Roscommons and Galways was from 61/6 to 54/-; secondary, 50/- to 47/-. Good demand for cross-breds and cheviot ewes, 55/- to 46/-. Horny ewes, 34/- to 25/-; lambs, 35/- to 24/-. The next auction will be on Wednesday, 14th September.

SALE OF 4,500 SHEEP.

Messrs. Cragie Bros. hold their second autumn sale of 4,500 sheep in the Dublin Cattle Market to-morrow, commencing at 12 o'clock. The entries include Oxford, Suffolk and Shrop cross ewes; also a good entry of Galway, cross-bred and cheviot ewes, and the largest show of blackfaced horny ewes offered this season. A number of wethers and lambs are also included in the sale. The principal consignors are the Marquis of Waterford, Dr. John Marshall Day, Messrs. John J. Smyth, H. D'E. Strevens, P. King Joyce, Tobias Joyce, T. B. Joyce, Francis J. Blake, J. E. Acton, Robert Madden, John Robinson, W. Whitmore, Thomas Jones, Jeremiah Casey, W. Fallon, John Fallon, Edward Brady, Martin Flannery, James Flannery, Robert Harpur, M. Prendergast, John J. O'Connor and Thomas McCutcheon.

MESSRS. WILKINSON'S SALE.

At a sheep sale held by Messrs. Wilkinson there was a full catalogue, exceeding 3,000 head. There was a good attendance of buyers, but trade was not as brisk as of late, prices showing some reduction compared with the firm's sale a fortnight ago.

There was a good entry of Roscommon and Galway ewes, the following being some of the principal transactions:—Mr. Fallon's (top price), 60/-; Mr. Clarke's pens, 56/-, 56/-, 55/-, 54/-; Mr. John Fallon's, 50/-, 46/-, 46/-, 46/-; Mr. P. Brady's, 52/-, 52/-, 46/-; Mr. R. Kilroy's pen, 50/-; Mr. M'Claughry's, 50/-; Mr. F. Finn's, 50/-; Mr. E. O'Shaughnessy's, 50/-; Mr. J. O'Doherty's, 47/-, 42/-, 40/-; Mr. Kelly's, 43/-, 41/-, 40/-; Mr. Campbell's, 54/-.

The Cheviots were, on the whole, rather moderate, with no lots of outstanding merit, the principal prices being 55/-, 52/-, 48/-, 47/-, 46/-, 40/- and 37/-. Some good lots of B.F. horny ewes were in demand, the best lots making 34/-, 32/-, 31/-, 30/- and 28/-, with others at lower prices. Shrop and Oxford rams realised 6½ to 7 guineas.

Messrs. Wilkinson's next sale will be held on Wednesday, the 28th inst.

IRISH FAIRS.

TRALEE.—At the September cattle fair, in Tralee, there was a big supply of good stock, and a large attendance of buyers. Prices showed an advance on the previous fair. LIVERPOOL.—WHEAT—Winnipeg and Chicago finished better than expected, and forward deliveries of wheat here improved to a fair extent during early trading, then receded slightly, but again moved upwards until a liberal advance had been realised, but with disappointing afternoon cables part of the rise was lost at the finish. C.i.f. parcels of No. 3 Manitoba arrived sold at 51/- per quarter to Liverpool, and No. 2 hard winter arrived at 49/7½ to Manchester. C.i.f. parcels of MAIZE River Plate September-October sold at 32/6 and October-November 33/- per quarter. Wheat on the spot ruled quietly steady. Maize spot parcels quiet, and River Plate quoted 7/2 to 7/2¼ per cental. FLOUR quiet and 6d. lower; official price of straight run 42/6 per 280lbs. ex mill. Graded wheat futures opened ½d. per cental dearer, further improved ½d. to ¾d., then receded ¼d., but again advanced until ½d. to 1d. over Tuesday night had been realised, when prices gave way rapidly and closed only ½d. to ¾d. over Tuesday's final rates.

GLASGOW.—Wheat neglected and tending lower; No. 1 Manitoba 58/3, September. Maize quiet and slightly easier in all positions. Oats in fair request at last prices. Barley firm, with moderate demand for good imported sorts. Flour easier in sympathy with wheat, and slow to sell.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON—The firmness in all selections is fully maintained and a fair demand reported all round, with supplies on the short side. American bellies being raised to 95/- to 98/- and backs 82/- to 94/- per cwt., with other prices unaltered. HAMS continued to be sparingly offered, and with a fair demand prices are advanced to 106/- to 114/- per cwt. for short cut. Shoulders firmly held at late rates. LARD on the spot, in sympathy with Chicago, is reduced partially 3d., American refined now at 68/9 to 70/3 per cwt. A fair inquiry is experienced. CHEESE firm and in moderate request at late rates. BUTTER also firm and fairly active at the recent advance. EGGS scarce at 17/- to 17/9 for Irish fresh hen and 13/9 to 15/- for duck per 120.

LONDON CENTRAL MEAT (Smithfield).—1,743 tons (511 tons of British and Irish, and 1,232 tons of imported). "A PIOUS PLATITUDE."

Summoning a neighbour for throwing water over him during an argument over a missing hen, a complainant in the Dundrum District Court yesterday said that the defendant wrote an apology, but that he looked on it as a "pious platitude." The case was dismissed.

"RECORD" CAVAN SHOW.

HORSES AND CATTLE EXCEL.

GOOD EXHIBITS ALL ROUND.

From Our Agricultural Correspondent.

CAVAN, Wednesday.

One of the most successful fixtures of the County Cavan Agricultural Society, Ltd., was the event which took place to-day. The entries, totalling 2,100, were 700 over last year, and competition in every section was keen. People with knowledge of the twenty-six shows already held declare that it was easily the best of the series from every point of view. Horses and cattle were both good; the new sections for dogs and rabbits filled well, and great interest was taken in the awards. The weather was magnificently fine, and there was a "record" attendance.

Mr. C. Brady, the lately appointed secretary, worked hard, and the principal judges were:—Horses—J. Balmer, Ballymena; G. O'Neill, Castlepollard; J. Kernohan, Ballymena. Cattle—Alex. Thom, Slane; P. C. Conaty, Kells; C. Welsh, Smithboro'. Sheep, goats and pigs—J. Bellew, Drogheda. Poultry, butter and eggs—Miss Hogan, Mullingar; Miss A. Flood, Monaghan. Roots and grain—J. Walsh, Portadown, and J. B. Pow, Dunsany.

HORSES.

In the open class for hunter brood mares, V. M. Elliott, Arva, was first; G. W. Frazer, Mountnugent, second with Seagull; and Captain Worrell, Belturbet, third.

In the three-year-old hunters class, J. Meehan, Streete, took first prize with a youngster of great promise. He also won the Frazer Cup for the best colt or filly, not exceeding three years old, and also the special for the best animal in the horse section. Captain Worrell's colt, Rajah, was second.

In the two-year-old hunters class, V. M. Elliott led with Partyluff. A. Condell, Belturbet, was second with Andy, and J. O'Reilly, Gowra, third.

First prize for hunter yearlings and reserve in the Frazer Cup competition went to W. J. Frazer's chestnut filly, Imelda Pride. Captain Worrell's Gingle Lily was second, and G. W. Frazer's bay filly third.

Foals—1st, T. P. Reid, Monaghan; 2nd, V. M. Elliott; 3rd, W. R. Morton, Belturbet.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

LARCENY OF WATCHES.

YOUNG MAN SENT TO PRISON.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

A young man named Edward Sweeney, stated to be a native of Clones, now of no fixed residence, appeared on remand to answer charges of concealing himself in the premises of the Ingersoll Watch Company, in Henry street, breaking a show case, and stealing seven watches, on the 27th of last month, and of having watches illegally in his possession.

Pleading guilty, he said that he had got a job in Birmingham, and wanted money to enable him to go there. That was why he did this. "I was never charged before with housebreaking," he added.

Mr. Cussen—You say you were never charged with housebreaking before?

The Accused Man—No, that I remember.

Mr. Cussen—What about the jumper you stole, and got two months' imprisonment for?

"I did not take it," replied the accused man. "I was blamed in the wrong, and, because I was wearing a jumper front to back, I was suspected, and taken for it."

Mr. Cussen sentenced the accused man to three months' imprisonment, with hard labour. He commended Detective Denis O'Leary, who had charge of the case, and also Mr. Shearin, manager of Reilly's pawn office, in Buckingham street, who "stopped" two of the watches.

MILK PROSECUTIONS.

(BEFORE MR. COLLINS, K.C.)

Michael Fitzsimons, Malpas street, Dublin, was fined £2 on conviction of selling milk to Inspector Egan which was deficient of 20 per cent. of fats.

John Doyle, Balrothery, Tallaght, County Dublin, was fined £1 for selling milk which was certified to be deficient of 10 per cent. of fats.

Mr. T. F. Burke, solicitor, prosecuted for the Commissioners; and Mr. Shiel defended. Some cases were adjourned for further evidence.

TUBERCULIN TEST FOR BULLS.

LOUTH APPROVES OF DONEGAL'S ACTION.

Louth County Agricultural Committee decided to adopt the Donegal resolution calling on the Department of Agriculture to refuse premiums to bulls which have not passed the tuberculin test, and in respect of which a certificate to that effect is not produced in the show or at the sale.

Mr. Donovan, Department Inspector, said that he thought it would be wrong to adopt the resolution, as it would interfere with the live stock in the country. Some of the best Scottish bulls had not passed the test.

Mr. Bellew, a well-known Louth breeder, was in favour of the resolution, and said that all animals should be subject to such a test.

The Chairman (Mr. J. T. McGee) said that a tubercular bull might not breed a tubercular calf, and Mr. Donovan agreed.

Mrs. Markey supported the resolution, stating that it was more important that they should have tests of this sort than go in for fancy points. The resolution was dictated by common-sense.

Replying to Mr. Connor, the agricultural instructor stated that tuberculosis was not transmittable in cattle.

Mr. McGahon said that this was a strong statement, but it would be better to pay for a sound animal than for an unsound one.

THE LINEN TRADE OUTLOOK.

STEADY INCREASE IN FLAX PRICES.

POSITION OF SPINNING SECTION.

From Our Belfast Correspondent.

There has been a steady increase in the price of flax during the past three months; Russian flax has advanced from about £60 per ton to £115 per ton, and, in consequence of the short supply of all Continental flax, is difficult to obtain at this figure. New Irish flax, Courtrai, and other Belgian supplies will not be on the market for another month, while flax from the Baltic Provinces and Russia will not be available until about the month of November. In these circumstances, there should be a good demand for Irish flax when it becomes available.

A SMALLER CROP.

The crop sown this year is much smaller than for many years, and those farmers who have maintained their average area under flax should find that it will be a profitable crop. There have been rumours that the spinning section of the linen industry may find it necessary to close down until the new crop of flax is available at reasonable prices, but while production has been curtailed there has not been yet any general closing down movement.

At present the linen trade is in as good a position, relatively, as the woollen, jute or cotton trades. About sixty per cent of the looms in Ireland are at work, but until flax is available in larger quantities there is little hope of this number being increased.

The steady advance in the price of cotton will also react upon the linen industry. Some lines of raw cotton are selling at present dearer than flax, and if this position is maintained when the new flax comes on the market the linen indstry will be in a favourable position.

YARNS AND CLOTH.

The present conditions in the linen trade are very difficult, and all branches of the industry are operating with great caution. There is little profitable business being carried on at present either in yarns or in cloth, and this will continue until either a greater demand develops or there is a considerable reduction in the price of flax.

AFFAIRS OF RATHMINES URBAN COUNCIL.

PROTEST AGAINST AN APPOINTMENT.

In connection with the minutes of the Lighting Committee, the Clerk mentioned at yesterday's meeting of the Rathmines Urban District Council that he had got a letter from Sir Simon Maddock, Chairman, who regretted that he could not attend the meeting, and said that, in reference to the coal contract, a tender from Messrs. Heiton, addressed to the Chairman of the Council, had come to his house while he was on holidays. He suggested that the contract might be advertised again.

The Clerk further informed the Council that the tender of Messrs. Heiton was 31s. 6d. per ton, whereas the tender that had been accepted by the Lighting Committee was 31s. 3d.

It was decided not to readvertise.

STONE-THROWING.

Miss ffrench-Mullen, moving the adoption of the minutes, called attention to the matter of stone-throwng by children and damage to the electricity works in the vicinity of the Town Hall, and said that people talked about this being the Council's property. They should remember that it was their own property, and, if damage had to be paid for, the rates would fall on the people themselves. If they looked at it in that way, they might try to see that the property was protected.

The minutes were approved.

VACANCY ON COMMITTEES.

On the motion of Mrs. Johnson, seconded by Major Whewell, Miss Molony was appointed to the vacant seats on the School Attendance, Housing, Public Health and Child Welfare Committees, caused by the death of the Countess Markievicz.

A letter was read from Mrs. Kevin O'Higgins thanking the Council for the resolution of sympathy with her on the death of her husband.

The letter was ordered to be inserted on the minutes.

On the motion of Mrs. Johnson, seconded by Mr. Gogan, the following resolution was adopted:—"That this Council wishes to register its protest against the method of appointment of a school attendance secretary, which appears to stultify the rights of the township concerned, and, while being compelled to accept the decision of the Local Appointments Committee on this occasion, the Council would submit the right of their Special Committee concerned to have one of its members present at future examinations and the subsequent interview of successful candidate."

Mrs. Mary Kettle presided.

ROW BOAT ACCIDENT.

INQUEST PUTS END TO CALUMNIOUS REPORTS.

Mr. John Tracy, the Londonderry Coroner, severly censured local calumniators at the inquest last evening on Mrs. Mary McIntyre, aged 47, of Dungiven road.

The evidence was that last Thursday afternoon Mrs. McIntyre and her husband were in a row boat on the River Foyle, fishing. Mrs. McIntyre was throwing out the line, when she overbalanced and fell into the water. Her husband thrust out an oar towards her, but she was unable to grasp it. He then unloosed the rope by which the boat was tied to a buoy, and succeeded in catching his wife.

Meantime Constable Lynn and two men got into a boat and assisted McIntyre in rescuing his wife. She was suffering from collapse, and died of pneumonia and heart failure following immersion.

Constable Lynn, in reply to questions, said that he saw no signs of drink on either McIntyre or his wife, and McIntyre did all in his power to rescue his wife. There were no bottles in McIntyre's boat.

The Coroner said that Constable Lynn and his companions were responsible, by their promptitude, for averting a double drowning, and, in addition, were fortunate in saving these people from calumnies which had spread through the city as to the circumstances connected with this death. These were people in humble circumstances; he daresay they were harmless and gave offence to no one. Yet rumours had been circulated that drink was to a certain extent responsible for this woman's death. Evidence had been given refuting these rumours. Notwithstanding that, a report had been spread that there were bottles in the boat, and that incidents, which led up to this woman's death in some way, brought discredit upon her husband or some one else.

They were all familiar with this kind of people who spread lying reports about their fellowmen, even in death. They could not allow this woman to rest in peace. Fortunately, Constable Lynn and his companions had been able to save the reputation of the dead woman and her husband.

A verdict in accordance with the medical evidence was returned.

The foreman of the jury said that the jury were of opinion that every effort had been made by McIntyre to save his wife, and they extended to him their deep sympathy. They also wished to commend Constable Lynn and his companions for their promptitude.

Head Constable Fallon, on behalf of the police, joined in the expressions of sympathy with McIntyre.

TAR BOILER EXPLOSION

DURING ELECTION MEETING IN TRALEE.

The boiler of the tar-spraying machine of the Kerry County Council took fire in The Square, Tralee, while the road men were at dinner. There was a loud explosion which created considerable alarm, and people rushed from all parts of the town to ascertain the cause. A meeting of the Cumann na nGaedheal Party was in progress at the time, and numbers of the audience joined in the rush for the square.

The lid of the boiler was blown off by the force of the explosion, and the tar was burned out.

Chosen for health value by Doctors, loved for deliciousness by children, "Skippers" are supreme for QUALITY. Plump little fish in pure olive oil, with no harsh scales, no hard bones, they have a particularly delicate flavour—and are quickly digested. Each little silver fish is a gift of Quality to child-body and child-brain.

A Surrey Doctor in a letter says—
"I consider that 'Skippers' are valuable as a food, and particularly valuable in cases of general debility and nervous debility, chiefly on account of their stimulating action on the digestive system as well as their own food value; and the dainty way in which they are put up in the tins should appeal to those patients who are usually inclined to be finnicky about their meals."

BLACKROCK WITHOUT WEIGHTS AND MEASURES INSPECTOR.

A TOWNSHIP PROBLEM.

At the meeting of the Blackrock Urban Council last night the fact that the Blackrock urban district has been without a weights and measures inspector for the past two years was under discussion.

It appeared that an arrangement had been arrived at between the Kingstown Urban Council and the Blackrock Council by which the latter Council would have the use of the Kingstown inspector and the Kingstown standards for a sum of £100. The Kingstown Committee appears to have allocated the sum of £30 from the £100 received from Blackrock as salary to their inspector for services to be rendered in Blackrock. The Kingstown inspector objected on the ground that the salary allocated to him for acting in the Blackrock district was not commensurate with the amount of work involved, and he declined to act.

A letter was received by the Blackrock Urban Council from the Ministry of Industries and Commerce intimating that the Ministry considered that the amount allocated from the Blackrock contribution as salary to the inspector was inadequate.

The Blackrock Urban Council marked the letter "read and noted," leaving further action with the Kingstown Committee.

ACQUISITION OF DUNDALK QUAYS.

At the meeting of the Dundalk Harbour Board it was reported that the L.M.S. Railway Company had commenced an action against the Commissioners as to the manner in which arbitration should be held for the acquisition of the quays. The case had been adjourned, and the board decided that, pending the hearing of the case, no further work should be done on the scheme, for which £50,000 has been subscribed under Government guarantee.

The Engineer reported that dredging operations were in progress at the port, and would continue to the end of September, by which time the biggest bank of mud ever removed in Dundalk will have been cleared from the river and pumped into the reclamation sites.

The Chairman (Mr. Twibill) stated that when the dredging was completed this year the river would be in a better condition than ever before.

A TRUE SKIN REMEDY AT LAST

That Eczema, Psoriasis, and other Eczematous eruptions are difficult of treatment is frequently due to failure to attack the malady at its root. Pore-clogging ointments, whilst perhaps affording superficial relief, actually serve as a hotbed and nursery for the germs and corroding impurities ensconced in the deep layers of the skin tissues.

D.D.D. Prescription penetrates to the very source of the eruption, stops the itching within two or three seconds of applying, and in a few days the condition of the skin will be so far improved as to convince the user that here, at last, is real relief. D.D.D. Prescription can be obtained from your chemist at 1/6 per bottle. Start your cure to-day.

DALKEY URBAN COUNCIL'S FINANCES.

At the Dalkey Urban Council meeting last night, Dr. J. E. Conway, Chairman, presiding, the Council decided, on the head of their Finance Committee's report, to restrict their financial commitments to £350 per month, in order to make the financial position satisfactory to the new Council, which, it was understood, would enter into office next January.

MOTOR CAR FOR 50/-

A motor car which a youth was charged in the Dundrum District Court yesterday with driving without having an identification plate or licence to drive was stated by the boy's father to have been bought by his son for 50s. Naturally enough, said the father, it was one of very ancient pattern. He told his son that, if he could get the car to go, he would take out a licence, and, as his son had accomplished this feat, he had since taken out the licence.

A fine of £21, mitigated to 1s., was imposed.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

THE LAST CLASSIC.

BOOK LAW'S ST. LEGER.

A SLOWLY RUN RACE.

From Our Travelling Correspondent.

DONCASTER, Wednesday Night.

This has been a perfect St. Leger day. The weather was delightful. The light was so good that not an incident of the running could be missed by anyone with half an eye, and the favourite, Book Law, won the last classic race of the year. Everything went like clockwork. Book Law did all that was expected of her, and she was returned the winner by three lengths from Hot Night, with Son and Heir, who was afterwards found to have broken down, third, two lengths away, Shian Mor fourth, Silverstead fifth, and Grande Vitesse sixth.

Had the nomination of Call Boy not been rendered void by the death of Mr. Curzon he would have won this event, judging by the distance that separated him from Hot Night in the Derby and Book Law and Hot Night here. I drag in the name of Call Boy, because I understand that to-day Sir Henry Mallaby Deeley, who bought him from his brother's executors, received an offer of £65,000 for him from the owner of a stud farm in Ireland.

HIS REPUTATION.

I find it a little hard not to be cynical about this St. Leger, which established the reputation of a good, not a great, filly at the expense of some non-stayers and a batch of moderate horses. The time for the race was 3m. 14 2-5s. In that whirlwind display of Coronach last year, which carried an immence crowd off their feet, he created a record by covering the distance in 3m. 1 3-5s. The going was perfect then, whereas to-day it was holding. It had rained heavily in the night, but the disparity in the times is striking.

It was to-day a slowly run race, for when they had gone a mile a dozen horses were all bunched together, whereas last year when they had gone half a mile Coronach had them scattered all over the place. If it had been a well-run race. I think Book Law would have won more easily. She was always in the first half-dozen and Jelliss was keeping a tight hold of her head. As they swung into the straight she pulled herself to the front.

There was then one tense moment—the only scrap of excitement that the race yielded—and that was when Hot Night, who had been lying well back, suddenly dashed up on the outside and got to Book Law's girths. Jelliss did not get rattled, but he shook the filly up, and she began to draw away again, which was not difficult, for hot night could not run on under the pressure. If it had been a strongly run race he would not have got so near her. One can, however, say that form worked out well enough, because he and Shian Mor were second and third in the Derby and were second and fourth here.

AN UNFORTUNATE BREAK-DOWN.

Hot Night looked a good deal heavier than when we saw him last at Ascot, and were he in the Cambridgeshire one could be terrified to oppose him. He is a really good middle distance colt. It was unfortunate for Sir Abe Bailey that Son and Heir should have broken down, because he is in the Cesarewitch with 6-12, and he would have become a well-fancied candidate.

Outside the winner, it is hard to be enthusiastic about anything that ran in the race. Blue Boy was really well fancied, and he ran well for a mile and a quarter. Trelawney was in front for a long way and then snuffed out, as might have been expected. A rough deduction from the classic races that have been run this season is that the three-year-olds are moderate. One cannot be dogmatic about Call Boy because he won the Derby so easily, yet horses who were upsides with him in the Guineas have not gained any distinction since. His admirers claim that he would have won the Eclipse had he been eligible to run, but I prefer to believe that Colorado would have slaughtered him.

It was a satisfactory St. Leger on the whole. Lord Astor, who owns Book Law, was not winning out of his turn. His odds-on chances, Buchan and Craig an Eran, were beaten, and St. Germans could not run on account of an epidemic of coughing which broke out in the stable. Buchan's daughter has, however, made full amends. Book Law was the last horse that Alec Taylor will ever saddle in a classic race, and he has rounded off a wonderful career as a trainer of the best sort of horses with a winner, which is as it should be.

A DOUBLE FOR RICHARDS.

The remarkable Richards, who rode three winners yesterday, started to-day by riding the first two. On Lord Howard de Walden's Sundry he took the Cleveland Handicap by a neck from Medal, and then he won the Milton Selling Handicap on Cynos, a well-known son of Argos, who beat Irish Note by half a length.

A son of Battle-axe, bred at the Ballykisteen Stud, Umslopagaas, won the Bradgate Park Nursery by half a length from the favourite, Kentish Plover. He was always going a little better than the favourite in what was a two-horse race, with Porthole threatening danger, and won comfortably.

The Irish-bred colt, Yeomanstown, looked all over a winner of the Tattersall Sale Stakes until he began to edge away from the centre of the course. When he had finished edging off to the left he was on the far rails, six lengths behind Roman Market, a nice-looking Roi Herode filly.

The race for the Rufford Abbey Handicap was comfortably won by Book Law's jockey, Jelliss, on Lightning Artist, from the Manton stable. Jelliss rode a most confident race on him, sending him to the front as soon as they entered the straight, and then going on to win easily from the Loch Lomond colt, Ballyscanlon, a son of Argos in Adieu dashing up at the last moment to keep Battler out of third place. On his showing to-day Lightning Artist must be counted as having a good chance in the Cesarewitch, and so must Adieu.

THE PORTLAND HANDICAP.

To-morrow the Portland Handicap is the most interesting event, and with the going soft a good chance must be given to the top-weight, Highborn II., who is at his best under such conditions. Nice Prospect did not seem to like the going at York when Highborn beat him, and even at the altered weights Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen's colt may beat him again. Nice Prospect runs in preference to Tag End. Queen's Bower, who was second in the Stewards' Cup, has a chance, and Endowment will be a very popular fancy. Nipisiquit should finish where she does. Il Duce is a lightly weighted son of The Boss who is likely to do well, but I shall choose HIGHBORN II. to beat the lot in a race in which top weights as a rule distinguish themselves.

There will be a big field of two-year-olds for the Rous Memorial Plate, and EXETER, who has no penalties, may be the best of them. On his form in the Prix du President at St. Cloud with Nino, who finished close up to Embargo at Ostend, the French colt BANSTAR should win the Alexandra Handicap. The top weight, GOLDEN ARABY, may win the Princess Mary Stakes, but she is no "good thing" in such going. The Irish filly, Maeve, is expected to run well for this.

KING BIRD, who won the National Produce Stakes at the Curragh last year, has a good chance in the Wharncliffe Handicap.

Why Prester John Was Absent.

Prester John was not saddled for the St. Leger, as his trainer thought the going was too soft for him.

Irish Colt for India.

The Press Association's Curragh Correspondent states that Mr. H. M. Hartigan's Roseault, a two-year-old colt by Hainault out of Rosina, has been sold to go to India, and has left his late owner's stables at Ruanbeg, Kildare, for embarkation. The colt has only one success to his credit, this being in the Ashtown Plate at Phœnix Park on April 2 on the occasion of his début.

Jockey Reprimanded.

After the Sutton Handicap at Gatwick on August 27th A. Wragg complained to the Stewards that J. Dines struck him with his whip after the race. Dines admitted having done so, and the Stewards reported him to the Stewards of the Jockey Club. The case was gone into at Doncaster yesterday by the Stewards of the Jockey Club, who severely reprimanded Dines, and, in addition, fined him £10.

Betting—2 to 1 agst. Medal, 9 to 2 SUNDRY, 100 to 12 each White Maize and Elcho, 10 to 1 each Fancy Free, Sapor, and Oriental Knight; 100 to 8 each Galadeer and Pommaria, 20 to 1 any other.

White Maize cut out the work, closely attended by Voice Box, Sundry, Galadeer, Elcho and Fancy Free, with Dazzler and Pommaria heading the others. On settling down, Sundry joined White Maize, with Voice Box just in front of Elcho and Fancy Free. A quarter of a mile from home Voice Box and White Maize were beaten, and Fancy Free, Medal and Elcho drew up to Sundry. Fancy Free weakened at the distance, where Medal took second place, and challenged. Resisting the effort, Sundry won by a neck; one length separated second and third. Hera was fourth, Elcho fifth, White Maize sixth, Oriental Knight seventh, Fancy Free eighth, Dazzler ninth, Faraway tenth, Galadeer eleventh, By-Word twelfth, Lanson thirteenth, and Sapor last.

Off 3.19. (Winner trained by A. Taylor.)

Betting—7 to 4 agst. BOOK LAW, 4 to 1 Hot Night, 100 to 8 each Blue Boy and Shian Mor, 100 to 7 Tattoo, 100 to 6 Buckfast, 20 to 1 each Caporal, Mario, Restigouche, Grande Vitesse, and Silverstead; 25 to 1 Son and Heir, 33 to 1 Baralong, 40 to 1 Trelawny, 50 to 1 Jugo, 100 to 1 Start II. No special place betting.

THE RACE.

Son and Heir broke the tapes, but little time was lost, a good start being effected. Grande Vitesse, who was drawn on the inside, was the first to strike off, attended by Trelawny, Blue Boy, Book Law, Shian Mor, Restigouche, Son and Heir, Hot Night, Start II. and Caporal, with Silverstead, Tattoo and Jugo in the rear. After going three furlongs Trelawny drew up to Grande Vitesse and the pair went on from Book Law, Baralong, Shian Mor and Restigouche, with Silverstead last. At the top turn Trelawny took half-a-length lead of Grande Vitesse, followed by Book Law, and in this order they raced along the back stretch. Silverstead and Hot Night improved their positions shortly before the turn. Making the bend Trelawny cracked and Book Law joined Grande Vitesse. Shortly afterwards the last-named weakened, and Book Law came on from Baralong, with Hot Night on the outside, and Son and Heir (who broke down at this turn), Shian Mor and Blue Boy next. Hot Night joined Book Law a quarter of a mile from home, and just over a hundred yards they raced together until Book Law, drawing ahead, went on from Hot Night and Son and Heir (who ran on gamely) to win comfortably by three lengths; five lengths seperated second and third. Shian Mor was fourth, Silverstead fifth, Grande Vitesse sixth, Baralong seventh, Caporal eighth, Blue Boy ninth, Start II. tenth, Tattoo eleventh, Buckfast twelfth, Restigouche thirteenth, and Trelawny last, except Jugo, who trotted in a furlong behind. Time, 3 min. 14 2-5 secs.

Draw for places:—1 (inside), Grande Vitesse; 2, Blue Boy; 3, Trelawny; 4, Book Law; 5, Shian Mor; 6, Son and Heir; 7, Mario; 8, Start II.; 9, Restigouche; 10, Silverstead; 11, Jugo; 12, Hot Night; 13, Buckfast; 14, Caporal; 15, Tattoo; 16, Baralong.

BOOK LAW'S VICTORY.

The victory of Book Law in the last of the season's "Classics" was a very popular one, and, among the first to congratulate Lord Astor on his filly's success were H.H. the Aga Khan and Lord Lascelles. Lord Astor was, of course, immensely delighted, as this was the first time his colours have been carried successfully in the race, and on previous occasions, notably when Crag-an-Earn and Buchan represented him, he was extremely unlucky.

Alec Taylor, the filly's trainer, said to a Press representative after the race:—"I am very gratified to have won this race for Lord Astor. I tried to do so for him many times, and he has had really bad luck in this particular event. I am retiring, as you know, at the end of this season, so this will be the last 'Classic' candidate I shall saddle. I will, however, continue to hold a watching brief for the Manton stable."

Major Gerald Deane, who manages Lord Astor's horses, said:—"Book Law is the most placid and sweet-dispositioned animal possible to have anything to do with. We estimate that she has come on quite a stone since winning her second race at Goodwood. She is a mass of energy when she goes on a racecourse, yet takes nothing out of herself. Yesterday she was slightly amiss, but went splendidly in her exercise this morning. She will run next, all being well, in the Jockey Club Stakes."

J. Crawford, the trainer of Hot Night, said:—"I am absolutely satisfied with the way my horse ran. He has been extremely unfortunate to be running as a three-year-old in 1927. In any ordinary year he would have won two or three 'Classic' events."

LAWN TENNIS.

THE DAVIS CUP.

CHALLENGE ROUND TO-DAY.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday.

W. M. Johnston (U.S.A.) will play Rene Lacoste (France) and W. T. Tilden (U.S.A.) will play Henri Cochet (France) in the opening singles matches of the Davis Cup challenge round, which begins to-morrow.

JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIPS AT WIMBLEDON.

There were many extremely good matches and a few surprises in the Junior Championships at Wimbledon yesterday, and one of them was the defeat of J. W. Nuthall. He was beaten by E. K. Hanson, a good Yorkshire left-handed player, in a three-set match. Hanson, in turn, was beaten in the fourth round by G. E. M. de St. Croix, the Junior Champion of Sussex. J. L. H. Fletcher, also a left-handed player, a brother of the Oxford captain, is a fancied candidate, and he will be opposed in the fifth round by F. H. D. Wilde, the "dark horse" of the championship, who has lost only ten games in the four matches which have carried him to this stage.

The last eight in the Girls' Championship are Miss Joan Ingram, Miss N. Mackintosh (Scottish Junior Champion), Miss P. Burt, Miss W. A. James, Miss N. E. Organ, Miss S. Noel, Miss B. W. Bridges, and Miss F. E. Abelson.

RETURN OF WIGHTMAN CUP TEAM.

When the Berengaria reached Southampton yesterday the English Wightman Cup team was accorded a welcome of a warmth usually reserved for victors.

Miss Betty Nuthall, of course, was the heroine, but the other members of the team shared in the enthusiasm shown at Waterloo, where the attendance included many of the leading players.

GAELIC GAMES.

G.H.Q. JUNIOR LEAGUES.

Yesterday at the hurling ground Artillery Corps scored a double victory over McKee Barracks.

In hurling Shortall, Lynch, Quinn, O'Connell and Larkin scored; whilst Wall and Cully registered for McKee.

In the football game Vickery, McCormack, and Hand were the scorers, whilst Knowle secured McKee's solitary score. Results:—

Hurling—Artillery Corps 2-5, McKee 0-2; Baldonnel w.o., G.H.Q. scr.

Football—Artillery Corps 2-3, McKee 0-1; Baldonnel w.o., G.H.Q. scr.

DONCASTER SALES.

DILIGENCE COLT FETCHES 6,500 GUINEAS.

A more miserable, wet morning than was experienced when the yearling sales were resumed at the Glasgow Paddocks, Doncaster, yesterday, could hardly be conceived. Happily conditions improved as the morning wore on, and by the time the important lots came on for disposal the ring was thickly lined. Among the early lots, a colt by Capathus—Struma, from the Manor House and Spigot Lodge Studs, made 660 guineas to Mr. E. Schaverien. The Forerunner filly—Bold Lily was led out unsold at 900 guineas, but Mr. W. J. Bellerby went to 1,000 guineas for a bay colt by Abbots Trace—La Flotte. The next two lots did not touch anything like the reserve placed upon them, but Mr. M. McKinley secured Flight-Lieutenant, a colt by Captain Fracasse—Lady Thrush, for 400 guineas. Mr. S. Wootton took for 350 guineas the colt by Spearwort—My Honey, from the Theakston Hall Stud. A much better one, however, was the Golden Sun filly—Poste Haste, who was purchased by Sir H. Cunliffe-Owen for 800 guineas. The majority of the others from this stud were only moderate, and those sold only realised small sums.

A filly by Simon Pure—Maranon, from the Tickford Park Stud, found a ready buyer in Lord Sefton at 1,000 guineas. It is understood that the purchase was made on behalf of Sir Abe Bailey.

It was eleven o'clock before the yearlings from the Worksop Manor Stud, the property of Sir John Robinson, were introduced. There was some spirited bidding when the colt by Papyrus—Lady Peregrine was put forward, Sir Lawrence Phillipps securing it at 6,100 guineas. Sir L. Phillipps proceeded to secure the colt by Flamboyant—St. Genevieve, who realised 2,400 guineas.

The filly by The Boss—Too Shy that headed Mr. J. Ladley's group went to Captain Hogg for 460 guineas, and Felix Leach, sen. gave 750 guineas for the filly by Friar Marcus—Hazy Dawn. Mrs. J. Ladley put up a charming colt by Blink—Heroine's Dream, and he went cheaply to Mr. E. C. Sykes for 400 guineas. After Mr. C. F. P. Creed had secured the first two lots from the Kimmage Stud, Hazel Gain, a bay colt by Gainsborough—Miss Hazelwood who had the reputation of putting up one of the fastest times on record in the Irish Oaks, appealed to several; but after both W. Walters and M. D. Peacock, on behalf of Sir E. Tate, had retired, the B.B.A. became the purchasers at 3,700 gns. W. Walters was more fortunate with next lot, Tutrus, a filly by Papyrus—Miss Tut-Tut, dam of Tutbury, getting her for 2,100 guineas. Lord Derby became interested in Barabas, by Flamboyant—Communicative, from the Esher Plate stud, and he did not have much trouble in getting the filly for 1,250 guineas.

The first of the lots catalogued by General Sir Bruce Hamilton, called Faster Still, a colt by Hurry On—Belfast, is well bred, and H. S. Persse got a bargain at 2,300 guineas. Mr. L. Schaverein then claimed Captain Desmond, a Captain Cuttle colt, for 950 guineas.

Mr. M. Quinlan sent up two, and after the first, a filly by Hainault—Kate Kearney had been sold to O. Bell for 450 guineas, the other, a chestnut colt by Diligence—Credenda, went to Norman Scobie on behalf of Sir Charles Hyde at 6,500 guineas. Details:—

RUGBY.

NEW SOUTH WALES TEAM ON TOUR.

FIRST MATCH AGAINST PLYMOUTH ALBION.

In their first trial the New South Wales were given a tremendous testing by Plymouth Albion, 7,000 spectators witnessing a game of thrilling, fast Rugby, which the tourists won by 21 points to 11 points.

The visitors played twenty-seven of their men, rearranging their team with fresh men at the interval.

In the Albion's play they were given a striking example of British club Rugby, and it was only their effectiveness in accepting chances which gave them such a margin of victory. They revealed pace and strength all round, their clever, close passing at top speed being impressive. They played the orthodox formation, with eight scrimmagers, and every player, in the face of Albion's play, had to show his utmost ability. Albion played with an unchanged team at a gruelling pace.

For the visitors Bowers and Gordon, powerful wing three-quarters, scored twice each; Wallace also scored, and Lawton converted three times. For Albion Jago (twice) and Gummer scored, Stanbury converting once. Ideal conditions favoured the game.

New South Wales—3 goals, 2 tries (21 pts.).
Plymouth Albion—1 goal, 2 tries (11 pts.).

PALMERSTON CLUB.

Opening practice on Saturday at Clonskea at 3 o'clock. It is hoped that all playing members will turn out, and intending members are invited.

WATER POLO.

LEINSTER JUNIOR CUP—FIRST ROUND.

The match between Clontarf 2nd and Sandycove 2nd at Clontarf on the 29th August, having been declared void by the Council of the Leinster Branch last night, will be replayed at Clontarf Baths this evening at 7 o'clock. Mr. H. G. Ellerker will referee.

Pembroke players are requested to note that they will meet the winners of to-night's game in the semi-final on Monday next. The venue will depend on whether Clontarf or Sandycove are successful this evening.

The following members of Clontarf are requested to be at Clontarf Baths to-night at 6.45 o'clock to meet Sandycove 2nd in the replayed first round of the Junior Cup—P. H. Looney; H. Healy, M. Powell, P. J. Lavery (captain), E. A. Roche, R. N. Case, T. A. O'Reilly, J. B. Mulally, A. McCombe, H. McEvoy.

DRAWN MATCH AT RATHMINES.

The return match between Leinster and Dublin University Long Vacation, played yesterday at Rathmines, resulted in a draw rather in favour of the students, who, having declared with 3 wickets down for 179, got eight of the home wickets for 140.

T. G. McVeagh, who scored 50, and, in a partnership with C. Nunns, put on 94 for the first wicket, reached his 1,000 runs for the season. T. H. Dixon, bowling throughout the Leinster innings, took 5 wickets for 26 runs. Score:—

GREYHOUND RACING.

EASY WIN FOR SPLONK.

Backers of first favourites had a right good time at Shelbourne Park last night, five of the most fancied candidates winning out of the six events. The night's racing, possessing no outstanding feature, was most entertaining, and was witnessed by a large gathering.

Splonk, the winner of the No. 2 Hurdle, was the best performer of the night, and his display over the jumps was faultless.

Wish for Speed, a smart daughter of Cheerful Speed, won the Shelbourne Stake in most impressive style, coming from a long way behind to pass the judge three lengths to the good. Details:—

GOOD AS GOLD IN NEW ROLE.

Last coursing season one of the best dogs was Good as Gold, which hails from Cork, and was one of the fancied candidates for the National Produce Stakes at Clonmel. Good as Gold has now changed hands at a record price of £400, and is expected to run at Shelbourne Park at the Civic Week meeting.

KIDDIE AND OUTRUNNER MATCHED.

A match has been arranged over hurdles, and will take place on Monday night, between Kiddie, who was recently purchased by Mrs. Collins, and Mr. Doyle's Outrunner. The stake is £50 a side, and the company is presenting a cup.

GOLF.

THE £1,000 TOURNAMENT.

QUALIFYING STAGES.

Three of the sectional qualifying competitions for the match stages of the £1,040 tournament which takes place at Walton Heath on September 20, etc., were carried through yesterday. The Northern (England) Section competed for fourteen places on the Huddersfield course at Fixby, the Midland Section for ten places at Harborne, Birmingham, and the Irish for one place at Belfast. In conjunction with the Midland tournament the Midland Professional Championship was decided.

The scores were so good at Harborne that only players who were able to return aggregates of 151 or better got their places in the final stages. Archie Compston and Tom Barber (Cavendish) led the team with a total of 147 each, and will have to play off for the Midland Championship. W. Firkins, an unattached professional, created a record for the course with his first round of 70, which made him safe for qualification, even though he broke down in the second round.

The following qualified:—Archie Compston (unattached), 75, 72, 147; T. Barber (Cavendish), 74, 73, 147; B. G. Bembridge (Grimsby), 73, 75, 148; P. F. Weston (Birstal), 74, 75, 149; A. R. Wheildon (Moseley), 72, 77, 149; W. Firkins (unattached), 70, 80, 150; H. L. Sutton (Streetley), 77, 73, 150; S. Godfrey (Brand Hall), 75, 75, 150; L. Herrington (Abbeydale), 75, 75, 150; Tom Williamson (Notts), 77, 74, 151.

Sid Ball, senior, led the field in the Northern section. With his afternoon round of 73 he lowered the record for the course. His score was two strokes better than that of his nearest opponent, H. Large (St. Helens), while J. Jarman (Ravensworth) was third, a stroke behind with 154. Players with scores of 158 or better were able to qualify, while three competitors who came in with totals of 159 had to replay a tie for one place.

DOG RUNS AWAY WITH THE BALL.

Two players had the misfortune to suffer disqualification. In each instance the ball could not be found in the rough, and both men discovering another ball which they had thought to be their own had incurred the penalty of disqualification before discovering their errors. Another competitor, H. Watts (Meltham) had an experience which might have cost him his place in the qualifying list. As it was, he got in with a stroke to spare. He had hit a good iron shot, which appeared to finish near the green, and as the ball came to rest a dog ran across the course, picked up the ball and carried it off. Since it was not retrieved Watts had to play it as a lost ball. He took 7 for the hole but finished in 79.

THE IRISH SECTION.

The single place in the Irish section was secured by S. Fairweather (Malone) at Shandon Park, Belfast. He had two excellent rounds of 69, and finished two strokes ahead of L. Wallace (Royal Belfast), who had two 70's. The leading scores were:—S. Fairweather (Malone)—69, 69=138; L. Wallace (Royal Belfast)—70, 70=140; H. Hammill (Ormeau)—72, 70=142; C. W. Pope (Fortwilliam)—72, 72=144; J. Hamill (Bangor)—72, 72=144.

THE WELSH AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

D. R. Lewis (Ashburnham) will to-day defend his title as amateur champion of Wales against J. Lyndon Jones (Cardiff). In the semi-final stage at Tenby yesterday he opposed C. E. L. Fairchild (Bangor), a former champion, and won on the 17th green. Jones beat T. S. Morris (Pennard) in the fifth round.

FLYING GOLFERS.

The first meeting of the flying golfers will be held to-day on the Royal West Norfolk course, Brancaster, and not at Luffenham Heath, as formerly announced. Competitors, who must travel by light aeroplane, and land either on the sands or on the golf course, have to cover a minimum of one hundred miles in the air before playing.

THE GERMAN AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

T. A. Torrance (Sandy Lodge) beat W. A. Murray (West Hill) at the 37th hole in the final of the German Amateur Championship on the Berlin Club's course yesterday.

The players were level at the end of 36 holes, but Torrance won on the next green. He was two up at the tenth, but Murray won the next two to square. Thereafter there was a great struggle for supremacy.

THE JUBILEE VASE.

Cyril J. H. Tolley, the back marker at plus 2, won his way into the fifth round of the Jubilee Vase Match Play Tournament of the Royal and Ancient Club at St. Andrews yesterday. He defeated Lord Ilkestone (14) in the third round, and also won comfortably from Capt. MacAllan (3) in the fourth stage. J. Gordon Simpson (+1), Lieut.-Col. Tate (scr.), A. M. Vagliano (scr.), and H. E. Taylor (scr.) were amongst those who will appear in the fifth round.

MOTOR CYCLING.

THE AMATEUR TOURIST TROPHY.

The Amateur Road Race Championship, popularly known as the Amateur Tourist Trophy, under the management of the Manx Motor Cycle Club, takes place to-day in the Isle of Man, over the same course as is used for the T.T. Races. Six laps will be covered, making a total of approximately 225 miles. The race is run on the same lines as the Tourist Trophy Races, save that all the competitors race together, irrespective of the capacities of their engines, the limit of engine size being 500 cubic centimetres capacity.

In addition to the championship award there is a special cup for the first rider of a machine under 350 c.c. to finish, and of the 75 machines entered 22 are of this capacity, the remaining 53 being of the 500 c.c. class. In the inaugural race there were 31 starters, in 1924 47, in 1925 27, and last year 50.

Three members of the Dublin and District Club—namely, P. J. Kehoe, 350 c.c. A.J.S.; P. J. Leonard, 350 c.c. Royal Enfield; and E. F. Hewison, 350 c.c. Velocette—are entered as a team. Unfortunately, Hewison will be unable to compete, as he received injuries in practising on Monday last. He has, however, been able to leave the hospital, and will see the race as a spectator. Kehoe and Leonard will, therefore, ride in their individual capacities.

SHIP CAPTAIN'S TOBACCO.

A BELFAST PROSECUTION.

Roderick Murchison, master of the ship Invergordon, which has arrived in Belfast from Southampton, on a voyage from Tampico, Mexico, was charged at the Belfast Police Court yesterday with concealing goods liable to duty.

Chief Preventive Officer Creighton appeared to prosecute, and called witnesses who had searched the defendant's cabin. These stated that they had discovered 5lbs. of tobacco and ¼lb. of cigars in the apartment.

The prisoner admitted the offence.

Mr. Toppin, R.M., said that the accused was liable to a penalty of £100, but they were asked to make it treble the value. The fine, therefore, would be £12 7s., which the accused would have to pay.

CHILDREN "A NECESSARY EVIL."

"Windy Arbour," said a police sergeant in his evidence in a case at Dundrum District Court yesterday against a motorist who was alleged to have driven at a speed of thirty miles an hour, "is infested with children, and consequently the speed was dangerous."

The Justice (Mr. McCarthy)—Do not say "infested." Children are a necessary evil. (Laughter.)

The sergeant conceding that the defendant was usually very careful, the Justice said that he would find the facts proved, but would not record a conviction.
